Speaking Of . . .

Sharon LaCoursiere

. . . Be Part of the Program or Pay the Piggy

I grew up in a post-depression, post-World War II family and learned how to be frugal. I have taken a lot of ribbing from my family about my frugal habits over the past years. I have been a frugal person in a throw-away world, but.. things are changing.

When I was growing up we saved things and reused them. Milk was delivered in bottles that we set outside the door for the milk man to take back to be washed and reused by the dairy. We saved other types of bottles and jars and used them again ourselves. Other things were saved too, little things, like string, rubber bands, aluminum foil. We saved everything that might come in handy and used for some reason or another some day and things were thrown away only when absolutely useless.

Trash was minimal back in those days. Nothing came double and triple wrapped in sticky plastic and plastic bubbles—there was no plastic. Plain old paper was used to wrap up food at the grocery store counter, tied with string, and other things came in reusable bottles and jars or burnable paper boxes and bags. Plain waxed paper was used instead of the plastic wrap we use today.

My children have always criticized my parsimonious practices. They don't say so much about it, but I have seen the way they look at me. They roll their eyes and I know they think I am being stingy when I wash and tuck away used aluminum foil, plastic meat trays, glass and plastic jars, whipped topping containers and the rubber bands from broccoli and what little string I can get my hands on.

Part of the problem is that I do not have much cupboard space, so I haven't had places to store all of these wonderfully reusable items. I have tried to keep them tucked away neatly, but, inevitably, they take over the kitchen counters and the kids don't like that.

My children get particularly out of sorts with me when they try to clean up the house and run into my reusable goodies that are sitting around waiting to be put away. Sometimes they stack them up in the middle of the floor, forcing me to do something with them or trip over them. Other times they just throw them away.

The point is, I have been seeing signs that times are changing and frugality is coming back in style and so am I with my thrifty saving habits, and I think it is wonderful.

The environmental movement is here and it is stylish to be economical and recycle and reuse as many things as possible in order to save the planet. Soon everyone will be saving aluminum foil and string and the rubber bands from broccoli. Soon people who do not save things will be looked at strangely and frowned upon. I can hardly wait for that day!

A good example of what I mean is that we are being advised that after July 1 of this year each household will be charged garbage rates for the bags of trash that each household generates. I think this is a good idea.

For years I stomped on milk cartons and cereal boxes to make more room in trash bags. I tried to recycle soda pop cans and newspapers and magazines. My children scoffed at my conservative efforts and refused to join me in my endeavors, so I soon stopped trying.

I'm ashamed to say that for a while I adopted their poor trash habits of tossing everything into the trash can, whether it was reusable or recyclable or squashed and/or washed, or not.

Now I am going to start over again, and my children are going to have to learn how to recycle and reuse and stomp on the milk cartons and cereal boxes and recycle the cans and newspapers, as well as learn how to save plastic containers and glass jars and aluminum foil and rubber bands. There is no way I am going to pay for a trash bag that is half filled with trash and half filled with air.

I plan on making some rules around our house about half-filled trash bags and things that can be recycled and reused but aren't. I plan to have a piggy bank sitting around for fines for not obeying those rules.

I can hardly wait for the day. Yes, the throw-away society is going out on its ear and we frugal people are coming in like a bolt of lightning. Watch out, kids, here I come—with my piggy bank in hand.

Romance writer gives Valentine's Day presentation

"Romancing the Nineties," a humorous and informative talk on the field of romance writing, will be presented by romance writer Sandra Arnau DeWar Sunday, February 14, at 2 p.m. at the Thief River Falls public library. The program is free of charge and refreshments will be served.

A graduate of UCLA in comparative literature, DeWar published her book "Conquer the Memories," through Silhouette Books and has written several short stories. After becoming a mother she found her time limited and sought new avenues for her creativity. She became a reader/editor for Silhouette Books.

"It gives me a wonderful feeling to know that my reports may help another author become published," she said, adding that the job keeps her current with changing trends in the romance field.

At Sunday's program she will discuss her experiences as a writer and reader and offer tips on what editors look for and encouragement to new writers.

"Writing romances isn't as easy as people would like to believe," she said. "The competition is stiff, full of competitors who have researched their market carefully. To get published in the romance field today, you need talent, drive and luck. You also need to know exactly what the editors are looking for."

Impressions . . .

Beth Johnson

This is the week of Valentine's Day. Next Sunday, February the 14th, candy hearts and heartfelt cards will be shared among those who love.

How do we count the ways we love? Love does not lend itself too readily to definition for everyone loves in their own ways.

Remember the childhood rhyme, he loves me, he loves me not, he loves me, he loves me not, he loves me??? How many of us have dreamed of our true love as we counted the petals of a daisy?

But, love is more than counting daisy petals. Love is surrounded by life. Life determines how we love.

A baby is the epitome of love. A baby thrives as parents love it. A baby evokes smiles of love from even the crustiest people. A baby needs the love and kindness of adults to live. To a baby, love is life.

A baby is not always the creator of loving feelings. When the baby cries and cries and generally disturbs one's rest and life, it is oh so easy to give up on the love that baby needs. Loving a baby, inspite of the colic and constant care, is truly love.

But, we are not all surrounded by babies. Some of us have children, young and old, who need our love. Can we remember to love even when they throw temper tantrums? Can we remember to love even when they are disobedient? Can we remember to show self control when we would like not to? Can we remember that they are taking our actions and learning from our actions how they too should love?

Children, babies, young people, are perhaps the easiest in life to love. Life, though, surrounds us with a myraid of persons. Some of the people in our lives we find easier to love than others. Some are just plain hard to love. But, easy or not, we love those around us.

How do we love? It would be nigh unto impossible to count the ways in which we love. Love is expressed in the tender look and touch of those newly in love. Love is expressed in the tearful farewell to those who have loved us and whom we have loved for a lifetime.

Love is also expressed in the time we spend with a stranger lending a friendly hand. Love is expressed when food is donated to the food shelter. Love is expressed in the community concern we turn into community action to correct a wrong, or improve a park.

Love is expressed in time spent cooling a fevered child. Love is expressed in healing a broken heart or a broken bone. Love is expressed in the jobs we do when we do them to the best of our abilities.

Love is expressed in worry. What parent doesn't worry? We worry even when our children are grown. Love is also expressed in encouragement. Sometimes that encouragement will take a loved one far away from us. Truly love is great when loved ones can send their blessing with the one leaving.

This Valentine's Day, think about those you love. Find a special way to let them know you really do love them. A box of candy is great, and so are cards and flowers. But, it's in the living of our lives, daily, that our love for each other is shown.

Time is short. This week we bade farewell to my husband's mother. She lived a long life. She loved her children, each in her own way. They can, each in turn, share the love they received from their childhood with their own children.

Express your love to those around you this Valentine's Day. Life is temporary. Love while you have life.

Say What?!

By Karmen Lee Ortloff

I AM BACK!

Now, when I say that I am back, I do not just mean that I am back writing "Say What?!" But I am back, as in I was away. (I hope you noticed.)

I was out in Washington, D.C. Home of Democratic President Bill Clinton.

Washington was truly an amazing city, but before I get into all that I did, allow me to tell you the ordeals I had to overcome in order to get there.

First of all, let me just say that I am not one of those people who believes in being organized and packing a week, a day, or even six hours before a scheduled departure. No, not me. I much prefer to start packing literally 15 minutes after I was supposed to leave. This poses a couple of problems. (1) I tend to leave too late and I ALWAYS forget to pack my toothbrush ( a very disgusting thought considering how long I was to stay in Washington), and (2) I fear for my mother's health, particularly her heart.

I did eventually get to the airport, late though I was, and check in my baggage. The good thing about leaving late is there is not a long wait for your plane to come in. I only had 15 minutes to wait.

"(Airline that shall remain nameless)'s flight 1313 will be running forty-five minutes late due to mechanical problems." I knew that I didn't have to be to the airport on time! The flight number should have given me a clue as to what was to come. (All right, my flight number wasn't 1313, but it should have been!)

When it was finally time to board the plane, I realized there is no such thing as simplicity when it comes to traveling.

There are those darned metal detectors. Granted, I am happy they are there and Icelandic terrorist groups cannot harm me, but I wish they would come with instructions.

This was my first time flying and so I walked right through the thing with pockets full of nickels, gum wrappers and backs of earrings. It took me seven and a half minutes to get through the metal detector. A hint to all who travel: clean out your pockets BEFORE you leave. It will save you much embarrassment!

Anyway, I finally got on my flight and I was seated to the window, so I could see everything. As we rounded the corner and centered ourselves on the runway for take-off, I suddenly realized something. This runway is not long enough for us to become airborn. Maybe if it had a ramp or something, but it was just flat. Myself, 149 other passengers, three flight attendants, and a pilot (who happened to be woman, which I thought was very liberating!) were all going to die because someone failed to lay enough asphalt. This was a most saddening thought, but, at least my mom could sue the airline and my brother and sister could go to college because of my tragic death.

As the engines fired up and forces sucked all my skin from seat 9-F to 16-B, I realized, "Maybe this runway is long enough after all." I told you, it was my first time flying!

The first plane was pleasant, albeit 45 minutes late. It was my connecting flight to D.C. National that was hell. Fortunately, I was ready for anything thanks to those pre-flight safety precautions. Funny thing, I seemed to be the only one following along with the manual conveniently located in the front pocket of my seat.

I learned a lot! For instance, did you know that it was unsafe to open an overhead storage compartment without securing yourself first, as some shifting may occur during flight. In the case of an emergency, oxygen masks will fall in front of you; secure your mask before attempting to help anyone else (that's right, leave grandma to fend for herself! Who says chivalry is dead?). Furthermore, had I been seated on the aisle, I would have had special duties to perform; if I was unable to perform these duties, I was to consult a flight attendant who would move me to another seat. (I think they expected me to do a somersault or some other difficult task.)

Because of the delay, I had approximately 12 minutes to get off my plane, walk roughly 17 miles to gate 63, and make my connecting flight.

I thought I could do it, after all, I was in seat 9-F, darn close to the front of the cabin if you ask me. All of a sudden the aisle was flooded with people from rows 20 and 21. Hey! It's not fair, those people didn't wait for the pilot (did I mention she was a woman, a very liberating thought) to turn off the seatbelt sign, signaling it was safe to move about the cabin. Because everyone on my flight was a bunch of cheaters, I was the third to the last person off. (I nudged in front of two old men who quite frankly, didn't seem to mind.)

I grabbed my carry on which contained slightly less than my entire room, and dashed to gate 63. I had just made it!

As I boarded my connecting plane, I noticed someone familiar. At first, I couldn't place the face, but all of a sudden it dawned on me....Senator Byron Dorgan! I don't think I need to mention the fact that Dorgan is one of the coolest Senators in Washington. Nor do I have to mention that he is a Democrat. Well, I like politics and I enjoy meeting politicians. However, I had never met Dorgan before and I basicly shook his arm off.

"Wow! Senator Dorgan! I can't believe that you are on MY flight! Are you going out to Washington? What am I saying, of course you're going to Washington, how silly. You know, I really admire you Senator Dorgan. I watched you debate what's his name of Channel 4 and you were awesome! I would have voted for you, but I'm from Minnesota, too bad, huh? Ever think about maybe crossing the bridge and taking up residence in Thief River Falls?" I said all that and more in roughly three seconds. I tend to pride myself on acting professional in all situations, but for gosh sakes, this was Byron Dorgan. THE Byron Dorgan! (He looks much younger in person.)

Senator Dorgan was very cordial to me and listened to all I had to say. There was this look on his face that seemed to say, "People in North Dakota don't talk as fast as you!" After I made a complete donkey of myself (which by the way, is the Democrats' mascot—because they work hard), Senator Dorgan said, "Thank You. Thank you very much." Wow! Byron Dorgan is far better than that Elvis guy.

Anyway, when I finally got to my seat, which was next to a window again, my ordeal began.

First there was turbulence over Cleveland. Flying over Cleveland can be a scary experience in itself, but to have turbulence to deal with was just too much! I had to get up to go to the lavatory three times, much to the dislike of the other two people in my row. I told them that I was served some bad ginger ale, which might have been the case for all I know.

Luckily, I did not get sick on the flight because my seat didn't even have (pardon my language) a barf bag. It would have been a bit of an inconvenience to ask for one had I felt the urge!

I barely survived the turbulence bit when all of a sudden it got mighty quiet next to me.

The pilot came on and said that there was a slight problem with the left engine, but not to worry, this sort of thing happens all of the time. Now, far be it for a first time flyer such as myself to pass judgement, but does it not make sense to fix the engine if it continually fails?

We did make it to Washington minus the left engine. We arrived at dusk, when all the monuments are lit up so you can see them from miles away and the entire city is absolutely beautiful!

As we got closer and closer to the ground, I noticed a puddle. As we neared it, I noticed it was not a puddle, it was a lake. Just as we were about to land, I knew that we had overshot Washington and were making a crash landing in the Atlantic Ocean.

I closed my eyes and started to pray. There was a thump. There was another thump, and another, and then the ride became smooth.

I opened my eyes and looked outside. We were safely on the runway at C.C. National Airport and looking out my window, I saw it was just a little pond next to the runway. I knew it all along...I did!

After finally arriving in Washington, I thought that my adventure was finally over. Huh! I am so naive! My adventure was only just beginning!

Well, would you look at this...I have used up all my space for this week's column. In order to find out all that happened to me in Washington, including my run-in with President Clinton, you'll just have to turn to my column next week! See you then!

ACTIVITIES

Valentines

Valentine's Day seems to be one of the most delightful days for young children. The holiday is all about showing love to other people by sharing a simple card or treat. To make the day meaningful for your child it is wise to allow him or her to help prepare the valentines for giving. This may be through writing his or her name on the valentines or even helping him or her make simple valentines.

You will need red and white paper, a scissors, glue and markers. Cut hearts out of the red paper and glue to the white paper. Then add a simple message or a picture and sign the child's name.

SCAVENGER HUNT

BOOK OF THE WEEK

Carlson, Nancy. The Mysterious Valentine. Unravel the mystery of who put a beautiful valentine in Louanne Pig's mailbox on Valentine's Day. "Who could her secret admirer be?"

Watson, Clyde. Valentine Foxes. Even thought Mama Fox goes to extremes to make this Valentine's Day the best one ever, one thing after another goes wrong. Find out how the baby fox, Little Dilly, surprisingly saves the day. The story ends with a recipe for a special valentine cake.

VIDEO VARIETY

Cranberry Valentine. this story radiates the warmth and charm of a small rural community. A delicious, easy-to-prepare recipe, made mostly with cranberries, is at the end of the story. One can almost smell the arona from Grandma's kitchen!

PARENTING TIPS

Television & Children

Television can be so convincing that children believe most of the things it tells and shows them. But since children aren't yet experienced in the ways of the world, they can't always distinguish between what is real and what is make believe. This can confuse and mislead. Children have been known to hurt not only themselves, but other people by imitating what the TV parent tells and shows them.

Television can prove harmful to children in other ways. Spending too much time in front of the set can cause children to become passive and unable to be creative.

Many parents worry about the "hidden" message of television. They hear that some programs teach negative attitudes toward women, minorities and other social groups. They are concerned about the commercials that push toys, junk food and sugared products.

Especially worrisome is the mounting evidence of the relationship between television violence and the increase in violence in our schools and communities.

There is no need to go to the extreme of forbidding any television viewing in your home. Rather you can decide to cut down on how much television your children watch.

Decide which kinds of programs they should watch and how often. If at all possible, watch some of the programs with them. This can frequently lead to family discussions of topics which might otherwise be neglected or postponed in day-to-day family life.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Plan your child's television viewing. Decide what you want your child to watch. When the program is over, turn the television off.

She was the only Thief River Falls skater to compete at the Duluth event.

Art exhibit at Northland

During Black History Month at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls in February, the artwork of Donald B. McRaven Jr. will be featured in an exhibit at the Northland art gallery. Gallery hours are 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

Currently a full professor in the art department of Moorhead State University and a Master of Fine Arts graduate from the University of Minnesota, McRaven originally planned to become a photographer. He found that no MFA degree was offered in photography and opted to major in drawing, printmaking and painting.

When first hired by MSU in 1972, he taught in both the art department and newly-formed minority studies department.

"I felt like two people for those five years I was in two departments," he said. "Part of the day I would tell students how beautiful the world was and then I'd go to the minority class and tell how the black people have been disenfranchised in America."

In the exhibit at Northland, McRaven's work depicts Gingko leaves—fan-shaped leaves which he describes as one of the most beautiful of nature's anamolies—and clothespins. In other work he shows some images generated on a computer.

Swensons donate to UND

to Grand Forks where Lowell became a partner in Homer Matheson Company and Marjorie became a part-time vocal instructor at UND.

Lowell and Marjorie moved to Thief River Falls in 1959 and Lowell became general manager of the Dow-Key company. An active promoter of economic development in Thief River Falls, Lowell was instrumental in encouraging the start-up of a snowmobile manufacturing company.

In 1965 he "put everything on the line" to buy out the fledgling company and became president and chief executive officer of Arctic Enterprises, Inc. He led the company through years of substantial growth and enjoyed the satisfaction of seeing Arctic Cat snowmobiles become popular sporting vehicles in northern climates. To achieve this rapid growth, the company went public and was listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

In 1977 he sold his interests in Arctic Enterprises, Inc., and retired from active management of the company.

He retained his interest in aviation after the war and, during his first several years of retirement, he helped his sons establish a regional airline, Mesaba Airlines. Mesaba is affiliated with Northwest Airlines as a designated airlink carrier serving a number of Midwestern cities. Lowell is a board member of the Minneapolis-based Air Tran, Inc., the parent company of Mesaba Airlines; of Arctco, Inc. of Thief River Falls; and of First National Bank of Baudette.

In 1988 Lowell and Marjorie established an aviation scholarship endowment within the UND Foundation. Through the years Lowell has had a special relationship with the University of North Dakota. In 1972 the UND Alumni Association bestowed on him its highest honor, the Sioux Award. From 1973 to 1982 he served on the UND Alumni Association and Foundation board of directors, and was president of the UND Foundation from 1980 to 1982. In 1991 Lowell received an honorary doctor of laws degree from UND.

Lowell and Marjorie have four children: David, Alan, Robert and Philip; and nine grandchildren.

Fishing-derby catches 300 people, 3 fish

Knights of Columbus fishing derby Sunday afternoon on the Red Lake river near the Eighth Street bridge in Thief River Falls attracted about 300 participants for the two-hour derby from 1 to 3 p.m.

Dane Jensen, 10-year-old son of Richard and Elaine Jensen, caught the first and largest fish of the event, a one-pound, 15-ounce northern pike. He received a fishing reel for catching the first fish, and a jacket and $50 savings bond for the largest fish caught.

Two other fish were caught later in the derby, including a one pounder by Dane's grandmother, Agnes Jensen.

Several years ago Dane's father caught the largest fish at the derby and his father, Roy Jensen, caught the first fish that year. Richard said he also won a $100 savings bond at another year's fishing derby, so the event has been active for his family.

Oldest fisherman at the derby Sunday was Sidney Engstrom, 88, and the youngest was Samanthe Oakland, one year old. Fisherman from the greatest distance was Michelle Christenson of Santa Maria, CA.

Ernie Thune won the top drawing award of $500 with $100 awards going to Tim Kessa, Goodridge; Karen Fossum, Trail; Harvey Welle, Mahnomen; and Brent Schmitz and Steven Olson, Thief River Falls.

Funds raised by the Knights of Columbus from the derby are used for St. Bernard's school activities and scholarships.

There's nothing like a cup of hot chocolate to help keep a young lady warm during a cool afternoon of ice fishing. This young lady at the Knights of Columbus fishing derby in Thief River Falls Sunday found it was good to the last drop—the one on her lower lip.

Judge Dan Bruggeman carefully checks the weight on the scale for the first fish caught at the Knights of Columbus fishing derby in Thief River Falls Sunday. Fisherman Dane Jensen was more interested in keeping his eye on his one pound, 15 ounce northern pike which held up as the biggest fish of the day.

An empty bucket made a handy rest for this pair of youngsters attending the Knights of Columbus fishing derby Sunday on the Red Lake river near the Eighth Street bridge.

Although well equipped with a large and orderly supply of lures, this young fisherman couldn't coax a fish to bite during the Knights of Columbus fishing derby in Thief River Falls Sunday.

Williams & Ree at Winter Shows

Country music singers and humorists Williams & Ree will appear in two performances Friday, February 12, at 3 and 7 p.m. at the Red River Valley Winter Shows in Crookston.

Known most frequently as "The White Guy and the Indian," the pair has performed together since college days in 1968, entertaining from coast to coast and sharing stages with such superstars as Garth Brooks, the Oak Ridge Boys and Randy Travis.

Terry Ree is a direct descendant of Sioux chiefs in the area of Pierre, SD. Bruce Williams is a Scandinavian descendant from Mountain Home, Idaho. Their program is a fast-paced mixture of comedy bits, social and political commentary, racial quips and original songs.

In 1990-91 they were regulars on the "Hee Haw" show and had nominations from Music City News Awards not only for Comedians of the Year but for Best Vocal Duo.

"We have an act," Ree says. "We do songs; we do comedy; we do humor and people laugh.....well, most of the people laugh!"

General admission to the Winter Shows will be $5 for adults and $3 for students with no additional cost to see the Williams & Ree show.

Mock trial team seeks second win this week

by Mark Olsoo
Staff Writer

Some students compete on the basketball court, others battle on the football field, but one team dukes it out in the courtroom.

"It's like playing Roseau in hockey," said Jenny Nicholson, a defense witness.

The Lincoln High School meck trial team is fresh from last week's 191 to 156 victory against the Norman County East meck trial team.

The 8-member team hopes to beat the Frazee meck trial team this Thursday and go on to region finals.

Mock trial is a Minnesota State Bar Association-sponsored program which simulates a court case. Students study and perform the role of witnesses and attorneys. Judges award points to teams based on performance. There are 86 meck trial teams in Minnesota.

This year the case involves a group house for people with AIDS (defendant) in a residential neighborhood. Another group (plaintiff), opposes the housing, arguing it constitutes a health care facility, in violation of zoning ordinances. Students received the case in early December.

"You have to get into the person and be the person — I try to cry," Danac Dekkers says. Dekkers, also involved in drama, portrays an AIDS-stricken witness for the defense.

The students attend two formal practices and numerous informal practices each week. Teacher/coach Cal Lindberg said some students get scared off by the amount of work.

The witnesses and attorneys practice together. "I go over direct questions with the witness so they'll know what you'll ask," said attorney Ami Harbott. "For the opening defense, you have to know the facts. During the cross-examination you have to be on your feet and think really fast."

Superstition doesn't hurt either, according to Karmen Ortloff who said she eats a pink Starburst candy before each case to help her calm down and keep her mouth moist.

Team member Angelique Goulet said she learned that lawyers "really have more control over witnesses." Ortloff said witnesses have more control over lawyers than they think they do. "It's easy to mess up lawyers," Ortloff said.

There are three witnesses and three attorneys on both defendant and plaintiff sides. The schools rotate sides when they compete against one another. Goulet and Ortloff both act as an attorney and a witness for the side opposing their attorney role.

Harbott and Lisa DeLap both act as attorneys for the defendant side and the plaintiff side. "One side is more biased than the other side," DeLap said. "When you switch gears it's hard to do. I argue best on the defense. It's more sympathetic," DeLap said.

Lisa Jones, a law clerk and Michael Jorgenson, an attorney, coach the teams. "They're more analytical than I expected them to be," Jones said.

The team also met with Dr. Jim Langland, who discussed the AIDS topic (the crux of the case) with the mock trial team.

Only two of the current members were on the team last year and meck trial is limited to juniors and seniors. Lindberg said he is considering opening the program to freshmen ond sophomores due to its popularity.

Lincoln High School has had a mock trial team for five years. Ortloff, one of the returning members, said "The mock trial program is getting more support this year. People didn't know about it previously."

"People I don't know congratulated me (on last week's win)," Harbott said.

Students on the team include Angelique Goulet, Ami Harbott, Lisa DeLap, Jenny Saustad, Heather Shafland, Karmen Ortloff, Jenny Nicholson, and Danae Dekkers.

A special preview presentation of the show for the benefit of local school children will be given."

—It's fortunate that such an indispensable commodity as salt isn't on the ration list.

—We read that 'amusement devices' netted a municipal liquor store in a small Minnesota town more than $5,000 in 1942. Wonder if, by any chance, they were referring to slot machines.

ST. HILAIRE SPECTATOR

St. Hilaire, Polk County, Minnesota February 15, 1893

The Light in the Schoolhouse Mystery

"Again on Wednesday, the whole schoolhouse was set in a flood of light. After a considerable amount of ghost-storying, daring, etc., four of St. Hilaire's bravest men decided to investigate this 'Canton' mystery. After securing the keys, and well armed, they proceeded to the schoolhouse, but upon nearing the place they were surprised to find that the light had suddenly disappeared. They made a hasty retreat to the point where they had at first perceived the light and were again surprised to find the light visible, and this time there was no mistake as ghostly forms could be seen within. Two of the men, however, were not to be fooled in this manner, and leaving the other two on watch, they again set out for the schoolhouse, this time on a different line than the first. The lights remained this time and it was then that they solved the mystery."

"They were in a direct line between the schoolhouse and Mr. Hall's store, which through the unfrosted windows, emitted the strong light of three large lamps, which reflected upon the schoolhouse windows. The forms they saw were caused by a few sacks of flour in the store."

Lee Erickson attends summit of pharmacists

Lee Erickson of Corner Drug Inc. in Thief River Falls recently attended the historic summit of Minnesota independent pharmacy owners at the Holiday Inn in Brainerd. Participants in this Minnesota Pharmacists Association (MPhA) meeting devised strategies for their ultimate survival.

At the meeting, pharmacy owners expressed alarm about adverse economic conditions which threaten the existence of many pharmacies. Mail-order pharmacy, third-party payers, federal and state mandates force most pharmacies to operate with little or no profit margin.

Summit participants joined together to inaugurate the MPhA Pharmacy Future Fund. This fund will enable independent owners to implement projects and influence public policymakers to insure the continued provision of cost effective pharmacy services through independent community pharmacy.

Gully Community Club

The Gully Community club will meet Tuesday, February 16th, at 7 p.m. at the Community Center.

Alice Thompson of Clearbrook and Emma Nyland were Saturday dinner guests at the Effie Handy home. Afternoon callers were Kenneth Emerson of Moorhead, and Mrs. Myles Olson of Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Les Torgerson and Luke of Thief River Falls, Doreen, Gay and Sarah Brovold, and Cathy and Wendt Senger were Saturday supper guests at the Arnold Brovold home, where they had an early birthday party for Sarah. Grandma Sanna had made her a nice decorated birthday cake. Carol and Luke were overnight guests.

Lyn Turenne, Effie Handy and Emma Nyland visited Sunday at the nursing home in Fosston, and with Mathilda Handy at her apartment.

Joan Olson took me to the Gully Cafe for dinner on my birthday, January 30. Esther Thorsson and Alice Forsberg also joined us for dinner. When we were through with dinner, they brought each of us a little frosted cake, but mine had one candle on it, so now I am the same model as my little yellow 81 Toyota, and we go steady. Alice called my birthday to the Fosston radio station, so I sure got lots of telephone calls. So thank you all, for the telephone calls, beautiful cards, gifts and well wishes. I am proud to be living in Gully since January 30, 1912. I have always lived here, went to school here, worked here and was married here on June 17, 1930 to the most wonderful man, Peter Rutkowski, now deceased. I have been a member of the Lund Lutheran church for 81 years, and I hope to remain here the rest of my life.

Monday Hazel Nelson, Effie Handy and Emma Nyland visited Ada Torstenson at Bagley.

Sunday Esther Thorsson and Esther Rutkowski visited at the home in Fosston with Cora Hanson, Emma Erickson and Hilda and Conrad Stoa.

Mr. and Mrs. Andor Ness of Detroit Lakes visited last weekend with Natalie Haugen.

Cora Broin and I visited with Myrtle Salem and Clara Berg at the home in Clearbrook, and we helped with bingo.

Bookmobile Visit

Read a good book lately? I had checked out "75 Years Down the Road" by Herbert Reese, and found it interesting. He was a road contractor from Greenbush, and did extensive work in northern Minnesota and many other places, as well as on the Alcan Highway. Anyone interested in his life or the machines of the early part of the century would find this good reading. Margaret Moglein, librarian at the Bookmobile listed some of the latest large print books carried there, if anyone is needing the large print. They are "Guardian Angel" (mystery) by Sara Paretsky; "Sleeping Beauty" (general fiction) by Judith Michael; "Scarlet", sequel to "Gone With the Wind" (historical fiction) by Alexandra Ripley; "Shadow of the Butte (western) by Thomas Thompson; "You Cant Put No Boogie Woogie on the King of Rock and Roll" (humor) by Rosalind Lokar. This collection of irreverent, hilarious, biting and thought provoking writings by the popular columnist. These, and many others in paperback and hard cover books are available. Next stop is February 18!

Bertha Hughes, Bunny DuChamp, Ruth Wilkens, and Edna Hyde were Tuesday dinner guests of Dorothy Myhra and enjoyed an afternoon of visiting and cards.

Lumberjacks out-score Prowlers 83-70

Highest all-score output of the 1992-93 season wasn't good enough to produce a win for the Thief River Falls boys Friday. That's because the Prowlers weren't able to stop Bemidji when they needed to come up big on defense, and the visiting Lumberjacks wound up with an 83-70 North Sub-Section 8AA high school basketball victory.

The loss dropped the Prowlers to [illegible]-14 and the 13-point setback came close to duplicating the 14-point spread in their first meeting with the Lumberjacks – a 65-51 Bemidji home court decision back on Dec. 22.

Bemidji gained control in the second quarter and the Lumberjacks' lead was never seriously threatened the rest of the night.

A three-point basket by the Lumberjacks' Ray Mostad with two seconds left in the first quarter opened up a 15-10 game, and a 10-2 run turned a 17-13 contest into a 27-15 affair midway through the second quarter.

Shane Zutz slipped inside for a basket and Tony Greene sank a three-pointer from the wing to pull the Prowlers within 27-20 with 2:07 left, but the half ended on seven straight Bemidji points – a three-point play by Gus Self, two free throws by Self and a drive by Jon Solheim – for a 34-20 halftime gap.

Thief River Falls came up with a 23-point third quarter and added 27 over the final eight minutes, but all that did was cut the 14-point halftime deficit to 13 because of the Lumberjacks' 49-point second half.

"We'll take the 70 points, but giving up 83 ain't good," noted Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "We're happy with the effort in the second half, but it still wasn't good enough – it was still a loss. We gave up too many easy shots in the paint in the first half. We weren't sliding down on defense like we were suppose to."

That Thief River Falls was still within sight of Bemidji at halftime was remarkable in itself since the Prowlers' first 16 minutes included 15 turnovers and 29.6 percent shooting (8/27).

"The first half was bad," acknowledged Brekke. "But they (Bemidji) weren't much better. We played a lot better in the second half. We had a lot more movement in our offense."

But it was still a 57-43 difference at the end of the third quarter. The double-digit gap remained intact until a long jumper by John Gunstad, single free throws by Gunstad and Wade Evenson, along with a pair of free throws by Tony Greene formed a mini-rally that turned a 74-59 game into a 74-65 affair with 1:53 remaining.

But Solheim answered with a three-point play and Tony Newby dropped in two free throws as the Lumberjacks re-established a 79-65 cushion with just 51 seconds to go.

Bemidji's offense was led by 6-2 junior forward Paul Oelrich with 22 points, while Newby netted 14, Solheim 15 and Self 11.

Greene and Gunstad, a pair of 6-3 senior forwards, led the Prowlers with 20 and 15 points respectively.

Thief River Falls shot 43 percent from the field for the night (26/60), while Bemidji shot at a 49 percent clip (31/63). The Prowlers made 15 of 21 free throw attempts; the Lumberjacks were 19-for-27. Bemidji finished with a 34-24 rebound advantage. There were more than enough turnovers to go around – 25 for the Lumberjacks and 23 for the Prowlers.

Comets outlast Pioneers 97-91

■ Women's basketball game goes three overtimes

Mayville State University junior varsity outlasted Northland Community College 97-91 Saturday in a women's basketball match-up that went into three overtimes.

The host Pioneers trailed 36-28 at halftime and faced an 18-point deficit with 11:30 remaining before storming back.

"We played really poorly the first 30 minutes," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen, "but I was really pleased with the way they came back. We scored a lot of points on offensive put-backs – the kids were flying to the basket for the rebounds."

Northland had a chance to break a 65-65 regulation time tie when the Pioneers grabbed a long rebound with seven seconds left and Susie Bengston broke to the basket. But her 15-foot shot at the buzzer went off the rim.

The Pioneers were close to winning 75-72 in the first overtime, only to see the Comets' Joann Peterson drill a long three-pointer on an in-bounds play as time expired.

It was Northland's turn to stage the dramatics at the end of the second overtime. Down 84-81, the Pioneers tied it when Bengston made the first of two free throws and Renae Blazejewski grabbed the rebound and scored at the buzzer.

Mayville finally gained control in the third overtime against the tiring seven-member Northland squad.

"We just ran out of gas in the third overtime," said Nikunen.

Blazejewski scored a game-high 33 points, while teammates Holly Gram and Jill Brantl had 22 and 12, respectively. Sarah Magers scored 23 points to lead a group of five Mayville double figure scorers.

"It was a good basketball game," offered Nikunen. "It was a fun game to watch."

The two teams put up 204 shots – 102 apiece. The Pioneers connected on 36 of them (35 percent); the Comets made 43 (42 percent). Northland went 19-for-28 at the free throw line; Mayville was 10-for-12. The rebounds were even at 46-apiece.

TRF JV boys lose

Bemidji grabbed a 10-point first quarter lead and held that margin at the end Friday in a 61-51 boys junior varsity high school basketball win over Thief River Falls.

The winners had quarter leads of 21-11, 39-33 and 49-41.

Lee Lund scored 21 points to lead the Thief River Falls offense.

The loss dropped the Thief River Falls junior varsity to 8-7.

Prowlers get by Alexandria

It wasn't easy, but Thief River Falls put together back-to-back wins for the first time this year Saturday when the Prowlers held off Alexandria 6-5 in Section 8 high school hockey.

The win sent the Prowlers into the final week of the 1992-93 regular season schedule with a 9-10-1 record and hopes of improving their post-season seeding position with wins at home Tuesday vs. Bemidji and Saturday vs. Fergus Falls. Section 8 Tier II play starts Tuesday, Feb. 23. Tier I tournament matchups begin Saturday, Feb. 27.

Alexandria opened the scoring at 3:49 of the first period when Ryan Severson banged away at a rebound that Thief River Falls goalie Trevor Haugen was trying to cover.

But the next four goals came from the Prowlers. Jeremy Olson took the puck off the stick of an Alexandria defender and scored on a quick shot at 10:06, then a great effort by Carter Rogalla made it 2-1 with just 25 seconds left in the first period. Rogalla got through two defenders to reach the puck, put on a burst of speed and beat Cardinals goalie Brian Abbott one-on-one.

Defenseman Brent Kleinvachter's bouncer from the point caught the corner at 9:04 of the second period and Nathan Knutson scored on a tip-in at 10:26 for a 4-1 cushion.

Alexandria's Matt Bullard gathered in a loose puck at center ice and went in alone at 11:51, tucking a point blank backhand past Haugen, but it was back to a three-goal spread just 29 seconds later when Jeff Twomey's shot from the top of the face-off circle went through Abbott's pads.

Chad Hacker capitalized on a scoring opportunity at 3:23 of the third period, poking the puck into the net when Haugen was unable to hold on after making a glove save.

Again, it went back to a three-goal spread when Rogalla caught up to a long lead pass from Jason Svir and was able to steer the puck past Abbott at 7:16 – just before Rogalla was sent into the goalie and the net after being pulled down by the trailing Cardinals.

The security provided by a three-goal lead lasted all of 52 seconds as Bullard scored on a high wrist shot, and things really became interesting when Ryan Hacker's blast off the right wing sailed past Haugen at 10:20 for a 6-5 game.

Abbott was pulled in favor on an extra attacker with exactly one minute left and the Cardinals had a shot at a tie and overtime when Chad Hacker, a freshman defenseman who had a goal and three assists, wound up with the puck in the slot as the clock ticked off the final seconds. Haugen, however, came up with a game-saving major league skate save with two seconds showing to end the excitement.

The Prowlers could have done a better job protecting the lead, acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chindo, but nevertheless he was happy with the win. "We did a lot of good things to get the lead," he noted. "Our play was fairly consistent, and all three of our lines were getting scoring chances. Give them (Cardinals) credit for hanging in there. We just want to look at the positives right now – we've won two-in-a-row."

The Prowlers out-shot the Cardinals 33-17.

Cold-shooting Prowlers lose to Jacks 54-25

Shooting has not been a Thief River Falls strong suit this winter, but coach Sally Wiltse was still taken aback Saturday when the Prowlers hit a season low 15 percent from the field in a 54-25 girls high school basketball loss at Bemidji.

"Our shooting was non-existent," offered Wiltse, whose team made just 9 of 62 field goal attempts. "It was not pretty," she added. "It was by far our worst shooting of the season. We had a lot of close-in shots, too, but nothing would go down for us. The kids were really frustrated."

Bemidji, ahead 17-8, 26-14 and 37-20 at the quarter stops, shot 42 percent (24/57) and out-rebounded the Prowlers 47-33.

Nancy Komulainen led a balanced Bemidji offense with 12 points. Point guard Toni Chiodo led the Prowlers with 11 points and 10 rebounds.

The loss ended a three-game Thief River Falls win streak, dropping the Prowlers to 7-10.

Spartans handle Pioneers

Fergus Falls is 7-0 in the Northwest Division and Northland is 0-7. The difference showed up on the court Monday when the visiting Spartans handily took care of the Pioneers 110-92 in Minnesota Community College men's basketball.

Northland, 3-15 overall (which includes a forfeit over the Grand Forks Air Base), never had a lead. The Pioneers did stay within 35-30 over the first 13 minutes, but were out-scored 13-2 in a two-minute Fergus Falls blitz that decided the issue. It was 59-41 at halftime and the Pioneers never came close to making a second half run at the Spartans' lead.

Twelve different Fergus Falls players put their names in the scoring column, led by 6-6 Chris Castner of Red Wing with 23 points. 5-9 Brent Gohl of St. Francis and 6-3 Brett Inniger of Fargo South with 17 each, 6-5 Kevin Pearson of Fergus Falls with 12, and 6-8 Wayne Poppen of Long Prairie with 11.

"They're a real good team," conceded Northland coach Mark Dannhoff. "They have a nice combination inside and outside game. We've got a lot of good kids and a lot of hard workers, but we're just not as talented as most of the teams we face. When you get in that situation, you have to play smart basketball and you have to play together as a team. We don't always do that."

Northland got a 20-point game from 6-3 Parrish Tatum of Chicago, 17 from 6-8 Dan Hoffard of Thief River Falls, 13 by 5-10 Chip Carter of Chicago, and 11 from 6-0 Jon Sigerud of Goodridge.

"We got some good play out of some people," noted Dannhoff. "I thought Parrish Tatum played his best game of the year. He took the ball to the basket, and we finished off – something that has kept him from reaching his potential."

Northland shot 42 percent from the field for the night (35/83), while Fergus Falls shot 51 percent (40/79). Play was far from smooth, however, with the two teams combining on 58 free throws and 39 turnovers. The Pioneers were 18-for-27 at the line, while the Spartans went 22-for-31. Northland had a 43-32 rebound advantage, but also had more turnovers, 22-17.

Kittson Central..................56
Marshall Co. Central...........50

Free throws spelled the difference Saturday as Marshall County Central dropped a 56-50 decision to Kittson Central.

The winners were out-scored 45-42 from the field, but they cashed in on 14 of 19 free throw opportunities while the visiting Nordics went 5-for-6 at the line.

"We just didn't get to the free throw line enough," said Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "They're a good ball club, and they shot more free throws than we did."

The Wolfpack had quarter leads of 16-13, 27-21 and 40-35.

A one-two Kittson Central offensive punch included 18 points apiece for Wendy Dziengel from the outside and Karen Larson on the inside.

Sara Lokstad worked hard on the inside for the Nordics to score her game-high 20 points despite heavy defensive coverage.

Marshall County Central shot 38 percent from the field (22/58), while Kittson Central shot 48 percent (20/42).

"If we could have shot a little better from they outside it might have been a different story," noted Mjelde."

The Wolfpack had a 32-25 rebound edge, but also wound up with more turnovers, 15-8.

Marshall County Central is 10-9.

Fergus Falls tops Northland women

Slow starts are nothing new for the Northland Community College women's basketball team. It happened again Monday when the Pioneers mustered just two points over the first nine minutes and wound up losing a 68-57 Northwest Division decision to visiting Fergus Falls.

Game-opening 11-2 Fergus Falls edge did shrink to 11-10, but the Spartans never lost the lead. It was 29-22 at halftime, and although the Pioneers were still within 30-34 after a pair of Renae Blazejewski free throws with 12:55 remaining, they faced a double-digit deficit most the the second half.

"We're a slow starting team — we have been all year," acknowledged Northland coach Rick [illegible]. "But there's no quit in my kids no matter what the score is. They're a great bunch to work with. I hate to lose, but I really enjoy coaching the group. I feel good about what these kids accomplish."

Blazejewski led the Pioneers with 14 points, while Jill Brantl had 12 and Holly Gram netted 11. Blazejewski is from Strandquist, Brantl is a Plummer product and Peterson played at Middle River.

Laurie Rueckert, a 5-7 Fergus Falls High School graduate, led the Spartans with 23 points, while Amy Nelson, a smooth 5-11 inside player from Rothsay had 21.

Northland shot 37 percent from the field (24/65) and went 9-for-11 at the free throw line - all in the second half. Fergus Falls shot 45 percent from the field (27/60) and had a 12-for-20 free throw night. The Pioneers had a 36-30 rebound edge, but they also topped the turnover chart 24-23.

The loss dropped Northland to 6-12 for the year and 2-6 in the Minnesota Community College Conference – last in the Northwest Division. Fergus Falls, meanwhile, went to 14-5 overall, and a division-leading 6-1 MCCC mark.

"We concentrated on them, trying to stay in their faces. But we didn't do the job. We got into foul trouble and we had to go to a zone. And they ate us up in the zone."

Kristy Johnson scored 13 points and Deanna Kotrba had 10 for the Wolverines.

Bergie's Business

with Jeff Storhaug

(Editor's note: Jeff Storhaug, who calls himself the No. 1 fan of Thief River Falls' Tim Bergland, will be writing periodical columns for The Times as he keeps tabs on Bergland's professional hockey career. A Lincoln High School and University of Minnesota hockey captain, Bergland spent his professional career with the Washington Capitals organization until being selected by the first-year Tampa Bay Lightning in this year's expansion draft).

Feb. 4 – I just got off the phone with Tim. He just got back from a western road trip to San Jose and Vancouver. It was his first two games in the Big Leagues this year.

It's been a trying year for Tim. After having a good training camp, General Manager Phil Esposito told Tim he really liked him, but was going to send him down to the Atlanta Knights, the Tampa Bay farm team. Esposito told Tim not to get too settled because he would get called up in the near future. Even so, Tim was very disappointed in the move.

Just two weeks into the season Tim suffered a career-threatening injury when he took a slap shot to the eye. With seven stitches and a bleeding eyeball, the doctors didn't know if Tim would even see out of the eye again. But after a about a month of rehabilitation, Tim was back skating.

He played about 39 games for the Knights, accumulating 30 points. That's not too bad considering the leading scorer in the league (University of North Dakota product Tony Hrkac) has 60-some points.

Tim had a pretty good idea the past week that he would be called up, and he finally made the move last Sunday with the trip west.

Tim is a remarkable human being. He's an even better person than he is a hockey player. I wish more people would realize the things he has accomplished. We should promote him like no other person. Kids today have a lot of bad things they can get into. It would be nice if they could focus on Tim's accomplishment. He is the perfect role model. If Tim can do it, the kids can start to believe they can do it, too.

Nordics beat Eagles 68-50

If you fall behind Marshall County Central down the stretch you could be in trouble. The Nordics' ability to maintain, or to build upon a late-game lead surfaced again Friday in a 68-50 boys high school basketball win over Grygla-Gatzke.

Marshall County Central had narrow leads at the three quarter stops, 15-12, 29-20 and 38-32, but outscored the host Eagles 30-18 over the final eight minutes to win going away.

"It was lot closer than an 18-point game," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We've been doing a good job with our lead protection. We've had good shot selection, and we're making them."

Marshall County Central, winning for the fifth straight time to go 11-4, shot 52 percent from the field for the night (27/52), while Grygla-Gatzke shot only 35 percent (18/51).

"Their defense shut us right down," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "We have no excuses. They played great defense."

Tim Olson had another big night offensively for the Nordics with 28 points. Scott Rindahl led the Eagles with 18.

"Tim has been playing great, but we're getting lots of points from the other kids, too," noted Ueland. "They're all capable of big nights."

Free throw figures were nearly identical – 13/24 for the Nordics; 12/23 for the Eagles. Marshall County Central had a 41-24 rebound advantage. Grygla-Gatzke had more turnovers, 21-16.

Strong ending nets win for RLCC boys

Red Lake County Central broke open a close game in the fourth quarter Friday en route to a 73-54 boys high school basketball win over Ada/Borup at Gklee.

The 14-1 Mustangs faced a double-digit deficit early while trailing 16-12 and 32-29 at the first two quarter stops. Red Lake County Central had a 48-44 third quarter lead, then out-scored Ada/Borup 25-10 over the final eight minutes.

"We started hitting our shots," mentioned Red Lake County Central coach Todd Fore. "We played a pretty poor first half, but our second half was pretty good."

Red Lake County Central shot 46 percent from the field (26/56) and had a busy 18-for-23 night at the free throw line. Ada/Borup shot 31 percent from the field (18/59) and went 10-for-12 at the line.

Goodridge falls 55-37 to Knights

Goodridge had a tough time on offense Friday as the Huskies lost a 55-37 boys high school basketball game to Climax/Fisher.

Although the Huskies had three double figure scorers, they were the only Goodridge players with points, and Brady Wiseth netted all 15 of his team-high points in the second half.

Travis Kotrba and Eldon Quam produced the only Goodridge points in the first half that ended with three consecutive Chuck Durkin three-point shots, opening up a 30-14 spread at intermission. The visiting Knights were up 45-22 through three quarters.

Goodridge shot 37 percent from the field (16/43), while Climax/Fisher shot 38 percent (21/56). The Huskies were 4-for-4 at the free throw line, where the Knights went 2-for-7. Climax/Fisher finished with a 29-24 rebound edge.

Kotrba finished with 12 points and Quam had 10. Durkin led all scorers with 20.

"They're just too good of a team for us," acknowledged Goodridge coach John Rahn. "We were just out-classed."

Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

How to enter God's rest

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

"For the one who has entered Jesus Christ's rest has himself also rested from his works, as God did from His. Let us therefore be diligent to enter that rest, lest anyone fall through following the same example of disobedience" (Heb. 4:10-11).

Let's examine the facts stated in these verses. There is a godly rest that we are to enter. We enter it by resting from all our works. We must be diligent to enter that rest.

We enter God's rest when we cease from all our works of lawlessness (I John 3:4). Works of lawlessness are the things we do when we live to the flesh. We must put these deeds of the flesh to death (Rom. 8:13; Gal. 5:16). How do we do this? By living to the Spirit! Jesus Christ said living to the Spirit, instead of to the flesh, is easy (Matt. 11:30). All we need to do is obey Him by imitating His behavior and the Father's (1 Cor. 11:1; Eph. 5:1).

What did Jesus do? How did He do it? He kept the works of the Father exclusively. The good works He did were done in the Father's name and in so doing, He glorified the Father (Matt. 5:16; John 10:25). He overcame the world by overcoming His nature (John 16:33). Jesus Christ was made perfect (Heb. 5:9).

We also must strive to do the works of God (Luke 13:24). We must persevere and be zealous in doing the works of the Father (Rom. 2:6-7; Luke 21:19). We are commanded not to get weary in doing good works (Gal. 6:9; 2 Thess. 3:13; 1 Cor. 15:58). In fact, Jesus said we would do greater works than He did because He had to go to the Father (John 14:12).

You might ask, "What shall we do, that we may work the works of the Father?" That is a legitimate question and was asked of Christ in John 6:28.

The works of the Father make up the Will of God (I John 2:17; Matt. 7:21). God's Will consists of any acts of righteousness done for God's glory (Col. 3:17). You could keep your appearance up for God. Love your mate for God. Teach your children about God's Ways, showing them that they receive a reward from God for each thing they do in His name (Matt. 6:1; Eph. 6:1-2, 7-8). Respect God's name. Don't use it in profanity a day longer, because those who do are His enemies (Psalm 139:20).

The more you do for God, the more He will do for you (Mark 4:24; Mal. 3:10; Luke 6:38; 2 Cor. 9:6). When all you sow is righteousness, then everything you reap will be blessings! You will have entered God's kingdom, which is within your new heart (Luke 17:21). You will have forced your way into the kingdom of heaven by disciplining yourself to do God's Will (Luke 16:16). You will have overcome your old nature by being zealous for good works—Christ's works (1 Peter 3:13; Rev. 2:26). You will have rested from all your works because you are only doing God's works now. You will have entered God's rest.

Parents night for parents of fifth and sixth grade children involved in the DARE program at Franklin Middle school was held Tuesday night. The night's program included an explanation of the purpose of DARE and the parent's role in keeping kids off drugs. DARE stands for Drug Abuse Resistance Education. The 17-week education program was introduced to Thief River Falls and Goodridge schools last year, and is taught by law enforcement officials. DARE is the latest attempt at drug abuse prevention. It targets fifth and sixth grade students because most students in these grades have not begun experimenting with drugs, which includes alcohol. The purpose of the program is not to scare children straight, but to help them develop the skills and knowledge to make decisions and to learn how to tactfully resist pressure from their peers to use drugs. About 90 people attended the program Tuesday. Another meeting for parents of children in the program in Thief River Falls is scheduled for Thursday. At 7:30 p.m. February 10, a program for parents of children in Goodridge will be held at the Goodridge community center.

River Valley

It's amazing how neighbors and relatives help in time of need. I am laid up with a broken ankle and unable to do my work. Shirley Johnsrud and Candy Lundeen, who work at Kory's Store, make the most tasteful dinners, and Danny Nelson who also works there, delivers the meals every day to Helen Chervestad and Robert Flaten. Robert is walking with crutches due to a bad hip. Connie Lundeen and Kyle brought supper over and she delivered supper to Fred Lundeen, who lives alone. Lana Nelson and Korydon are busy bringing meals over the weekends. Truly domestic engineers that do so well to help grandma keep her home in good shape are Ryan, Kyle, Quintan, Tyler, Brent and Christ Nelson, Aaron, Abigail, Angie and Adeline Chervestad. Johnnie Hanks and foreign student, Roman Furror deliver the mail. Visitors who come over to help Helen pass time a little faster during the week were Pastor Tom Rank, Wylma Radniecki (she brought coffee goodies), Verner and Mildred Arveson (brought goodies), Mable and Oliver Holsted (goodies), Annabelle Chervestad, Barb Chervestad, Todd, Bratt and new baby Tylor, Linda Holstad and Ethel Wiseth.

I received a letter from Billy Ernest Gissalquist of Phoenix, AZ. Ernest lived with the Chervestads in 1969, and attended Oklee school. Ernie lives near Barry Goldwater, rock stars, movie stars and Wrigley Spearmint mansions. Ernie owns a delivery truck like the UPS, and delivers for best paying delivery company in Arizona, the Roadway Package Company. He writes most interesting letters.

Robert Flaten's aunt and uncle, Helge and Clara Johnson are hospitalized in Thief River Falls. Helge had a serious heart attack and Clara is bleeding internally. You are in our thoughts and prayers!

Lincoln Choir Telethon A Resounding Success .....In Every Way

Pledges of nearly $11,000—well beyond the expectations of the sponsors—were received by the Lincoln high school choir Sunday during the six-hour telethon to raise funds for its trip to New York City and an Easter Sunday concert at Carnegie Hall. Choir members and boosters and director Darcy Reese were ecstatic over the results.

But the success of the event as a fund-raiser was only one of the ways in which the telethon was a resounding success. It was also successful as an entertainment value and showcase for area talent—which appears to be in abundance.

People who we talked to following the event were unanimous in their opinion that the telethon was extremely well done and a pleasure to watch. Some said that they tuned in for a couple of minutes out of curiosity and found themselves taking a chair and continuing to watch. Others said they enjoyed it so much they called in their pledges, even though they had not planned on doing so in advance.

A key element, of course, was the display of talent which paraded across the screen. Many community members with no direct tie to the choir members gave of their talents and time on a pleasant Sunday afternoon to add to the quality of the show.

Also impressive were the Lincoln high school students themselves, performing in groups or as individuals with vocal or instrumental solos. The freshman choir and Lincoln Singers, and some of the individual members of these freshman and sophomore groups, gave promise of continuing high quality in Lincoln music programs in years to come.

Were we to give awards for excellence they would go to Maryel Anderson, who anchored the emcees' microphone throughout the six-hour telethon, and to Darcy Reese, vocal music instructor at Lincoln. If it were possible to bottle the energy these ladies put into the telethon it would sell for $100 an ounce! Maryel used her quick wit and subtle humor to perfection and Mrs. Reese, in addition to keeping the intensity level at a fever pitch throughout the day, presented two dynamite vocal performances.

The array of talent diversity shown Sunday afternoon was certainly an impressive tribute to this area. We're sure there were many favorites among the people who performed and each listener has a different appreciation for what was presented. We were especially impressed, however, by the vocal solos of two young performers, Kelsi Holland and Lisa Swanson. At 10 years of age, Kelsi has already made many public appearances and has the stage presence of a pro. Freshman Lisa Swanson has a voice much bigger than her petite stature and more mature than her early teen years. We will enjoy hearing more from these young people in years to come.

If there was anything unfortunate about the telethon it would be that the performances on Cable Channel 13 restricted the audience to local cable viewers. Cable subscribers received an extra bonus with the telethon on Sunday.

Too Much Emphasis On High School Sports?

If you are interested in getting into a heated discussion, suggest that there is too much—or not enough—emphasis on high school athletic activity today. As a case in point, state that you know a student athlete who played four games in one week—or who was cut from competition after years in a program because there were not enough teams for athletes of all skill levels.

Having participated in high school athletics, we can remember many of the experiences and feel that they had some value to us, even this far into later life. And we can recall other high school activities which offered competition, were also enjoyable and which perhaps had a greater positive impact—including the school newspaper and speech competition.

In a recent issue of the MEA Advocate, the question of emphasis on high school sports is answered by Blaine high school football coach Dave Nelson and retired humanities and composition teacher Bob Lindaman.

Nelson points out that "...studies have shown that athletes have higher than normal grade point averages, they are less likely to be a discipline problem, and are more active participants in their schools and communities. When the American College Testing Service compared the value of four factors when predicting success after high school, the one yard stick that could be used to predict later success in life was achievement in high school activities.

"The rewards of athletic participation go far beyond winning games, collecting trophies and assembling scrapbooks. Athletics provide the opportunity for student-athletes to learn skills and lessons which easily transfer back to their classrooms and eventually to their lives," he said.

"I have seen a number of athletes use the self-discipline acquired through their respective sport to become better organized in their academics. Participation in athletics also gives the student a chance to experience adversity on a much smaller scale than they eventually will experience in 'real life.' Learning to cope with the peaks and valleys of competition serves an invaluable lesson which cannot be duplicated in any classroom setting."

Lindaman doesn't disagree with those aspects of sports. "I'm not anti-sports," he writes. "If there were unlimited time, I would favor more sports, especially for older people. But the fact is that high school students don't have unlimited time. Those precious high school days should allow students time for quality studying, many activities, a small job, and just plain 'growing up.'

"All high school programs should be planned with the best interests of the student in mind. It is not generally in the best interest of the student to force him/her to make a 'commitment' to any one activity to the exclusion of all others. What school officials should work for is a balance that allows students to try several different sports, dabble in the arts, and still have time for studying, family and community life."

What does Lindaman consider "too much emphasis?" Examples cited are four varsity volleyball games in one week; a ratio of athletic coaches to speech/drama coaches in some schools of 50/1; an athlete missing seven consecutive English classes for in-school, excused, athletic-related events; students who wanted to go on a Guthrie Theatre bus trip being told by their athletic coach they couldn't miss practice (and benching five who chose to go).

"If drama or music caused as many injuries as sports, they would be banned in an instant," he adds.

The question seems to be not the value of athletics in high school but the degree of involvement required. Looking to the lessons learned for the future, Lindaman makes a pertinent point:

"In the 21st century, our young people will face fierce competition from young Germans and Japanese who have mastered languages, math and science during longer school days and a longer school year. American students' skills in ball handling will be irrelevant."

Comments, anyone?

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I was dismayed to see in the January 13th Times that the winner's photo of Eric Loge and his Arctic Cat was on page 11 instead of the front page where it should have been. In its place was a photo of some "off-brand" snowmobiles.

In the last Watch I noticed, too, that Kirk Hibbert's I-500 victory aboard an Arctic Cat ended up on the back page instead of the front page it also deserved.

I'm pleased to see excellent drivers like Kirk and Eric aboard Thief River Falls-built Arctic Cats and I offer my congratulations to them both.

Remember, Thief River Falls is the only town anywhere that can honestly say it is the home of Arctic Cat—the finest snowmobiles in the world.

Thank You.

To The Editor:

Several months ago while on a missionary trip into old Mexico, something very interesting happened. A young teenage boy greeted me after one of the evening services. He was a leper. Thankfully it was non-contagious, and one of the milder forms that only infected his skin.

When I asked the pastor of the small church if anything could be done to help the lad, he indicated that treatment for the disease was relatively inexpensive and very easy to acquire.

Why wasn't the young lad being helped? Get this: His parents would not allow believers in a different denomination to have any part in the cure! Peculiarly proud world some people live in, isn't it?

Anyway, that experience reminds me a lot of our present political problems. Believe it or not, the Lord who made you and me, and heaven and earth (according to Psalm 121:2) is standing by with a cure, free of charge, that millions are still saying will not work.

Well, since God is not a robot-producing legalist, and is definitely for individual freedoms, He will allow, I believe, our politicians to please themselves rather than Him. The end result can be found in Romans 1:22. (God said it....I'm just the "mailman.")

If America does not soon admit that it has bad political, cultural and even "spiritual" (fast-growing false religions) leprosy, and turn back to the principles of Holy Writ soon, our surface political sears will begin to turn inward and further contaminate the very heart of our whole nation.

The obvious truth and reality of all this compels me to pray more earnestly, preach more thoroughly and publish more regularly..... whether the eternal optimists want to hear it or not! It needs to be said....publicly!

Sincerely,
Michael Forsberg, pastor

CARE program feed starving in Somalia

Shocking images of Somalia's starving children have created a groundswell of public support, but there are many misconceptions about the best ways to channel that generosity. Numerous caring Americans believe that the solution is simply to bulk up hungry kids with a few hearty meals.

"Unfortunately, it isn't that simple," says Mary Beth Powers, who manages health programs for CARE, the world's largest private relief and development organization. "Children who are truly starving cannot absorb solid food until their bodies have begun the long process of recovery."

According to CARE relief workers, many Somali children suffer from a lack of hydration in their digestive tracks. This makes it difficult, if not impossible, for them to digest solid food.

To combat this problem, CARE is providing life-saving emergency rations of food in easily digestible form to tens of thousands of children in the hardest hit regions of Somalia.

"We begin their nutritional therapy with 400 grams (1,600 calories) of grains, beans, sugar and oil, which we cook into porridge," says Powers. "We feed the children several small meals a day because too much food at one sitting will make them violently ill. Their bodies can best absorb nutrients a little at a time."

After three to six weeks of steady, frequent meals, CARE increases their daily diet to 3,000 calories each day. Even the most malnourished children begin to show signs of improvement. They are less likely to suffer from vitamin deficiencies which cause a myraid of problems from hair loss to scurvy to blindness. They are also less susceptible to killer diseases such as measles and diarrhea.

"Kids are incredibly resilient," Powers says. "It just takes the basics—nutritious food, medical treatment and loving care—to help make a world of difference."

The address for CARE is 660 First Avenue, New York, NY 10016.

Ellen Olson, Heather Olson in SOS group

Two Thief River Falls students at Concordia College in Moorhead have been selected as staff members of Sources fOr Service (SOS), a student-directed community service program at the college.

They are Heather Olson, daughter of Myles and Susan Olson and an English major, and Ellen Olson, daughter of Ronald and Gina Olson and a music major. Both are graduates of Lincoln high school and were selected as group projects program directors for SOS.

Students involved with the program are carefully matched and referred to an agency for a placement contract, usually three to five hours per week for a semester or academic year. They receive orientation, ongoing training, appropriate supervision, evaluation, and are assisted by faculty members through their service experience.

Kamie Twomey wins in state essay contest

Kamie Twomey, daughter of Chris and Darla Twomey of Thief River Falls and a student at Lincoln high school, earned a tie for third place in the seventh through ninth grade division of the statewide Minnesota D Day (Don't Smoke Day) essay contest.

First place in the division went to Andrea Stenhoff, eighth grader from Spring Grove, second place to Erica Schumann, seventh grader from Maplewood, and sharing third with Kamie was Leah Morken, also an eighth grader from Spring Grove.

Kamie's essay entry was published in The Times along with other local school winners when their entries were sent to state competition. Andrea Stenhoff's first place state entry is as follows:

"The Rights Of A Nonsmoker"
by Andrea Stenhoff

I have written about the rights of nonsmokers because it is an issue that I care about a lot. Although I have never tried a cigarette, I am still a smoker. Everyone is a smoker, whether they have voluntarily smoked or whether they have never touched a cigarette in their lives. Why? Because every one of us has been subjected to cigarette smoke and its poisons.

Have you ever been in a smoky restaurant, had a parent who smokes, or had someone smoking in your home? That smoke is not only bothersome, it is dangerous. Thousands of people a year get diseases or die from the effects of sidestream smoke.

Did you know that a lit cigarette is actually being smoked only 10 per cent of the time? The remaining 90 per cent of the time its poisonous chemicals are drifting into the air where they can be easily inhaled by secondary smokers.

I believe that I have the right to avoid the fumes and diseases that go along with smoking. I know that I have the power to speak out for my rights and I will do so. I realize that for many firsthand smokers, smoking is not a habit they enjoy.

I also realize that "kicking the habit" is not easy for many people. I would just like to ask that they keep their smoke to themselves. If they have to smoke, they should do so in designated areas or outdoors. The secondary smokers should not have to deal with the added toxins and fumes that are added to their environment because of cigarettes.

I recognize that my opinion is not shared by all others. I would just like to say that I will respect the rights of smokers. I won't harass or insult them, if they will do the same for me. I simply expect them to respect the rights of "sidestream" smokers.

One of Thief River Falls' unsolved mysteries must be this "Wheel in a Tree" phenomenon. Many years ago, someone or a group of someones apparently forced the branches of a young tree through the spokes of a steel wheel from a farm implement—probably that from a horse-drawn hay rake. Over the years the tree accommodated its growth to the restrictions of the wheel, forming itself nearly completely around the rim in some places. The wheel is about 12 feet above the ground. The tree is located along the river not far from the downtown area in Thief River Falls. The exact location will not be revealed to protect the privacy of the owners from curiosity seekers. Anyone who has information about the background of the wheel and can help solve the mystery is asked to contact the Times office.

TRF Council discusses local sales tax proposal

Tuesday night, the Thief River Falls city council tabled a discussion of a recommendation to bring the local sales tax issue before the state legislature. Discussion was tabled to allow council members and the finance committee an opportunity to review pertinent information.

Darla Twomey of the Interim Citizen's Advisory Committee (ICAC), said the committee met on February 3. Many apparently thought at the beginning of the meeting that perhaps the committee should abandon the local sales tax proposal. But after discussing the merits of a local sales tax, Twomey said many on the committee were rejuvenated. Following considerable discussion, the ICAC, with 12 of its members in attendance voting in favor and one in opposition, passed a motion recommending that the city council pursue, during the 1993 legislative session, the original legislation that was submitted by the city in 1992.

Twomey explained that the original legislation submitted to the state included the concept of economic development (growth fund) and recreation.

Twomey said the committee believes the tax would allow the city to do things that it is not able to do because of budget constraints. There were at least two problems with the last legislation adopted by the state. First, it did not include economic development and a swimming pool as proposed. Secondly, the committee itself is representative of the community and is therefore very diverse. The committee apparently, spent quite a bit of time discussing various project proposals over and over.

Twomey said the committee would like another opportunity to get the items that were eliminated from the proposal included by the legislature and to allow citizens the opportunity to voice their opinion by voting on the issue.

Jane Mattson, past president of the chamber of commerce, said she personally thinks the concept is good idea. Mattson explained, however, that the Retail Business Association had strongly opposed a local sales tax at a recent meeting. Following that meeting, a meeting of the chamber board was called. Mattson said the board decided it could not support the local sales tax proposal at this time. (The story of the chamber's decision was carried in the February 10 issue of The Times.) One of the reasons the board decided as it did, Mattson said, was a fear that the proposal would be a divisive issue among the membership.

Council member John T. Anderson said the business community in general feels that it pays an unfair share of taxes. But, Anderson asked if they were aware that projects supported by the local sales tax would eventually help broaden the tax base, which would reduce their tax burden.

Council member Don Barron didn't want the chamber board to let slide the issue by stating that it would be a divisive issue. What does that really mean, he asked.

Anderson said that if the truth about the "tax abatement" got out their opinion would probably change.

Several members of the committee saw that the issue needed to be discussed in more detail. Don Barron moved that the issue be tabled for evaluation by committees. Dale Wennberg seconded the motion

TRF joins cities in Minn. that support Project 2000

Residents of Thief River Falls have recently announced their intention to join the growing list of communities that support Minnesota 2000.

In the past year more than 120 communities in Minnesota have convened meetings to discuss, describe and pose solutions to the challenges that face the education system in their own communities. These meetings are central to Minnesota 2000, a statewide education initiative launched in September 1991 by Governor Arne Carlson to encourage communities to develop education strategies to fit their own localized needs.

On Tuesday, March 30, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Northland Community College theater, a meeting for the public will be held to help explain how Thief River Falls fits into Minnesota 2000.

Statistics show that students spend an estimated 9 per cent of their time in school. They spend the remaining 91 per cent with family, community and media. So, it makes sense that Minnesota 2000 has adopted as a premise for action an old African proverb which states, "It takes an entire village to educate one child."

At the heart of Minnesota 2000 is community-inspired change. It encourages the community to rethink the way it educates its children. There are two primary reasons for this. First, it has long been obvious that children are increasingly arriving at the school carrying social burdens that schools are not equipped to handle effectively. When schools are expected to take on the problems that society have not addressed fully yet — like poverty, poor nutrition, drugs, abuse, and more — educators are diverted from their primary mission: to provide education necessary for Minnesota children to compete and succeed.

Second, as the past Secretary of Education Lamar Alexander pointed out, the world has changed far faster in the past few decades than it ever had before. It's not that society is failing miserably or people aren't doing their jobs. The world has changed more. It demands more from children and from everyone, and society has not adjusted schools and education systems to come even close to meeting those changes.

Quality education depends not only on good school systems but also on strong families, health care, social services and many other factors. Communities play a pivotal role in the development and support of many of the factors critical to educational success. Communities must send students to school ready to learn, help adults continue to

Educational Goals

1) All children in Minnesota will start school ready to learn. (Minnesotans will make it possible for children to be ready to learn throughout their school years by ensuring adequate nutritional, emotional and social support.)

2) The high school graduation rate shall be at least 90%.

3) Students will leave grades four, eight and 12 having demonstrated competency in challenging (relevant, meaningful, significant) subject matter including English, mathematics, science, history and geography; and every school in Minnesota will ensure that all students learn to use their minds well, so they may be prepared for responsible citizenship, further learning and productive employment in our modern economy.

4) Minnesota students will be first in the world in mathematics and science achievement.

5) Every Minnesota adult will be literate and possess the knowledge and skills necessary to compete in a global economy and to exercise the rights and responsibilities of citizenship. (Literate means the possession of such skills as reading, writing, speaking and computing necessary to function effectively as a family and community members, citizens, consumers and job holders.)

6) Every Minnesota school will be free of drugs/(alcohol) and violence and will offer a disciplined (and nurturing) environment conducive to learning.

Activities Days set at Franklin school

Fifty-four options are being offered to Franklin middle school students for two "Activities Days" to be conducted Thursday and Friday of this week, February 18 and 19.

Some of the activities will take place at Franklin and others outside the school—as far outside as the Hjemkomst Center in Moorhead or the Manitoba Museum of Man and Nature in Winnipeg.

"We are offering a number of courses not normally included within the regular school curriculum," Franklin principal Bill Hahne said in a letter to parents. "During these two days, students will be allowed to explore and expand some of the interest areas which we have provided."

While fees are charged to cover expenses in some of the activities, the administration does not feel that the fee should be a prohibitive factor in the students' choices and asks parents to consult with the counselor or assistant principal to make arrangements for participation.

Students were asked to list their choices in order from first through fifth places. Some courses are offered for one-fourth of a day, some for a half day and some for an entire day.

In several previous years the activities day has been offered for one day only. It has been expanded to two days this year to give students a greater opportunity to take the courses they would like.

While several Franklin faculty members will be involved as instructors in the program, they

Child care providers at state conference

Mary Ann Hodge, director of Discovery Place Early Learning center in Thief River Falls, accompanied the Northwest Minnesota Child Care Center Directors' association to Capitol Hill during the week of January 24. Meetings were held with six northern Minnesota senators and representatives as well as the board of directors of Child Care Works and Chairperson Jesne Kloeber and Director Paula Beugen of the Early Childhood Care and Education council.

Child Care Works is a statewide coalition that educates decision-makers, parents, care providers and the public to act positively to improve the quality of child care. The Early Childhood Care and Education council was organized by Gov. Arnie Carlson to coordinate all Minnesota child care and education services.

The seven points endorsed by the group are:

1. to fully fund the child care fund for sliding fees, access money, STRIDE program and financial aid for higher education students in need of child care. Loss of these funds often puts families back on AFDC or keeps parents from working or going to school.
2. to maintain or improve our quality of licensing standards. Do not deregulate or lessen our licensing rules and regulations. They are too important to the safety and education of our children.

Dear Readors

When a young mother loses a child through miscarriage or newborn death, the grief she feels is often misunderstood, or treated too lightly. Well meaning people make comments such as, "You can have other children", or "It must have been God's will". Remarks such as these are not comforting, and make her feel you are minimizing her loss. Allow this mother to grieve - she has deep feelings for this precious child.

Respectfully,

Belmont Funeral Home

Larry Belmont

ACTIVITIES

The News and Your Child

Today's children do not live in a vacuum. They are not only a part of our families and communities, but with the communication system we have today they are very much aware of our world.

To help a child understand all of these many messages and events in our world, it may be wise to try to share the news with him or her. This can be done through the newspapers or news magazines.

Encourage, help and assist the child in the clipping of various pictures that he or she can relate to. This may include people in our community whose pictures appear in the local paper, pictures of our president or pictures of children in other countries. These can be put on a bulletin board or attached to the refrigerator.

It is also wise to have a map to point out where these events are occurring in relationship to where you live. You may be surprised at a child's interest and knowledge!

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need a library card for your child.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

Take time out during the month of February to browse through books about our presidents at the Thief River Falls public library, including the following:

Santrey, Laurence. George Washington: Young Leader. Learn about George Washington, where he grew up, what his family was like and what it was like to be president and lead his native land through the American Revolution.

D'Aulaire, Ingri and Parin. Abraham Lincoln. Learn about Abe Lincoln's life from his early years toddling after his father's plow, all the way to the White House where he would bring his country through a civil war.

VIDEO VARIETY

Presidents. Children and adults alike can learn lots of little known facts about every American president from George Washington to George Bush.

PARENTING TIPS

Questions vs. Commands

It is common to hear a parent say to his or her child, "Would you like to go to the store now?" or "Do you want to go to bed?" Most adults recognize these questions as commands and really mean, "Now is the time to go to the store" and "It is bedtime." Young children, however, take the questions literally and will probaby answer, "No."

To avoid confusing the child, make your expectations clear. Give an order if you want him to do something. Ask a "yes-or-no" question only if you are willing to accept either answer.

If you "goof up" and ask your child a question and your child says, "No," the best procedure is to respond, "Okay, then we will go in five minutes. I will set the timer so you will know when." Then when the timer rings, rephrase the sentence to "Now it is time to go to the store," or to bed or whatever.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

When talking with your children think about what you say and how you say it. Are you talking clearly and in terms that your child can understand?

King and queen of the Valentine party held Friday afternoon by the Happy Seniors organization at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls were Art Moa and Lucille Johnson. Mrs. Johnson is president of the Happy Seniors this year.

Senate hearing here on Friday

Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls will chair the meeting of the Higher Education Finance Division of the Senate Education Committee. Also co-chair of the Senate Education Committee, Sen. Stumpf has scheduled the hearing here and one in Moorhead the same day to focus on how colleges and universities are changing.

Senators planning to attend the hearing in addition to Sen. Stumpf are Sen. Len Price, Woodbury; Larry Pogemiller, Minneapolis; Cal Larson, Fergus Falls; and Deanna Wiener, Eagan. All but Larson are DFL members of the committee.

"State finances, technology and the economy are just a few of the things forcing changes for post-secondary schools," Sen. Stumpf said. "In these hearings I hope committee members will get to see how those changes are affecting the area's colleges and universities."

Sen. Stumpf said he wants the hearings to look at more than just finance issues and budget proposals.

"Committee members should learn about innovations and accomplishments that the area's higher education leaders are proud of. There are lessons there that could be applied in other areas of the state," Sen. Stumpf said.

Agenda for the hearing is as follows:

Introduction and Overview by Sen. Stumpf, chairman;

Review of innovation at Northland Community College;

Impact of finance changes at Northland Community College;

Review of innovation at Northwest Technical College Thief River Falls;

...You Need a Smile Today

It isn't fair! We had such beautiful weather for a couple of weeks there that my blood started to thin out and my body said to itself, "Spring is coming! Spring is coming!"

Well, today I know that spring is not coming. I'm cold and depressed and my body is acting very sluggish because spring is not coming and winter is back. I am very much in need of a good laugh.

I find it very hard to write something someone else might enjoy reading when I am cold and depressed and sluggish and in need of a laugh myself? I know that anything I write will come out cold and depressed and crabby.

So, instead of writing a cold, depressed, crabby column, I turned to my collection of columns by my son-in-law, Jon Flatland, to come up with something funny for you today. After all, you need a smile on a day like this, too. After re-typing it and re-reading it, I find myself in a much better mood. I even smiled at it once or twice.

After I think about it a while, I may be in such a good mood that I will write a column defending women's purses next week (if the weather gets warmer).

Here is Jon's column. I hope it brightens your day and gives you a smile or two, too. Remember to keep in mind for future reference that Jon is writing about my daughter. Isn't it said, "Like mother, like daughter?"

"A Woman's Necessities."

My wife buys a new purse about every three months. She has to, because she keeps "outgrowing" them. Before long she'll be lugging around a suitcase to keep all her important stuff in.

Last week I misplaced my key to the Tribune office and I asked her to give me hers. "It's in my purse on the kitchen table," she said.

I returned ten minutes later without the key.

"Find it?" she asked.

"Are you kidding?" I said. "Find it! Ponce De Leon couldn't find it in there. Lewis and Clark couldn't find it in there. Geez, even ol' Pierre Bottineau would give up the exploration."

"What do you mean, it's right in there," she said defensively.

She jumped up and went into the kitchen and came out with her purse...and she had a mean look in her eye.

"Why is all my stuff all over the kitchen table?"

"Well, Hon, I just kept digging for that key. I tried to get all that crap back in, but it wouldn't go in as easy as it came out," I explained. "Sorry."

"That stuff isn't crap, it's my necessities," she said. "And here's the key. It was right in there where I said it would be."

Now, I knew I was in for it if I carried this discussion any further, but what the hey—call me reckless.

I took the key from her and said, "I want you to tell me about those necessities. There's nothing but junk in there. I'd hardly call most of it necessities."

I took the purse from her and proceeded to dump the rest of its contents out. The items that fell out included an empty match book, an empty lipstick tube, a dozen Q-tips wrapped together with a rubber band, a half dozen or so paper clips, numerous gum wrappers and an empty gum pack, a comb, a brush, several sets of keys, three AA batteries, six pennies and some other loose change, one pop top, a dozen or so crumpled up Post-It notes, a broken eraser and a bunch more stuff.

"Why are you carrying around an empty match book," I asked. "How can that be a necessity?"

She took it from me and opened it up to show me the phone number of one of her friends written on the side.

"Okay, what about those three batteries?"

"I carry those so you have extras when the flash on your camera goes out," she told me. "We always have to stop somewhere to buy batteries or you holler because I didn't remind you to check them before we left."

By golly, she was coming up with some pretty logical reasons.

"How 'bout this broken eraser?" I wondered out loud. "I wouldn't call this a necessity."

"If you must know," she countered, "I used that about a month ago when I was doing something for you and you asked me to keep it handy, so I did."

I did remember asking her to keep it around, but I wasn't going to tell her I remembered.

"The empty lipstick tube?"

"That's easy," she said. "I'm going to take it to the store and match the color that was in there."

Now I was getting frustrated. This woman had an answer for everything. But I kept after her.

"How about the crumpled up notes and the empty gum pack and the paper clip then?"

She unfolded one of the notes to show me the handwriting on it.

"These are notes from you and reminders about things that you've written me. They were all held together by those paper clips until you went through my purse looking for that key and pulled them apart. And the gum pack...well, that empty gum pack is just an empty gum pack that I stuck in my purse to throw away and never threw away," she said.

"Aha!" I shouted triumphantly. "And you call that a necessity?"

(Here there is a typo in the article and a paragraph is missing, but I am sure I can supply what is missing. I'm sure Christie told Jon that she kept the gum wrapper in her purse because she was not near a garbage can at the time she put it in there and, since her mother raised her properly, she certainly was not about to just throw it away and be a litterer.) Jon goes on to say:

Yeh, I guess I did know what she meant. But I still didn't understand why she carried around all those tissues, and notes and other junk. Honestly, I spent five minutes looking for that key in her purse and couldn't find it. I considered myself lucky my hand came back with all its fingers on it.

"My purse wouldn't be such a mess if I had a bigger one," the wife said. "I should really get a new one."

"I've got a better idea," I said. "Let's just buy you a pickup so you can haul all that stuff around."

"Very funny!"

Second phase at Bible camp done

Now completed at Lake of the Woods Bible camp near Baudette is the second phase of construction on the new chapel and dining hall. Donations have totaled $125,000 since a fund appeal began several years ago. The building replaces a chapel built in 1938.

Second phase of construction on the new chapel and dining hall at Lake of the Woods Bible camp near Baudette has been completed and the camp will be able to use the 3,100 square feet on the main floor for worship and meeting and the basement for a storm shelter for this summer's church camp programs and groups.

Pathways Bible Camping Ministry owns and operates the camp and will seek to raise the final project dollars this year through events and gifts from churches, groups, foundations and individuals.

Overlooking the Rainy river, the building holds promise for future development of a kitchen, dining hall, bathrooms and site director's office. The downstairs has the potential for being finished into a retreat center if demand in the future warrants it.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

A few weeks ago a discussion happened at a meeting of our woodcrafters club which had sobering notes for our young people and their future. A teacher from the local junior high school had asked permission and came to talk about a project the school was embarking on. They were to have two days with a large variety of different things for young people to do.

The teacher asked for a couple of volunteers to teach some form of woodworking craft. One of the members of the club asked the visitor why they couldn't use their shop teacher for the project. He said that experience showed students preferred offerings that weren't taught by people they would see in that instructional position on a regular basis. He also said they were just going to have high tech classes and wouldn't be having any more shop classes because they weren't necessary.

They are doing a great disservice to our young people's future by implementing these acts.

Industrial arts should be a required subject for the young people, both both boys and girls, because it gives them good help to cope with as they get older. It also helps them when times get tough for them that they have something to keep them occupied usefully and not feeling bored with life. They are able to help other people with their skills acquired and can continually learn.

It is too bad none of the planning in the new grade school has provisions for industrial arts and home economics. Grade school children are not too young to have basic training in these areas. They are all sharp and bright and grasp things easily. I know because I taught fifth grade boys and girls in shop classes for two years. They caught on fast and thoroughly enjoyed it. They didn't want to go home. I taught 80 children with no problems.

Quite a few young people have voiced sadness about the closing of the center school which they enjoyed and learned from.

Sincerely,
Orville Ellingson

To The Editor:

With all of the rhetoric surrounding the Governor's proposed budget, it is difficult to understand his priorities. However, one thing comes through very clearly—the Governor plans to increase state aid to students attending private colleges at the expense of public higher education.

In fact, while he is making major reductions in subsidies to each of the four higher education systems, he is increasing state aid to private college students by over $36 million. Already over 58% of state grant funds go to private college students. In 1991, the average state grant for private college students was $2,760 per year, while the average technical college student received $519.

I believe most Minnesotans will find this to be incredible! Please take the time to let the Governor know you disapprove of his "reallocation."

Sincerely,
Ray Cross, PhD

Fire claimed a mobile home at Country Estates Monday morning. Firefighters responded to the fire call at 8:23 a.m. A child playing with a cigarette lighter started the blaze. Occupants of the home, Ethel Evenson and four children, escaped without injury. The home, owned by William Evanson, and most of its contents are a complete loss. Firefighters fought the blaze for five to six hours. The structure was composed of two mobile homes and surrounded by a wood shell. Firefighters faced the difficulty of cutting through several walls potentially harboring flames. The Salvation Army helped the occupants, however they lost everything and will need more assistance.

Jackie Christianson, seven-year-old daughter of Brian and Connie Peterson of Thief River Falls, earned reserve champion honors for the 1992 show year of the North Dakota Arabian Horse association. The award was for open shows for youth age 13 and younger. Jackie is shown with the horse she used for the shows—a part-Arab mare owned by her aunt, Barb Culkins of Plummer and named "Norsands Shineak." A second grader at Washington elementary school, Jackie received her award at the NDAHA awards banquet in Grand Forks.

Firefighters remove a wall of a home at Country Estetes Monday morning, checking for flames. Firefighters received the call at 8:23 a.m. Occupants escaped uninjured.

St. Bernard's pizza drive is underway

St. Bernard's Catholic church has added a new twist to its annual pizza-making campaign—a commercially produced pizza that is vacuum sealed for longer freezer life without quality deterioration. These will be 13-inch pizzas and will also sell for $4 or $5, depending on type of topping.

Last year volunteer members of St. Bernard's made 6,300 pizzas to fill orders. They will continue to make traditional pizzas this year and package them in heat-sealed plastic as well as sell the commercial type.

Information may be received and orders placed by calling the St. Bernard's school office at 681-1539 or the Pat Gaffaney residence at 681-7042. Pizza pick-up date will be Saturday, March 13, from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the west door of St. Bernard's school.

Goodridge Jaycee snowmobile race thrills crowds

Rain and hard packed snow made driving conditions for the 16th annual Goodridge Jaycee 100-mile cross-country race rough on snowmobiles. There were a few serious injuries due to accidents and entries were down due to conditions, but it made for an exciting event.

The 100-mile race consisted of three loops around a cross-country track near Goodridge for all but the masters and women. Trophies and money were awarded.

In addition to the cross-country race, modified and stock Kitty Cats competed.

The following results were recorded for the 16th annual event and are listed by place, name, hometown, and make of snowmobile:

I-500 — 1) Brad Pake, Felton, Polaris XCR, 2) Ryan Haugen, Goodridge, Polaris XCR, 3) Eric Loge, Brainerd, Arctic Cat 440ZR, 4) Jeff Berg, Goodridge, Polaris XCR Indy, 5) Tommy Kallock, Oslo, Polaris XCR Indy.

Class 4 — 1) Roger Coan, Goodridge, Polaris XLT Indy, 2) Gerald Verbout, Wanaska, Polaris XLKT SP, 3) Rick Stokke, Thief River Falls, Arctic Cat 580 ZR.

Class 3 — Roger Coan, Goodridge, Polaris XLT Indy, 2) Gerald Verbout, Wanaska, Polaris XLKT SP, 3) Rick Stokke, Thief River Falls, Arctic Cat 580 ZR.

Class 2 — 1) Scott Grover, Hudson, WI, Polaris XCR, 2) Paul Henrickson, Goodridge, Polaris, 440 Indy, 3) Danny Lotland, Harris, Polaris 400 Indy.

Class 1 — 1) Ryan Bjerklie, Trail, Polaris 4440 Indy, 2) Jared Frothinge, East Grand Forks, Polaris 340 TX.

The Goodridge Jaycees noted that the race was successful because of the contributions of the Pennington county sheriff's department, the Minnesota Highway Patrol, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, Civil Air Patrol, the Community of Goodridge and all the surrounding communities.

Fire destroys elevator in EGF on Friday

At about 5:30 a.m. Friday, fire engulfed the St. Hilaire elevator in East Grand Forks, destroying two elevators and two annexes.

Bob Miller, general manager of the St. Hilaire Elevator Co-op, said the cause of the fire has not been determined yet. Fortunately, no one was injured in the fire, which was first detected by an automatic alarm.

The buildings were not owned by St. Hilaire Elevator. St. Hilaire Elevator was sub-letting the facility from East Grand Forks Farmers Elevator Inc. That organization had leased the facility from the city of East Grand Forks. At this time, it is unknown whether the facility will be re-built. If, however, the facility is re-built, it won't be at that site located at 701 DeMers Ave.

The two elevators were completely full at the time. Miller said they were waiting for a unit car to pick up the grain. The loss of the grain represented a significant loss. Miller estimated the value of the 190,000 bushels of grain at about $600,000. The 190,000 bushels of grain included about 150,000 bushels of wheat and 40,000 bushels of barley.

Miller said East Grand Forks Farmers Elevator Inc. had the building insured, and St. Hilaire Elevator had the grain inside the elevators insured. The value of the building was estimated at about $300,000, putting the total loss at around $1 million.

At this time it appears that St. Hilaire Elevator will be able to continue operation in East Grand Forks with the four steel bins that were saved and the additional storage area not destroyed by fire. Alternate loading equipment will be used, but it will be difficult to continue to dump grain at the site.

The amount of grain stored in the steel bins was fairly significant. Miller said they contained about 200,000 bushels of wheat.

Miller said he will know within about two weeks whether the facility will be re-built. According to a Grand Forks Herald article on the fire, the city had planned to eventually demolish the elevator because it was in the heart of 27 acres of industrial property that the city plans to redevelop.

Fire trucks from Grand Forks Air Force Base, Grand Forks, Fisher and Crookston assisted the East Grand Forks fire department in battling the spectacular fire.

The extent and size of the fire caused other concerns for firefighters. Firefighters had difficulty keeping pedestrians away from the fire and had to request assistance for crowd control. In some cases, however, the crowd was forced back by the heat of the fire and sparks which rained down on them, burning holes in fabric and threatening nearby residences. Some residents were informed that they may have to evacuate. At one point, the east elevator collapsed onto DeMers Avenue and firefighters had to work hard to keep the fire from spreading to nearby homes.

Heat from the fire also melted US West telephone cable located near the elevator. Several businesses on the east side of Highway 2 were without phone service.

Fire marshalls are investigating the cause of the fire. As of Tuesday morning, no cause or probable cause had been determined. They have found a few things, but nothing to go public with yet. A spokesperson added that they are still collecting facts and still need to get into an area in question which is covered with grain or debris. As for DeMers avenue, they expect that the street will be opened late Tuesday or Wednesday.

Mock trial team opens regional

Ceded in the first place position on the basis of points earned in two regular season wins, Lincoln high school's mock trial team will compete in the Sub-Region 2 playoffs Monday, February 22, in the courtroom of the courthouse in Fergus Falls.

Opponent in the trial will be the No. 8 team, Norman County East, which the Lincoln team defeated in its first trial of the season. This time the Lincoln team will represent the plaintiff while Norman County East represents the defendant. Other teams in the sub-region will be the Bemidji No. 2 and Perham No. 1 teams.

Winners of the first two trials will compete at 12:30 p.m. at the courtroom in the Fergus Falls post office for the right to advance to the Region 2 finals February 26 in Park Rapids. Final winner Monday will meet the winner of the four-team sub-region Tuesday in Bemidji for the Region 2 title and a trip to the state mock trial competition.

The Lincoln team won both its regular season trials, beating Frazee 182 to 145 last week in Bemidji. Thief River Falls represented the plaintiff in the case. Tim Faver and Jana Austad, Bemidji attorneys, served as judges.

Board hears plan for naming new elementary school

A proposed process to select a name for the new elementary school to be built by School District 564 beginning this spring was presented to and accepted by the board of education at its meeting Monday, February 8.

Executive assistant Marcia Sandahl reviewed with the board's plan to create a committee of about 10 members consisting of representatives selected by staff, parent organizations, students and other involved community members. This committee would invite public input and establish the system to be followed in selecting a name to recommend to the board of education. Several suggestions for names have already been presented, Sandahl said.

The board also approved the purchase of Lots 17, 18, 19 and 20 in Block 3 of Porter's Addition near Lincoln high school pending final development of papers by legal counsel. The four 25x140 foot lots have a price of $10,000.

Approval was also given to the Minneapolis Habitat for Humanity program to use one of the school gymnasiums for a meeting on the night of July 16.

Adjustments to the school calendar were announced by Supt. Robert Duncan. March 1 will be a curriculum day in the district with no classes for students. April 23 will be a "late start" day with classes beginning at 9:30 a.m. to accommodate staff attending an appreciation breakfast sponsored by the local chamber of commerce education committee.

Salary lane changes were approved for Dianna Newton, Diedre Nordin and Paivi Young and mid-year step increments for Sharon Baron, Peter Solem, Denice Nelson, Julie K. Olson, Carol Tranby, Mary Almquist, Mike Collette, Mary Follett, Jeanne Olson and Juneal Peterson.

The board authorized posting for a learner manager for a single parent, displaced homemaker and single pregnant women program (funded through a Carl Perkins grant) effective February 17-June 30 and for a temporary full-time elementary SLD/EBD/EMH teacher at Mark Twain elementary school effective immediately through the end of the 1992-93 school year.

The board also nullified a resolution from the previous meeting to purchase a new commercial 4-door sedan and approved a resolution to purchase a new 1993 Ford Taurus station wagon. It also approved the four-year lease of a 1993 Plymouth Acclaim for the driver's education program.

Next meeting of the board will be held Monday, February 22, at 7 p.m. in the district service center.

Marshall ASCS announces '93 program sign-up

Producers in Marshall county are invited to call now for an appointment to sign up for the 1993 wheat and feed grain program. Sign-up opens March 1 and closes April 30, according to the Marshall county office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

There will be no required set-aside acres for wheat, barley and oats in the 1993 program, while corn requires a 10 per cent set-aside and grain sorghum requires a five per cent set-aside.

Projected deficiency payments for 1993 are $1.05 per bushel for wheat, 52 cents per bushel for barley, 15 cents a bushel for oats, 72 cents a bushel for corn and 70 cents a bushel for grain sorghum. Advance payment of 50 per cent of the projected deficiency payment is available.

Producers will receive deficiency payment on 85 per cent of their base acres in 1993 for wheat, barley and oats. Deficiency payments will be paid on 75 per cent of the base acres for corn and 80 per cent of the base acres for grain sorghum.

The 0-92 program will again be in effect for the above crops in 1993. The program will also offer the flex acre provision, under which producers may flex up to 25 per cent of a base to other program crops, oil seed crops, sugar beets and soybeans. The crops listed previously will protect the crop base. The first 15 per cent base flex acres are nonpayment acres. The additional 10 per cent flex acres would result in the loss of deficiency payments from the crop base being flexed.

Informational meetings on the program will be held February 25 at 9:30 a.m. in the Grygla community center and 1:30 p.m. at the Newfolden community center. Meetings on February 26 will be at 9:30 a.m. in the American Legion club rooms in Stephen and 1:30 p.m. at the American Legion club rooms in Warren.

TRF joins cities supporting Project 2000

learn and develop new skills, and insure that schools are free from drugs and violence.

The goals of Minnesota 2000 are expanded versions of National Education Goals, which were established under America 2000. Like the following six National Education Goals Minnesota also has six education goals.

1) All children in America will start school ready to learn.

2) The high school graduation rate will increase to at least 90 per cent.

3) American students will leave grades four, eight and 12 having demonstrated competency in challenging subject matter including English, mathematics, science, history and geography; and every school in America will ensure that all students learn to use their minds well, so they may be prepared for responsible citizenship, further learning, and productive employment in our modern economy.

4) U.S. students will be first in the world in science and mathematics achievement.

5) Every adult American will be literate and will possess the knowledge and skills to compete in a global economy and exercise the rights and responsibilities of citizenship.

6) Every school in America will be free of drugs and violence and will offer a safe, disciplined environment conducive to learning.

Minnesota has a long history of innovation in the field of education. Teachers are among the most qualified and innovative in the nation. Students' test scores are fourth in the nation. The graduation rate exceeds 90 per cent, adult literacy is well above the national average, and most schools are not plagued by drugs and violence.

But, Minnesota cannot afford to continue to "throw away" even 10 per cent of each new generation. In addition, educators realize that the education received by Minnesota students must be valuable to future employers and relevant to future jobs. Every student can learn and every Minnesotan can help students succeed.

The six National Education Goals listed above, were reviewed by community, education and business leaders from across Minnesota and adapted to fit the needs of Minnesotans.

The two tracks in Minnesota 2000 — a focus on the support of learning readiness of students and a focus on the six education goals — recognize a current reality of education. That reality is that no amount of change within instruction and the academic program will have significant impact on the learning of students unless those students are ready to learn. It's a recognition that without the base of learning readiness, no amount of change will make any difference in learning and achievement.

The learning readiness track of Minnesota 2000 builds on the first goal of the six national and Minnesota 2000 goals — that every child will start school ready to learn. Healthy babies and quality early childhood education play a critical role helping students reach kindergarten ready to learn. But that is not enough. Children are increasingly arriving at the school carrying social burdens that schools are not equipped to handle effectively. That diverts educators from their primary mission: to provide the education necessary for Minnesota children to compete and succeed.

The connection between money and educational success has never been clear but the state realizes that additional dollars may be necessary to reach our goals. What the state needs to know first, however, is how well it is spending current resources. Communities can play a critical role in assessing what is needed and then how the state can best meet that need. By initially taking the polarizing issue of money off the table, communities can begin to craft solutions to their educational challenges which truly address the need.

To see that these goals are adapted to fit Thief River Falls, a group of individuals representative of the community have been appointed to serve on Project 2000: Nancy Tofte, Jean Heinrichs, Larry Belmont, Jamie Clark, Judy Dimich, Lynn Dyer, Glenn Espe, Marie Hvidsten, Carol Ihle, Judy Johnson, Penny Langland, Kent Larson, Diane Lehrer, Merle Lindberg, Cheryl Lee, Diana Newton, Kathy Olson, Sue Olson, Karmen Ortloff, Julie Rambeck, Deb Stenseth, John Tofte, Darla Twomey, Liz Wigand, Harriet Worker, Chris Burnham, Jim Goldesberry, Mary Follett, Duane Holland, Phyllis Schmidt, Katie Henke, Orley Gunderson, Skip Swanson, George Davis, Dave Hill, Barb Kalinoski, Jane Mattson, Marcia Sandahl, Bev Arnston, and Robert Duncan. These people includes business leaders, parents, senior citizens, elected officials, teachers, students, and social service providers. They are a representation of the community itself, but they also need the support of the community.

Many people have already expressed interest in finding out more about Thief River Falls 2000 and why communities need to work on education. Vice Mayor [illegible] Heinrichs who serves as the [illegible] 2000 coordinator, invites [illegible] to attend the public meeting.

which was supported unanimously. Don Barron added that it was not his intent to "deep six" the issue by tabling it.

■ The council approved a recommendation to submit an updated community needs statement to DTED, which is one of the first steps in submitting an application for a Small Cities Development Block Grant.

A memo from Don Stewart, community development director, stated that his department and Northwest Regional Development Commission staff were beginning the process which could lead to submittal later this year of a Small Cities Development Block grant application. One of the first steps required by the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development (DTED) is submittal of a community development application. This application states, in a very broad, general way, the project purpose(s) and provides DTED with an updated community needs statement.

Similar applications that led to water treatment plant improvements, and feasibility studies for an outdoor swimming pool and improvements to the Huck Olson Civic Center, were submitted in 1989.

Stewart's memo stated that the preliminary project purpose, at this time, is a grant application requesting funding for a project that would consist of three components. The first would be a commercial rehabilitation component in the Central Business District associated with the infrastructure replacement project scheduled for 1994. The second would be a single-family housing rehabilitation component and the third a rental properties rehabilitation component.

In the next couple of weeks committees will begin fleshing out the proposals and informing the public.

■ The city council has agreed to assume a leadership role in a proposal to repair machinery at the historical village.

Council member Dale Wennberg presented copies of a letter from Ralph Engelstad to other council members Tuesday night. The letter from Engelstad states that now that the storage building for the Pioneer Village was erected, it's time to do something about getting the farm machinery ready to be put inside the building.

Engelstad said he would be willing to make a donation in the amount of $15,000 to cover the cost of hiring four people at minimum wage to prepare the farm machinery.

In other business, the council: discussed fire hall repairs and setting dates for further meetings on the issue, approved a progression raise for Steve Mahling; approved an electric service agreement between Roy and Rose Dudley for the sale of electricity for heating of a building, approved a recommendation to advertise for bids for a tandem axle truck with box and hoist for the street department; approved a memo for volume based pricing on garbage collection (see story in the Northern Watch); approved a progression raise for Charles Lilja; approved a recommendation to direct the community development department to submit a draft of amended land use regulations, including proposed Shoreland Management to the Department of Natural Resources; approved a public dance permit for Ryan Walseth on Thursday, February 11, and for a public dance permit for Matthew Perkins on Friday, February 12.

Date changed for science fair

Due to a scheduling conflict in use of the gymnasium, the Plummer school science fair has been changed from Monday, February 22, to Tuesday, February 23, according to Don Fox, science instructor and coordinator for the annual event.

Students in fourth through ninth grades will provide most of the projects which will be judged beginning at noon Tuesday. Exhibits will be open for public viewing during an open house from 4 to 8 p.m.

A special program will take place at 7 p.m. when Chuck Decter of Bemidji State University will give a demonstration on cold. He will also provide information on the new science center to be built in Bemidji.

Industrial arts students of Mark Lee will have a number of projects built in the school shop on display. The public is invited to attend the open house and evening program.

Impressions . . .

Beth Johnson

This past month I have reached a milestone of sorts. I have begun my fifth year of writing this column "Impressions." I could hardly believe that four years had passed since I first talked with the Times about a weekly column. But, sure enough, looking into my files I found that I was now using my fifth file folder to hold copies of this column.

I hope that through the years I have caused those of you who read this column to ponder the various things I have written. Not a week goes by that I do not have some of you mention to me your thoughts about my column for the week or my columns in general. I appreciate your encouragement.

This column has been a learning experience for me. It has caused me to think. Each week as my personal deadline would loom I found that I needed to do some serious thinking about my "topic" for the week's column. Rarely have I sat down to write without a pretty good idea of what I was going to write about. But, the writing is the part that continues to amaze me. In spite of my ideas and in spite of the fact that many times this column is written in my head before I put it on paper, when I actually begin to type it, it seems to take on a life of its own. I don't always recognize the final work as that which I have been pondering. It leads me to realize that the impressions we form along life's way become a part of our beings.

This column has created an outlet for my thoughts and sometimes my feelings. It has been a way for me to direct my feelings into positive words. It has been a way for me to direct my feelings into positive words. It has been a good vehicle for the practicing of discipline. Deadlines see to it that once in a while the midnight oil is burned.

In thinking about these past four years, I decided to take a look at that first column I wrote. It was about my impressions of Thief River Falls as a newcomer to the community. It was also my personal introduction to you. In reading it I realized how time has certainly changed some of what I wrote about.

I introduced myself as the mother of one teenager and one soon to be teenager. I am now a mother of a teenager and a college student. I write of our dog and cat and fish. Only our dog remains as a part of our household. I write of my religious upbringing and my life as a pastor's wife. I have experienced the most brutal testing of my faith in organized religion during these past four years. But I find that I remain a person of faith.

I speak of my impressions of our town. I wrote that the downtown business district had actual stores behind the store fronts. Today we still do. I write of the ability to purchase almost anything in Thief River. Today I feel as though we can still purchase just about anything we need from our businesses.

I wrote about the schools in Thief River and the way in which we felt they were going to meet the needs of our children. Today I can see the imperfections in our schools, but I can also see the commitment our town has made to the importance of education by passing the bond issue for a new elementary complex.

I wrote about the attractiveness of our town. I still view our town as an attractive place in which to live. I wrote about the beauty of Third Street Boulevard. Today I know that yes, it is pretty, but it's also extremely noisy with all of its traffic.

Today I don't find myself looking at Thief River with the rose colored glasses of a newcomer to this fair city. But, I do find myself looking at Thief River and saying that, yes, this town does impress me as a good place to live. It impresses me as a good place in which to raise children. It impresses me as a good place to call home.

Passing a milestone is good for all of us once in a while. It causes us to search the past for the reasons for the future. It causes us to see what we have accomplished and then helps us find a dream for the future. "Impressions" has given me a way to share with you the things and values I care for deeply. I hope that my impressions cause you to think about the impressions you have made a part of your being.

Say What?!

By Karmen Lee Ortloff

In case you missed last week's edition of "Say What?!," I'll fill you in.

Basically, I had a nightmarish flight complete with turbulence over Cleveland and engine problems. The highlights were a woman pilot (I think I failed to mention last week that this was a liberating thought) and Senator Byron Dorgan.

So, without further ado, here is part II of my trip to Washington.

I was in Washington for a meeting of the National Federation for Catholic Youth Ministry.

I was supposed to look for a sign that said NFCYM at the airport. When I got off the plane, I immediately kissed the ground and then I looked around for the sign. There was no sign.

I thought, well, maybe it will be near the baggage claim, so I went there. Not only was there no sign, but my luggage wasn't there!

Naturally, I did what anyone would do. I started to cry. Okay, I didn't actually cry, but I wanted to! After all, I didn't know what the people picking me up looked like. I was scared so I started to walk around the airport terminal trying to look like I was a commuter and I knew what I was doing. I don't think I fooled anyone.

At last I saw a woman standing by herself, with a NFCYM sign. Yay! When I got to her and identified myself, she said, "I have never been so happy to see someone in my life."

At that moment, after being stuck in a terminal in a strange city, without a chaperone, without luggage, without the phone numbers of the NFCYM people, I think I was much happier to see her than she was to see me.

Losing my luggage would have been the perfect ending to an already horrifying trip. Fortunately, my luggage did come. It came in with the baggage from Chicago. I do not claim to understand airlines.

I was staying in Bethesda, Maryland so it was a nice little jaunt to my hotel. My gracious tour guide/hosts (the lady with the sign and her husband) pointed out everything of importance along the way.

First there was Georgetown University (Bill Clinton's alma mater and someday mine), there was the CIA building hidden behind a forest (shortly after we passed it, several people were murdered there; comforting thought), and then there was the Naval Hospital where Presidents go if they have the sniffles (Thurgood Marshall died there, only a couple blocks from my hotel so I was there when the flags were being lowered at his burial).

From the beginning of the week, everyone knew Thursday night was when each region of the United States would go out separately.

I was in region VIII, a small region to begin with. At the meetings in Washington, however, only two of the ten other people could make it. So, myself, Nancy (from Sioux Falls, SD), and Dave (from Rapid City, SD) went out as a trio. We decided to go to this "casual" restaurant someone in the lobby had told me about, the Notte Luna.

Allow me to backtrack for a moment. Nancy and I, while we were trying to figure out what to do Thursday evening, decided we were going to go to the White House. The only time you can get tours is from 8 a.m. to noon and if you didn't have tickets, you might not get in at all.

I'm not one to stand around in lines, so Nancy and I decided we had to get some tickets. This is MUCH easier said than done.

In order to get tickets, you have to get a hold of your state's Senators or Representatives. Not a problem! We decided to just call information and get the office phone numbers. Information could not (or would not, depending on how you look at it) give us the phone numbers.

We had to get tickets, so Nancy whipped out her calling card (she's an adult so her parents won't be upset at the cost) and called information all the way back in Grand Forks in order to get the phone number of someone in Thief River Falls who I knew would have the phone numbers.

After getting the necessary numbers (by the way, thank-you to the lady that looked the numbers up... she knows who she is), we started to call around Washington.

Senator Wellstone's office had run out of tickets and so, though they wanted to, were unable to help.

That left Congressman Peterson's office. About this time, all the other youth were starting to tell Nancy and I to give up because we weren't going to get tickets. I think not!

I called the Congressman's office and they said that they had just placed an order for tickets five minutes ago and the office at the White House was about to close. I (ahem!) calmly explained that we needed tickets for the next day because it was the only day we could make it.

The woman on the other line put me on hold.

While on hold, the youth delegate from New York asked, "Did you get tickets to see Bill yet? Ha Ha Ha!" I was crabby and snapped back, "I AM going to get tickets and I WILL see the White House! And it's MR PRESIDENT to you!"

The lady on the other end overheard this last part and asked, "Excuse me?" "Oh no, I don't mean you!" She had gotten me two tickets to the White House for the 8:45 a.m. tour. All I had to do was get to her office and pick up the tickets before they closed at 6:00 p.m. (Since the office didn't open until 9:00 the next morning, it was vital we get there that night.)

We couldn't leave our hotel until 5:15 that night (Dave had a late meeting) and so Nancy and I were more than a little antsy.

We jogged the seven blocks to the Metro (that would be 21 TRF blocks) and hopped on the next trail to Capitol Square. Once we were out of the subway station, we quickly ran down the street to make it to the Longworth Building, where our tickets were waiting.

We ran the wrong way (we realized this when we ended up in front of the Supreme Court building). We backtracked and got to the Longworth building with seven minutes to spare. We rushed through the door and I just about collapsed! There was one of those darned metal detectors again. It only took me three times to make it through security and we rushed to office number 1133. The door was locked.

Nancy and I both were about to cry, but Dave noticed there was another door numbered 1133.

I flung the door open and stepped inside as if I owned the place! I saw an envelope on the desk with my name on it. Yes! We had made it... I felt like Indiana Jones.

As I grabbed for the envelope, the woman I had spoken to earlier gave me directions as to which entrance I should go to, when to be there, and other informative stuff (aren't those Democrats so gosh darned helpful?). I thanked her ever so much and calmly exited the office.

As soon as I got outside, Nancy and I jumped up and down and pulled out the tickets to examine them more closely. It was quite an adventure to get those babies so I put them inside my jacket for safe keeping.

The three of us then embarked on a night of sightseeing. It was dark by the time we finally got started, but it was so much prettier at night.

The three of us started to walk along the Mall (a big, two mile plus strip of grass that has monuments and museums lining both sides). There were a lot of people walking at the mall when we first began, so I felt relatively safe. It slowly thinned until it was only the three of us and an awful lot of cherry trees. The Mall gets extremely dark at night, and because we had no weapons in our possession, I was a bit nervous.

"Just so you both know," I told the two adults I was with, "if I die here tonight, my mom's not going to let me go to Georgetown."

They reassured me that I was not going to die (by the way, I didn't die).

We walked the entire Mall, paused at the Washington Monument, went down to the reflecting pool, and visited the Vietnam War Memorial (I cried when I started to read all of those names engraved on the Wall).

We also went up into the Lincoln Memorial. Now, if you go up to see Honest Abe, there is the big statue of him in the middle and in separate areas on the sides of him, there are areas blocked off by marble columns. If you go to read the speeches chiseled into the walls, I suggest you enter at your own risk. (The place is swarming with pigeons and you might get something you didn't bargain for. This did not happen to ME, but it did happen while I was there, so be careful.)

After going everywhere, doing everything, and seeing everything, we went to the Notte Luna. It was not casual as I was earlier told. We were, however, seated and I started to feast on mussels (yuck! they're gross), on a Greek salad (my mom had plants that looked just like the stuff I was eating), on some special Italian biscuits with some kind of goat cheese (this was actually pretty good!), and on swordfish. If you never had swordfish, I encourage you try it, provided you are not picking up the bill. Such was the case here, or believe me, I would never have tried it. I did eat it. I will never eat it again, but I did eat it.

We didn't get back to our hotel until very early the next morning, so Nancy and I didn't get much sleep before it was time to get up and leave for the White House. Surprisingly, though, we did both get up.

Our excitement continued to grow as we started our trek back into Washington.

We brought along a lady from Alaska (Nancy's friend from the NFCYM) and asked if she could go on the tour with us even though she didn't have a ticket. The lady at the front gate said she could go along if the Secret Service was in a good mood that day and would let her in. She told Nancy and me that she would wait for us outside the gates, after all, Secret Service people weren't supposed to be nice. It's the law.

We dragged her in line with us and I asked the Secret Service if she could come with us, seeing as we already had two tickets and all. The Secret Service guys looked at each other and tossed me an extra ticket (it was from Congressman Vento). We quickly passed through the metal detectors (I passed on the first try) and tried to blend in before they could change their minds.

While on the tour, our Secret Service tour guide said we would have to wait in the China Room because President Clinton was speaking with the group ahead of us.

Now, I knew I was in the President's home and everything, but you really don't think about the President actually being there. I was this close to Bill (I can call him Bill because I voted for him) and so I just had to see him.

When we finally went upstairs, we had to wait at the doorway of this large room because Bill was still in there.

I had to see him and because there was only one Secret Service guy blocking the doorway, I decided to go for it. I managed to slip around his back and I saw Bill!

Alright, he was turned to the side a bit so I didn't get a good view, but it was him! He was doing that thing he does with his thumb and forefinger and his silver hair was a dead give away.

I gasped and mumbled "Bill Clinton" when there was a hand on my shoulder. The Secret Service guy ever so gently told me, "Ma'am, you can't be in here," and dragged me out of there. I don't think he was too happy with me because he kept me within arm's reach the rest of the tour. But I did see him!

I did many, many other things while I was in Washington, but I plead the fifth Amendment of the United States (I did see this document, by the way) on the grounds revealing such information could incriminate me.

My flight home was relatively uneventful, as compared to my trip out to Washington. I did, however, have one brief moment of anxiety. While landing, the flight attendant came on the air to welcome us all to Great Falls, Minnesota.

Oh no! I got on the wrong plane? I can't believe they didn't say something while I was boarding.

"What?" I heard someone whisper over the air, "oh, excuse me, welcome to Grand Falls, Minnesota!"

It's good to be home.

Prowlers come up with win

For once, things went their way down the stretch Saturday as the Thief River Falls boys beat East Grand Forks 56-50 in a high school basketball matinee at the Lincoln gym.

It was just the second win in 17 starts for the Prowlers, who lost to the Green Wave 73-67 earlier this year.

"We're excited about the win," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "We won a close game. We made some big plays down the stretch when we needed it. We did some nice things, and we were a little lucky, too. But sometimes you need some luck, and we haven't had a whole lot of that this year."

It was close throughout. Thief River Falls had an 11-9 first quarter lead, fell behind 26-23 at halftime, but pulled even at 37-37 as the third quarter came to a close.

Things were still tight in the final minute as East Grand Forks' Pat Whitty hit a three-point basket to give the Green Wave a 50-49 edge with 32 seconds left, and Thief River Falls' Preston Treat watched his long jumper carom off the rim, but then drop through to give the Prowlers a 51-50 lead with 18 seconds remaining.

East Grand Forks' next attempt at regaining the lead was stuffed by a Kyle Sanden block.

Shane Zutz then hit two free throws with four seconds to go, and he added a third gift toss when the visitors were hit with a technical foul for calling a time out they did not have.

The ensuing possession resulted in a Sanden basket at the buzzer for the six-point gap at the end.

Sanden, a 6-8 freshman, led the Prowlers with 21 points on 10-for-13 shooting, while Zutz, a 6-2 senior, was a key figure with a team-high 10 rebounds. "Kyle was aggressive," pointed out Brekke, "and Shane really did a nice job on the boards for us."

Whitty, a 6-2 senior, shared game-high scoring honors with Sanden by netting 21 points. Justin Knowlton, a 5-10 sophomore, joined him in double figures with 10.

Thief River Falls shot 47 percent from the field (24/51), while East Grand Forks shot 38 percent (19/50). The Prowlers had a quiet 4-for-7 night at the free throw line, but they made them at the end, while the Green Wave made 10 of 12 free throws. A sizeable 32-18 Thief River Falls rebound advantage was negated a bit by 18 turnovers to just seven for East Grand Forks, but the Prowlers turned it over only six times in the second half.

"We did a much better job protecting the basketball in the second half," said Brekke. "We were real happy with the effort. We were especially pleased that we were able to come back like that after Tuesday's disaster at Moorhead," he added, referring to the Prowlers' 114-29 loss to the Spuds.

Thief River Falls guard Toni Chiodo looked for a teammate and a passing opportunity as she controlled the basketball in the lane during Friday's North Sub-Section 8AA match-up against Fergus Falls. The Prowlers' Carrie Lawrence, along with the Otters' Brandi Rocholl looked on. Thief River Falls won the game 58-54.

TRF girls edge Fergus Falls

Patterns and diagrams were tossed aside for a little individual expression Friday and the Prowlers responded with maybe their best offensive effort of the season in a 58-54 girls high school basketball win over visiting Fergus Falls.

The Prowlers' offense, or more specifically, their shooting, has been less than championship-caliber for much of the winter, so head coach Sally Wiltse decided it was time for a change. And not just a little switch, either.

"This was one of the best games we've played all year," said Wiltse after the Prowlers improved their record to 8-11. "We put in a new offense this week – the freedom offense. We've been so structured all year, we decided to let them freelance. They've got a couple of rules, but otherwise they are on their own."

It worked. For the first time this season the Prowlers had four double figure scorers, led by 5-10 senior Amy Adams with 20 points and 5-11 junior Lisa Ulrich with 14, while 6-0 junior Lori DeLap and 5-5 junior Toni Chiodo both had 10.

But the Prowlers' offense would not have been enough if they had not tightened up defensively after spotting Fergus Falls a 22-16 first quarter lead.

"They (Otters) were on pace to score a hundred points," said Wiltse. "We got out of our man and went to a zone. That helped a lot."

The Otters hit nine of their 16 first quarter shots, a 56 percent clip, but cooled down to a 35 percent, 20-for-57 night overall.

Thief River Falls caught Fergus Falls at 30-30 with 2:47 left in the first half with three straight baskets in a 56-second span – a 12-footer by Ulrich, a bucket from underneath by Jami Dehnert and a short jumper in the middle by DeLap.

But the Prowlers then missed their final ten shots of the half to trail 34-31 at intermission.

A rebound basket by Adams, a short jump shot by Ulrich and a free throw by Adams gave Thief River Falls a 40-37 edge midway through the third quarter and that stood up for a 46-43 lead at the final break.

Fergus Falls' Katie Solseth came off the bench to nail the only three-point basket of the night with 3:49 remaining as the Otters regained the lead, 51-50.

But Adams shook herself free underneath and converted a nifty feed from Chiodo into a go-ahead lay-up with 2:44 to play, and then turned play-maker herself to hit an open Ulrich in the middle for an uncontested 10-footer that made it 54-51 with two minutes showing on the clock.

Fergus Falls never got the lead back. Brandi Rocholl scored on an in-bounds play with 1:26 to play to make it 54-53, but Chiodo made both free throws on a bonus situation with 37 second left to rebuild the three-point spread.

Both sides had chances to score in the frantic final seconds, but it stayed 56-53 until the Otters' Jessica Howland drew a foul taking the ball to the basket with just three seconds remaining.

She made the first free throw, then intentionally missed the second in hopes of controlling the long rebound and then getting off a potential game-tying shot. However, she failed to hit the rim on the second free throw, giving the ball to the Prowlers. Adams clinched it by making two free throws with two seconds left.

It was just the second win in six North Sub-Section 8AA starts for the Prowlers, with both coming over the Otters. Thief River Falls won a 50-49 overtime decision at Fergus Falls Jan. 7.

Rocholl, a 6-0 junior, led Fergus Falls with 16 points, while 5-11 sophomore Cara Paulius netted 14 and 5-10 sophomore Becky Lejcher had 10. Paulius had eight points on four long jumpers in the first nine minutes before cooling off when the Prowlers went to a zone.

Thief River Falls shot 39 percent from the field – not great by usual basketball standards, but a pretty fair outing for a team that shot just 15 percent in a 54-25 loss at Bemidji a week earlier. The Prowlers were 6-for-10 at the free throw line, where the Otters were

Prowlers make bid for Top Four spot

■ 5-2 win over Otters could improve tournament seed

Saving the best for last, Thief River Falls put together one of its better performances of the year Saturday as the Prowlers closed out their 1992-93 regular season high school hockey schedule with a 5-2 win over Fergus Falls at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Five different players – Corey Olson, Marc Seaverson, Carter Rogalla, Jeremy Olson, and Brent Kleinvachter – scored goals for the Prowlers, who are 4-for-4 in February to turn a 7-10-1 record into an 11-10-1 mark heading into post-season play.

The win over a 15-5 Fergus Falls team that had won eight of its previous nine starts, also supplied Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo with a realistic expectation for a top-four spot when the Section 8 coaches meet today (Wednesday) to draw up the post-season playoff field. The Otters and Prowlers figure to face each other in the Tier I quarterfinals, with the home ice going to the No. 4-seeded team.

"It was a good hockey game," said Chiodo after watching the Prowlers snap a 3-3 tie with a pair of goals spaced 33 seconds apart in the third period. "Both teams had a lot riding on this game. It was a real important game for us as far as seeding purposes, and for our seniors in what might have been their last home game. We played well. We stayed hungry and we stayed focused. We didn't have any letdowns."

There was only one goal scored in the first period – a tip-in by Olson with jut 1:34 elapsed – but there was lots of action around both nets. Thief River Falls goalie Trevor Haugen came up with several big saves to stop an early Fergus Falls assault, and wound up with 25 saves for the night. "Trevor played steady for us," noted Chiodo. "That's what we've been asking our goalies to do all year, and he has been getting the job done the last month or so."

Fergus Falls took a 2-1 lead at the start of the second period when Chris Welle was left alone in front and he converted a centering pass from Section 8 scoring leader Greg Buckmeier into a goal with just 30 seconds elapsed, and Dave Thacker's long blast off the right wing caught the inside of the far pipe at 3:19.

But Seaverson matched Thacker's effort at 6:14 with an ice-hugger from the circle to the right of Fergus Falls goalie Chris Horgen for a 2-2 tie.

Horgen got caught coming out of the net late in the second period, and when he failed to control the puck, Rogalla, at a tough angle near the goal line, caught the corner of the open net for a 3-2 Thief River Falls lead at 13:53.

Jeremy Olson wound up with the puck on top of Horgen and he put it in the net at 4:53 of the third period as the Prowlers gained a two-goal edge.

Moments later the Prowlers were on the attack again. Horgen made two nice stops, but after a glove save, he ended up tossing the puck to Kleinvachter in the slot while trying to clear the zone. The junior defenseman capitalized on the opportunity when his shot from the point stayed on the ice and got through a crowd for the 5-2 final.

The three-goal spread and the fact that Thief River Falls out-shot Fergus Falls 42-27 for the game shows the Prowlers deserve to be seeded ahead of the Otters for the final home ice playoff berth, according to Chiodo. "I think we have a legitimate shot at No. 4," he said.

Top eight seeds will be grouped into the Tier I quarterfinals that will be played Saturday, Feb. 27, with No. 8 at No. 1, 7 at 2, 6 at 3, and 5 at 4. Semifinals and finals will be played at Moorhead – a Tuesday, March 2, semifinal doubleheader, followed by the Friday, March 5, championship game.

Teams seeded 9-through-19 will be competing for the Section 8 Tier II title. They begin post-season eliminations Tuesday, Feb. 23, at various sites of the higher-seeded teams. Tier II quarterfinals will be played Friday, Feb. 26, before the semifinals move into the Moorhead Sports Center Monday, March 1. Tier II final will be played Thursday, March 4.

Ninth Grade Girls

- East Grand Forks 44, TRF 32. Sarah Hoeler 10 points.
- TRF 36, Fergus Falls 13. Lydia Balmer 10 points.

Freshman defenseman Kaine Martell, adapting to the position after a mid-season switch from forward, picked up a loose puck along the boards behind the Prowlers' net in Section 8 high school hockey at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. The Prowlers beat Fergus Falls 5-2 in their 1992-93 regular season finale Saturday.

NCC ends season with home games

Northland Community College men's basketball team will try to salvage something out of a disappointing 1992-93 season when the Pioneers close out the schedule at home with an 8 p.m. Minnesota Community College Conference game against rival University of Minnesota-Crookston Thursday and a 2 p.m. nonconference final vs. UND-Lake Region Saturday.

The Pioneers are 3-17 overall and 0-9 in the Northwest Division following MCCC losses to Brainerd 96-68 Saturday afternoon and Fergus Falls 103-59 Monday night.

Northland beat UND-Lake Region 76-68 back on Dec. 7. The Pioneers lost to UMC 75-62 earlier this month.

Brainerd ... 96
Northland ... 68

Brainerd went to the free throw line 46 times and hit 33 of them in beating Northland 96-68.

"We've been teaching the kids to play physical defense, and really, I don't think we're physical enough," offered Northland coach Mark Dannhoff. "But we're going to have to learn to adapt to how the games are being called. If they are going to call a lot of fouls, we're going to have to make some adjustments."

Brainerd led 41-29 at halftime and was never challenged.

"It was probably our worst performance all year," said Dannhoff. "We weren't in it from the start."

Northland shot only 34 percent from the field (26/77), while Brainerd shot 48 percent (28/59). The Pioneers were 16-for-23 at the free throw line in joining the Raiders for a 69-free throw show.

Fergus Falls ... 103
Northland ... 59

Northland's efforts to control the tempo failed to stop state tournament-bound Fergus Falls from racking up a 103-59 win.

"We spread the floor, knowing we had to keep the scoring down," explained Northland coach Mark Dannhoff, whose slow-down tactics held the Spartans to 18 points in the first 11 minutes. However, the Pioneers had just nine points themselves at the time. "We did what we wanted to do, but we didn't finish," he pointed out. "We had a number of good shots that we missed."

Fergus Falls overcame the Northland slow-down efforts to build a 44-19 halftime lead.

"They're a very good basketball team," acknowledged Dannhoff. "They just may be the best in the state."

Northland struggled with a 25 percent shooting night (21/85), while a 49 percent 33-for-68 showing by Fergus Falls included 11 three-point baskets.

Both teams made lots of trips to the free throw line, where the Pioneers were 16-for-25 and the Spartans went 28-for-37.

Rams end MCC win streak

A six-game Marshall County Central win streak ended Friday when the Nordics were out-scored 18-5 in the fourth quarter of a 56-43 boys high school basketball loss to Roseau.

It was a 38-38 tie heading into the final eight minutes, but game-long Marshall County Central shooting troubles caught up with the Nordics, who were just 2-for-11 from the field in the fourth quarter.

And while the Nordics were missing their shots, the visiting Rams came up with eight of their 12 free throws down the stretch.

"We shot the ball poorly all night, particularly in the fourth quarter," acknowledged Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland.

Tim Olson had a 15-point, 10-rebound game for the Nordics, but none of his teammates were able to crack double figures. The Rams got a 23-point game from David Pankratz and 22 from Jeff Taylor.

Marshall County Central shot 33 percent for the night (17/51) and went 7-for-15 at the line, where Roseau was 12-for-16. The Rams shot 45 percent from the field (22/49).

"We have a tough time against Roseau because of their defensive strength inside," explained Ueland, whose team beat Roseau twice earlier this year – 55-51 in the Thief River Falls Invitational and 60-42 in a regularly-scheduled Jan. 15 match-up.

Bergie's Business

with Jeff Storhaug

Following the professional hockey career of Thief River Falls Tim Bergland:

Feb. 15 - Still up in the big leagues and proving he can play. Tim is playing the kind of hockey we all know he can play. I believe he is bound for a permanent home in the National Hockey League.

After the Feb. 3 game against the Vancouver Canucks, the NHL took its annual break for the all star game. While most players go home for the break, Tim went back to Atlanta to visit his wife Claudia, and played three games with the Atlanta Knights, the farm team for the Tampa Bay Lightning.

He was right back with Tampa Bay after the all-star break, and picked up his first NHL goal of the year against Toronto in a 3-1 Tampa Bay win.

Two days later the North Stars were in Tampa Bay for a televised game won by Minnesota 1-0 with Tim playing very well.

Sunday Tampa Bay skated to a 3-3 tie against Boston, with Timmy picking up an assist on the third goal of the game.

Things seem to be going well for Tim, who is skating on a line with former North Star Marc Bureau and 12-year NHL veteran Steve Kasper, but in the NHL you don't don't know from one day to the next what is going to happen. Tim said he has never had as much ice time as he has in the last couple of games. It's been real encouraging for him, and he figures if he was going to be sent back to the minors they would have made the move by now.

Tampa Bay has 28 days to decide to keep Tim on a regular basis, or keep shifting him back and forth to the minors. If they decide to keep him, they will buy out the lease on his condo in Atlanta and move his wife to Tampa. Claudia really doesn't like living the simple life in Atlanta, and hopes it will be a short stay. But it makes it a little easier knowing the money is a lot better while Tim is in Tampa.

Tim left Tuesday for a road trip to Detroit and Toronto. It should be a good test for him and the rest of the team.

Strong finish nets Huskies 54-40 win

Goodridge came alive offensively in the fourth quarter Friday as the Huskies pulled away from East Grand Forks 54-40 in boys high school basketball at Goodridge.

The Eagles were up 12-6 in the first quarter and had a 19-17 halftime edge. Goodridge went ahead 30-29 in the third quarter, then outscored Sacred Heart 24-11 down the stretch when Brady Wiseth and Mitch Smsky both hit two three-point baskets.

"We played very un-inspired basketball in the first half," said Goodridge coach John Rahn. "We did a much better job in the second half."

Wiseth scored all of his team-high 15 points in the second half. He was joined in double figures by Travis Kotrba with 11 points and Eldon Quam 10. Ben Brickson led Sacred Heart with 16 points.

Goodridge shot 32 percent for the game (19/60), which included a chilly 19 percent first half showing (5/26). The Huskies were 10-for-16 at the free throw line.

Sacred Heart didn't light it up on offense, either, with a 36 percent shooting effort (17/47). The Eagles were 5-for-8 at the line.

Goodridge, 7-11, finished with a 33-23 rebound advantage.

Tigers defeat Eagles

Grygla-Gatzke stayed close, but couldn't overtake Stephen Monday as the Eagles dropped below .500 with a 70-60 boys high school basketball loss to the host Tigers.

Stephen trailed 13-10 at the end of the first quarter, but had a 28-27 halftime lead and opened up a 48-40 third quarter spread.

Grygla-Gatzke had a chance to make it a four-point game in the final minutes, but missed a close in shot, and wound up losing ground in a hurry.

Stephen wound up with four double figure scorers, led by David McGlynn with 23 points, and Grygla-Gatzke had three in double figures, led by Jeremy Engelstad with 20.

The Eagles shot 45 percent (25/56), the Tigers shot 49 percent (28/57). Grygla-Gatzke went 9-for-13 at the free throw line, where Stephen was 9-for-15.

game than Sara did. She had a major league night. She really controlled the game."

With Kittson Central center Karen Larson scoring 11 of her team-high 22 points in the first 10 minutes, the Wolfpack had early success against the Gators' man-to-man defense, taking a 19-12 first quarter lead and opening up a 13-point spread at one stage.

But a switch to a zone enabled the Gators to pull within 32-29 at halftime, and they came out of the third quarter with a 45-40 advantage.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River secured the win by going 11-for-14 at the free throw line over the final three minutes.

"It was a good win for us, beating the defending section champions in their building," said Neibauer, whose team went to 15-4.

FIRE PREVENTION IN YOUR HOME

1. Eliminate as many hazards as possible.
   - –Use only fuses, circuit breakers and appliances bearing the UL (Underwriters Laboratory) seal, or that of another testing organization that you know to be reputable.
   - –Don't overload circuits.
2. Provide adequate fire protection.
   - –At least one smoke detector on every level. If battery operated, put someone in charge of frequent battery checks.
   - –Keep operational fire extinguishers in the house wherever there is a flame, (such as kitchen and furnace room.) Check recharge level frequently.
3. Develop effective escape routes.
   - –Determine the fastest, safest escape route and then develop an alternate plan and keep them accessible.
   - –Assign responsibility for evacuating infants, elderly & disabled.
   - –Designate a meeting place outside the house for a head count. Stay together!
   - –Once outside, nobody can re-enter the house for belongings.

New program allows CRP options

A new government program allows CRP contracts in effect on November 1990, to be converted from CP-1 (legumes and grasses), CP-2 (native grasses) or CP-10 (established cover) to CP-3a (hardwood trees).

Current contracts are for ten years. Converting to trees would extend the contract payments for five additional years.

Conifers are allowed to be included in the planting, providing at least 50 per cent of the trees are hardwoods. Hardwood plantings do not require an easement and cost share is available for this conversion.

The ASCS, the SCS and the DNR Division of Forestry can assist in preparing a plan that meets land management goals and suits the environmental characteristics of the land.

Assistance is also available for applying for cost share and contract extension, acquiring planting stock and getting the trees established.

For more information contact the DNR, Division of Forestry, Warroad at 386-1304 or the local ASCS office.

Hanson dairy herd wins DHIA awards

Little wonder that the Mark and Audrey Hanson dairy herd earned the high herd average award at the annual meeting of the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement Association Monday evening at the Eagles hall in Thief River Falls.

Not only did the Hanson herd have the top individual cow and the top two-year-old cow in the association for the year, it also had more than one-fourth of the top 100 cows recorded in the association for 1992. Twenty-six cows in the 56-cow herd were among the top 100 listed in the Pennington county association by dollar volume of product.

Lyle and Joni Swanson had the most improved herd in the association based on change over a three-year period. The Swanson herd of 44 cows increased an average of 954 pounds of milk, 25 pounds of butterfat and 38 pounds of protein from 1990 to 1992.

James R. Muzzy's 12-year-old registered Holstein "Babe" received the high life-time record award for total production of 206,238 pounds of milk and 8,698 pounds of butterfat.

Larry Amundson of Thief River Falls was elected to a three-year term on the board of directors to succeed Leonard Geske of Thief River Falls. Geske was ineligible for reelection having served two three-year terms.

At a reorganization of the board, Amundson was also elected president, the position Geske had held. Mark Hanson was reelected vice president and Dale Rupprecht was reelected secretary-treasurer. All are from Thief River Falls. Other directors are Kelly Lundeen of Trail and James R. Muzzy of Thief River Falls.

Supervisors of the association are Mel and Randy Rasmussen with Lorraine Sannes as bookkeeper.

The award-winning Hanson herd averaged 26,206 pounds of milk, 832 pounds of butterfat and 778 pounds of protein in 305-day lactations completed during 1992. The herd is milked three times a day.

Top individual cow was a four-year-old from the Hanson herd which produced 31,067 pounds of milk, 1,096 pounds of butterfat and 875 pounds of protein. Three other Hanson cows occupied the second, third and fourth places in the association, all with production of more than 1,000 pounds of butterfat. Eight of the top 14 cows were from the Hanson herd.

Three other cows in the association had butterfat production of over 1,000 pounds, two owned by Mylo Carlson of Angus and one by Lyle Swanson.

Indicative of the quality of dairy cattle in the Pennington county DHIA, the association's 100th place cow had a production record of 23,478 pounds of milk, 769 pounds of butterfat and 705 pounds of protein. It tied with the 99th place cow—which had production of 21,183 pounds of milk, 885 pounds of butterfat and 676 pounds of protein—with product value of $2,562.

Comparison of the Pennington county association with the state DHIA figures was included in the annual report distributed to members. It showed that Pennington DHIA cows averaged 18,186 pounds of milk compared with a state average of 17,783 pounds while the butterfat average was 634 pounds compared to a state average of 662 pounds. Protein average was 565 pounds in the association and in the state.

Local association members fed more forage (9,480 pounds to 8,826 pounds) and more grain (6,373 pounds to 6,241 pounds) than the statewide average but total feed

Employment seminar held at aviation school

by David Hill
Associate Editor

With headlines heralding near record losses and layoffs among airline companies, it's easy for aviation students to get discouraged.

Bill Beyer, consultant for FAPA (Future Aviation Professionals of America) told students at the Northwest Technical College Aviation School in Thief River Falls not to let the headlines discourage them. There are jobs out there, he said, and it will improve.

Beyer was hired by the student senate at the technical college to present an employment seminar. Beyer is from Atlanta, GA, where he is an instructor for Clayton State College. He also puts on employment seminars for FAPA.

The job market is getting tougher, Beyer said. It has always been competitive, but despite the headlines, it is getting better in some areas. Even while large companies are laying off employees, they are also hiring.

FAPA estimates 1993 technician demand will require a total of 3,000 to 3,200 new positions — with about 1,500 coming from major airlines, about 500 from national and turbo jet airlines, 800 to 1,000 from regional airlines, and 200 for helicopter repair.

For skilled people coming out of a quality program such as the program in Thief River Falls, the situa-

Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

A monkey out of man

After you read through this Bible study go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

Whenever men try to find knowledge that would disprove a creator God, we should be curious about the reasons they are doing so (Psalm 14:1-3). A creation without a creator would mean that man is not responsible for his actions during his lifetime. One measuring device for a man's credibility is his honesty, integrity and morality. We don't need to check into history too far to find that these virtues were seriously deficient in many of our wise men of the past—people like Darwin, Jung, Adler, Plato and Aristotle. Many of them were sexual deviates and had serious mental aberrations.

Is it an accident that man picked a monkey or an ape as our predecessor of the past? Or did God bring to foolishness the wisdom of the wise (1 Cor. 1:20; 3:18-20; Is. 44:24-25)? Are we so sleepy when it comes to wisdom that we don't ask why there are no half man/half monkey creatures found in the fossil records? If evolution of a species happens gradually over millions of years, then why are the fossil records totally silent regarding any species in the process of evolving?

The absence of these missing links alone should discount the entire theory, and it most certainly does. Theory means, "I guess," yet evolutionists have the audacity to handle their theory as fact after the first few pages of introduction. This should prove to one and all their dishonesty. One would get the feeling that they are trying to persuade us to believe their fairy tales by intimidation.

If the theory of evolution was introduced for the first time in this day and age, it would be made a laughingstock. Charles Darwin said himself that his theory could never be proved unless the missing link could be found in the fossil records. That has never happened. Today, dishonest anthropologists find a chunk of bone, then fashion a head around that bone and claim this is what our distant cousins looked like. How stupid do they think we are? Or are they trying to make us stupid?

Let us get our eyes on God who is coming soon to judge us according to our deeds—whether we are serving Him by practicing righteousness toward others to please Him—which is living to the Spirit, or whether we are continuing to serve self—which is the flesh (Rom. 6:13; 8:5-8, 13; 1 John 3:10).

Man has certainly made a monkey out of himself by claiming that we came from monkeys. It's time to stop monkeying around, believe God's word and stop this foolishness which is falsely called knowledge (2 Tim. 2:25; 3:7; Heb. 10:26; 2 Peter 3:18).

Employment seminar held for aviation

tion isn't as desperate, as some students may be led to believe.

Technical skills are important, Beyer said, but other skills are also necessary in this market. Beyer said companies are looking for candidates who can communicate, have an associate of arts degree or better, and have good character.

Because the market is so tight, companies are taking the time to examine applications and check on the character and background of the candidates. Beyer said companies are doing everything they can to make sure the person they hire is a good choice. Drug tests are now routine. (FAA rules now require drug tests.) Applicants who use drugs, need not apply.

Beyer was also telling students that it is helpful to have an emphasis on Avionics (aviation electronics). Good basic skills plus aviation electronics in an applicant's background improves his or her chances significantly.

Employers also look at a student's record while in school. The quality of work they do while in school is very important, Beyer said.

To get the job you want, Beyer suggested, students make sure they have the proper qualifications and then exert the maximum effort to get that job.

Beyer assists many students prepare for that all important job interview. On Friday he visited with 56 students and another 37 on Saturday. Beyer told those students that the most common problem he sees with students is that they easily get discouraged and give up. Beyer encouraged them not to give up. They may have to send out 200 resumes before they get anything back. They may get a job in two months or they may have to wait two years before they get a job. In any event, Beyer encouraged the students to be prepared to sell themselves. That requires accepting responsibility for their job search and good preparation.

Preparation begins with practice. FAPA recommends a couple of practice interviews before interviewing. They also suggest having a professional-looking resume ready and to dress properly.

FAPA can help students prepare for their job search. They regularly provide tips, background information, and examples of the kinds of questions they will be asked during interviews. But as Beyer emphasized, students must accept responsibility for their job search.

Northern Expressions SCHOOL OF THE ARTS

Are you interested in the arts? Would you like to stretch your artistic talents to the max? Then consider the arts school. It may be the place for you.

The arts school is a tuition-free, public school for 11th and 12th graders who are highly motivated and committed to serious study. An individualized program is offered which allows students to progress to the highest level of their abilities.

Students with little or no formal education in the arts as well as students with an arts background are encouraged to apply.

Write or call:
230 South LaBree Ave.
Thief River Falls, MN 56701
Priority Application Deadline Mar. 1, 1993

What art areas will be offered at the Arts School? The school will have six art areas as its base. These six art areas are visual, media (photography, video, etc.), theater, music, (vocal, orchestral, and band) dance, and literary.

What is the Northern Expressions School of the Arts? The arts school is a tuition-free magnet school for the Seventh Congressional District of Minnesota. It is one of seven in the state of Minnesota. The funding to establish the arts school came from the 1990-92 biennium. Grants were awarded for a two year term to plan and implement a magnet arts school for each of the congressional districts in Minnesota.

What will the Northern Expressions School of the Arts be like? Each student will have an individualized learning plan that will be planned by the student, their parents, and an advisor from the school. The arts and academics are stressed equally and are integrated so students come to understand the relationships among subject areas.

Students elect to study one art area in depth but will be exposed to all six art areas in an interdisciplinary class called "Expressive Connections". The school will also design the learning process around outcomes rather than class time.

Where is the arts school? The Northern Expressions School of the Arts is located at Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls, MN.

From the Social Page

"The boys say that Emil Brink went out in the country last Saturday night to see his girl and got lost in the snow drifts and instead of a pleasant evening with his girl, he spent the night on the prairie. Emil now swears that if that girl don't move into town he will quit her."

County Division

"We learn that the new county division bill which the Red Lake Falls and McIntosh boomers are trying to pass, requires that an election to divide a county must be called upon a petition of five hundred names being presented to the county commissioners. While we are of the opinion that it is necessary for a bill of this kind to be passed, we think the legislators would make a mistake unless the terms of the bill require that the petition be signed by more than a majority of the legal voters of the county. Any town in the county could get five hundred signers to a petition and put the county to the cost of an election."

Weather Report

"Although the past week has been the coldest for several years with several blizzards, we have still to hear of any suffering from the cold. It is farther south where they are not prepared for cold weather that people froze to death."

"The trains were badly blockaded last week and from Wednesday until Sunday we were without a train or mail. The train on Sunday brought up the mail for five days."

"The SPECTATOR was compelled to issue a blizzard edition to its subscribers in the village last week on brown paper, owing to the supply of papers being detained by the storms."

Educational Mandates Can Stifle Innovation

"Decisions about how we educate our children are best made at home, in the classroom and in our local communities," states Minnesota Senator Roger Moe of Erskine. The statement echoes the expressed feelings of school boards, administrators and faculty members. Emphasis too often must be on compliance rather than education.

According to Sen. Moe, school officials have made it clear that many of the Minnesota Department of Education mandates "foisted upon" local school districts are expensive and stifle innovation and creativity.

He also points out that nearly every mandate has a rational basis and can be defended on its own. "indeed," he says, "If we were to get into a debate about each particular mandate, we would actually decide to remove very few. Taken as a whole, though, it is clear to most people involved in public education that we are stifling creativity where we need it most—In our schools. We cannot afford a cookie-cutter approach to education any longer."

Sen. Moe says that Minnesota has avoided setting up textbook adoption boards that tell local communities exactly how to educate their young people, a process that has taken place in a number of other states. But over the years the state has mandated exacting curriculum rules to the point where the number of minutes to be spent on particular subjects is set to law.

The law also states that every school must have its own licensed principal; every school year must start after Labor Day; and students must be in school for a certain number of hours and days. A good case can be made for each of these directives. But Sen. Moe touches on a key point when he says:

"A major problem with our current array of educational mandates is that they are not results-oriented. They say exactly how we should do something, and presume that the rules will help educators achieve their goals. As we move toward outcome-based education, our mandates must make a similar transition to broad-based goals.

"For example, mountains of inflexible rules exist, requiring staffing for special education needs. Those rules can be replaced with goal-oriented approaches stating that school districts will educate all students regardless of disability.

"We have already moved toward requiring standard tests that measure student learning, giving educators a better idea of whether or not their techniques are successful. With achievement measures in place, we can start mandating academic quality rather than administrative procedures."

The glut of requirements for individual school districts results from a number of well-intentioned efforts over a long period of time. But often the mandates which are applied to all districts were put into effect in an attempt to rectify a specific situation or circumstance in one or only a few districts. In some cases a new mandate even contradicts an existing one. It is erroneous to believe that a problem is solved merely by the passage of a law or the issuing of a directive, yet that belief seems to exist at the state level.

We agree with Sen. Moe when he says it isn't realistic to assume we can repeal every educational mandate in Minnesota, but it is apparent we need innovations to allow us to do a better job of educating our youth. "The mandate repeal proposal touting flexibility and educational decision-making at the local level aims the discussion in the right direction," he said. We hope it gets proper consideration in the current legislative session.

Clinton Addresses The Nation's Drug Problem... The Legal Drug Problem!

President Bill Clinton took on the nation's drug lords late last week, but not the ones dealing in illicit drugs. He assailed the nation's manufacturers of legal drugs as being greedy and building high profits on excessive charges for vaccines for children. He said the high cost of vaccine has left the United States ahead of only Haiti and Bolivia in this hemisphere in the area of percentage of child immunization.

According to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control, in the 10 years from 1982 to 1992 the average cost for a full series of shots for children has increased from $6.69 to $129 at public clinics and from $23.29 to $244 from private physicians. This would include a full series of vaccinations for DPT (diphtheria, pertussis and tetanus), polio, MMR (measles, mumps and rubella), hemophilus b influenza and hepatitis B.

Public health officials say that children should receive 80 per cent of these immunizations during their first two years. It is estimated that in 1991 only 37 to 56 per cent of all children in the U.S. and only 10 to 42 per cent of inner city children had been fully vaccinated.

President Clinton questioned why U.S. consumers must pay $10 for a polio vaccine that costs $1.80 in England and 77 cents in Belgium. The manufacturers' standard reply has been that the high cost of research—much of it on drugs which never reach the market—must be covered by the price charged for drugs which are successful and can be sold. That argument is not without merit. And the President's statement that drug companies spend $1 billion more on advertising than on research should not be an indictment in itself, for marketing is of major importance in any business with a product to sell.

It is to be expected that any assault on health care costs from the federal government level has to start somewhere, and President Clinton apparently elected to start with the pharmaceutical companies. More will be learned when the drug industry comes to its own defense, but it would seem that consumer costs for commonly-used, established drugs have indeed increased beyond reasonable limits.

While availability of effective drugs has improved the quality of life for millions of people, the cost of purchasing them may create a greater hardship than going without. Some are literally faced with the choice of buying food or drugs. That is a tragedy in a country which claims to value its people as individuals.

President Clinton has served notice that he is willing to involve government more deeply in private business. We see the first shot over the bow of the drug business as being just the opening salvo in what could become a full-scale battle between government and the private sector. And in most wars, everyone loses.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Recently several local individuals have reported receiving letters from the American Institute for Cancer Prevention asking for donations and/or door-to-door soliciting for that organization. Often people donate money and time to this and similar organizations thinking they are donating to the American Cancer Society. Many legitimate organizations solicit support in the name of various diseases but, unfortunately, some organizations in the cancer field are not worthy of support.

Every charity that solicits for donations in the state of Minnesota is required to register with the Attorney General's office. If you have questions concerning an unfamiliar charity, check with the Attorney General's Office, 340 Bremer Tower, Seventh Place and Minnesota Street, St. Paul, MN 55404. That office will provide you with information on charities you request to know more about.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer and diminishing suffering from cancer through research, education and service. The American Cancer Society meets the Charities Review Council's standard for spending at least 70 per cent of its funds on its programs.

The American Cancer Society takes pride in its high standards of accountability to volunteers, donors and the public, as well as its role in helping to establish the principles that today govern non-profit financial reporting. According to a staff person of the Charities Review Council of Minnesota, the American Institute for Cancer Research, like many other sound-alike organizations, uses less than one per cent of the money it receives for research. The remaining 99 per cent goes for administration costs, fund raising and education associated with the fund raising appeals.

Hopefully you will support local Pennington county drives when they are held. We want people to give generously, but wisely, to fight against cancer so that donations will be used effectively for cancer research, education and service programs such as those provided by the American Cancer society.

Sincerely,
Pat Johnson, president
Pennington County Unit
American Cancer Society

To The Editor:

I am a concerned student who attends Northland Community College in Thief River Falls. There is proposed legislation at the State Capitol that would double the cost of going to all public colleges in the State of Minnesota. The name of this proposed bill is the Private College Initiative.

Right now when a public college student pays tuition, the money the student pays is only one-third of the actual cost for that student to attend school. The other two-thirds of the actual cost comes by means of appropriation from the legislature.

If passed into law, the Private College Initiative would make students pay, through tuition, two-thirds of the cost of a public college education instead of the present one-third. That would, for all practical purposes, double tuition for all community colleges, technical colleges and four-year state universities.

The Private College Council is the group putting forth this possible legislation. This group is made up of representatives from private colleges throughout the state. They did a study in the fall of 1992 which they claim showed that the poor in the state need more financial aid. What this council wants to happen is that the extra one-third that the student would pay would go directly into the financial aid pot. This would benefit the private colleges because they currently receive 53 per cent of the financial aid money the State of Minnesota supplies. The more money in the financial pot means that the private colleges get even a bigger cut than they do now.

In my opinion, due to the Private College Initiative, public college students would in essence be paying part of the tuition of students in the private colleges and put an added financial burden on the public college student by doubling tuition.

I can't afford this increase. I know many other students who won't be able to afford to go to college if this proposal passes. I know many parents who won't be able to afford an education for their children. This bill affects everyone.

What can we do about the Private College initiative? Please call or write your state legislator who represents your district and express your feelings on this issue.

Also, on February 19 at 2 p.m. Sen. LeRoy Stumpf is bringing the Senate Finance Committee to Northland Community College to listen to concerns of the public on different issues. A good attendance of parents and students showing concern for the Private College Initiative will have a great impact on continuing to make education affordable for the average person.

Sincerely,
Brent Glass

FMS speech team brings home trophy

Franklin Middle School's speech team placed second to Sacred Heart's team in a field of eight at the Sacred Heart Invitational Speech Tournament in February 6.

This is the team's third year of competition. The team has grown from six members two years ago to 11 members last year to 23 members this year. Coach Diane Marshall was pleased with the results of the meet and commented that the team still has work to do to keep up the improvement shown so far this year.

Marshall looks forward to the continued growth and improvement of the team. Speech competition gives the opportunity to students to compete in non-athletic inter-school events which focus on speaking ability, poise, and interpretation of good literature. The team's next engagement will be in Bemidji on February 18.

Individuals winners were as follows: Chris Scholin, second place in informative speaking; Megan Browning, first place in humorous interpretation; Elizabeth Odette, third place in humorous interpretation; Nikolas Kotz, fourth place in humorous interpretation; Stephanie Stanina, 10th in humorous interpretation; Joe LaFriniere, third in storytelling; Lisa Dicken, fourth in storytelling; Amanda Clark, sixth in storytelling; Kate Ihle, third in serious prose interpretation; Leslie Swanson, sixth in serious prose interpretation; Gretchen Bataldén, seventh in serious prose interpretation; Nels Brown, eighth in serious prose interpretation; Emily Feyette, fourth in poetry interpretation; and Jennifer Dahlstrom, fifth in poetry interpretation.

Also competing were Meagan Miller and Lauren Lavalier from Lincoln high school who placed seventh in humorous interpretation and ninth in serious prose interpretation respectively, and Bridgette Stock, a sixth grade student who was not old enough to compete according to Minnesota State high school league rules. Had Bridgette been allowed to compete her scores would have entitled her to a second place medal.

Sen. LeRoy Stumpf encourages a speaker to share information with the senators. The Higher Education Finance Division of Education Committee held a hearing in Thief River Falls last Friday afternoon. About 100 students, administrators, faculty and parents attended the hearing and expressed their viewpoint. Most were clearly against any tuition increase and any proposal that would increase the amount of public funding for private colleges. Pictured from left are Sen. Cal Larson of the Fergus Falls area, Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, and Sen. Deanna Wiener of the Eagan area.

Senators hear resounding "No" to tuition increase

Two-year colleges and the students who attend technical colleges or community colleges cannot afford a 30 per cent or greater tuition increase. That's the message that was shared by administrators, faculty, students and parents during a public hearing sponsored by a senate Higher Education finance committee at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls Friday afternoon.

An audience composed of about 100 were given the opportunity to express their opinions at a public hearing Friday. Their message was clear — do not allow the governor's proposed higher education bill to pass through the legislature without some major modifications.

Senator LeRoy Stumpf, co-chair of the committee, explained that the governor's proposal basically calls for $134 to $140 million to be taken out of the system. Hard hit programs include customized training programs, and graduate programs. In addition, the proposal sets a base limit on how much the state gives to colleges for higher education and allows colleges to increase tuition costs to make up the difference. More income from higher tuitions is then funnelled into providing more student grants and loans.

Stumpf said tuition increases could be significant. In some instances, the result would be a 43 to 45 per cent increase in tuition at state colleges and a 27 to 34 per cent increase at technical colleges and community colleges.

Many who presented testimony spoke of limited options and accessibility. In one instance, 230 note cards in the form of a petition were presented to senators.

Brent Glass, a Northland Community college student, was concerned about the proposal which would require students to pay for two-thirds of the cost of their education rather than the one-third they pay now. The change would result in significant tuition increases.

Glass also wanted to know how the private college initiative fit into the picture. Like many in the audience, Glass was not in favor of a tuition increase that would result in more financial aid being made available to private college students.

Sen. Stumpf pointed out that the issue was complicated by decisions made on the federal level. It also boils down to setting a policy, which would make more available to those who need it most.

Feeling somewhat on the defensive because of the large number of students opposed to the governor's proposal, Sen. Len Price reminded the crowd that the committee is supposed to be the "good guys". The committee has repeatedly supported a policy that states, the best financial aid that can be given to students is low tuition.

Rep. Wally Sparby, who joined the committee at the college, encouraged students to let them know how to they can improve the financial aid situation.

A non-traditional student told the committee that she was a member of the honor society, but was also on welfare. She said that without financial aid, she would have no chance to get off welfare.

Another non-traditional student said she has always felt a great pride in Minnesota's emphasis on

Masterworks Chorale in concert on Monday

Singers from Thief River Falls and surrounding communities forming the Masterworks Chorale will present a varied musical program Monday, March 1, at 8 p.m. in the Northland Community College fine arts auditorium in Thief River Falls.

The vocalists have been rehearsing for the Masterworks Chorale presentation for many weeks and their program will include the cantata "Rejoice In The Lamb" by Benjamin Britten, music from the "Magnificat" by Johann Pachelbel (1653-1706) and a jazz medley including "Satin Doll," "Lullaby of Birdland" and others.

Admission price is $3 for adults and $2 for students with NCC passes and senior citizen discounts honored.

The festival cantata's composer is said to be England's best 20th Century composer and "Rejoice in the Lamb" is one of his best know works.

"The theme of the cantata is sacred," conductor Les Torgerson states, "but the words are taken from a long poem of the same name by Christopher Smart, an 18th Century poet who, although religious, was of a strange and unbalanced mind.

"His text was written while he was in an asylum," Torgerson said, "and is chaotic in form but contains many flashes of genius. It is an unusual piece, thorougldy enjoyed by the chorus in rehearsal, and sure to interest the audience in concert."

Torgerson added that "the talent we have in northern Minnesota is truly incredible and the Masterworks Chorale offers an opportunity for singers to work together toward the performance of great choral music. Monday evening, the chorale offers the community a rare opportunity to hear these talented people."

Featured as soloists will be sopranos Jane Olson, Darcy Reese, Karen Gladen and Amy Schultz, all of Thief River Falls, and Kathy Englund of Karlstad; altos Vi Barr of Thief River Falls and Ruth Halvorson of Lake Bronson; tenors Dennis Johnson and Jim Grindley of Thief River Falls; and basses Neil Gladen and Jon Braband of Thief River Falls.

Other members of the chorale include Lavonne Enerson, Oklee; Doris Hanson, Brooks; Nancy Rominski, Plummer; Mary and Cordell Strug, Lake Bronson; Mary Amundson, Gatzke; Sharon Mack, Kathy Olson, Lori Mackenroth, Jennifer Jacobson, Muriel Olin, Marilyn and Gerald Wigness, Opal Dargus, Laura Toren, Tyrone Birkeland, LeRoy Aasland, David Morken, Harold Storhaug and Ben Sayler of Thief River Falls.

Several chorale members will join accompanist Cathy Hagen for special accompaniment, including Marilyn Wigness, Neil and Karen Gladen, Jim Matson and Opal Dargus. Making an appearance as bass player for the "All That's Jazz" number will be Fugitives musician Greg Dally. Kari Lindemoen of Holt and Jeff Wengeler of Thief River Falls, both violinists with the Grand Forks Symphony, will appear as accompanists for the Magnificat.

"Come and hear the talent from your own community Monday evening, March 1," Torgerson invites.

King and queen of the Goodridge high school Sno-Fest were crowned at special ceremonies Friday afternoon in the school gymnasium. Seventh graders Ben Hanson and Angie Holen were crowned as their class accumulated the most points in Sno-Fest competition.

Franklin pop concert Tues.

"Morning Darkness" jazz band, the "Sunrise Singers" vocal group and the sixth, seventh and eighth grade bands will present their annual winter pop concert Tuesday, March 2, at 7:30 p.m. in the Franklin middle school gymnasium in Thief River Falls.

Bands are under the direction of Mike Lehrer and the vocal group under the direction of Marcia Knuttila. Student directors will conduct all bands with the exception of the jazz band and "Sunrise Singers."

Admission will be $2 for adults and students in grades 9-12 and $1 for students in kindergarten through eighth grade. Pre-school children will be admitted free of charge. Band Boosters members will serve cake, coffee and punch in the school cafeteria following the concert.

"This performance will differ from those in the past in that the sixth, seventh and eighth grade band will all be seated in the gymnasium at the same time," Lehrer said. "This will permit a presentation uninterrupted by groups going in and out."

Student directors include sixth graders Leah Kenner, Matt Dyer, Jasmyne Ramirez and Stephanie Wiseth, seventh graders Eeva Young, Tiffany Lee, Jim Lehrer and Trisha Anderson; and eighth graders Amanda Close, Rebecca Kenner and Elizabeth Odette.

All music performed will be of a light and popular nature, he added. Everyone of any age is invited and encouraged to attend.

Farmers Union president meets members here

In the fifth of eight winter conferences being held across Minnesota, president David Frederickson of the Minnesota Farmers Union told a handful of members attending the session in Thief River Falls about the organization's legislative positions.

Speaking Wednesday afternoon at the Best Western Inn, the former state legislator from Murdock touched on a number of concerns to members of the state organization. He also listened to concerns expressed by those in attendance.

He said that property taxes on farm land "have hit the ceiling, and so have farmers." Farmers Union considers farm land "a tool of the trade," he said, and is pushing to reduce the burden of school taxes on farm lands through adoption of a "more progressive" income tax.

David Frederickson

Farmers Union will also be seeking to maintain funding for the farm mediation program despite contentions by some that the "farm crisis" is over and the expectations that the agriculture department may say it isn't needed. Frederickson said $400,000 will be sought from the state legislature, $400,000 in matching funds from the federal government and $75,000 through the University of Minnesota.

The state president said efforts will be made to control growth of corporate agriculture. He also said the organization has been supportive, "perhaps blindly," of the MinnesotaCare health plan.

Although farmers would rather get a check from the marketplace than the ASCS office, Frederickson said, Farmers Union seeks to maintain loan rates and target levels in the federal farm program. He credited the new U.S. Secretary of Agriculture with sitting down to listen and taking direction regarding a double discount on corn.

He said farming is an energy intensive industry and he was concerned about the BTU tax proposed by President Bill Clinton, and he was disappointed that producers were overlooked in the naming of undersecretaries in the agriculture department.

Frederickson speculated that Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls is the odds-on favorite to be named state director of the ASCS program in Minnesota, and that Luann Kling of Granite Falls seems best qualified to be director of the

TC hopes to begin partnership with KLM

Visitors from KLM Royal Dutch Airlines, and Northwest Airlines, visited Northwest Technical College in Thief River Falls to look at the aviation department. The airlines are looking at participating in a new partnership arrangement with the school. Pictured from left are Bob Bollesen of the customized service department at the Technical College, Robert Scholder, an instructor at a college in Amsterdam, Henk Schuiten of KLM, Jo Arend of KLM, and William Hay of Northwest Airlines.

Representatives of KLM Royal Dutch Airlines and Northwest Airlines paid a visit to Northwest Technical College aviation program in Thief River Falls last week. As a result of this visit, administrators are hoping to begin a new chapter of cooperation between business and education.

J. den Arend, manager of technical training for KLM, said he was impressed with the college and suggested that it was possible that KLM and Northwest could conduct business with the school.

Since KLM and Northwest began working together, they have been looking for ways to improve efficiency. It didn't make much sense to continue separate maintenance operations at their joint locations across the world. Enough of difference exists between training and requirements that it will take time before the problems can be worked out.

Northwest Technical College in Thief River Falls has excellent facilities, Arend said. They have everything except a good computer based training program, he said.

With the assistance of the state legislature and Northwest and KLM, Northwest Technical College

ACTIVITIES

Nursery Rhymes

Today in our busy lives, many of our children do not know the simple nursery rhymes that most of us grew up knowing. It may be fun and educational to get a nursery rhyme book from the library and start reading some of these old favorites.

After you have read a few, help your child "act out" some of the rhymes. Some of these rhymes that lend themselves well to this activity are Jack Be Nimble, Jack and Jill and Little Miss Muffet.

Your imagination is all that is necessary for a very enjoyable afternoon "playing" with the nursery rhymes.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need oil, flour, salt, alum, food coloring and cookie cutters.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through the wide assortment of books for preschoolers including the following:

Ashforth, Camilla. Horatio's Bed. Horatio, a small stuffed rabbit, doesn't have a bed and can't fall asleep. To solve the problem, his devoted teddy bear friend decides to draw him a bed, but does this work?

Viorst, Judith. Earrings. Find out how charmingly persistent a young girl can be as she tries to convince her parents that she should have her ears pierced.

VIDEO VARIETY

Peter and the Wolf. A musical classic about a mischievous little boy and his animal friends who set out to capture an enemy wolf and learn some valuable lessons along the way.

(Contributed by the Northwest Regional Library.)

PARENTING TIPS

Safety Caps for all Prescriptions

A routine check of medication containers in households with young children is a must. All medicines should be out of the reach of children and prescription medicines must be stored in child-proof containers.

This caution is also a good idea for households where children visit frequently, including grandparents, friends, neighbors and other relatives. Kids will be kids, and those little bottles sometimes look so inviting. So, although grandparents may have to struggle to open the child-proof caps on their medications, the effort may save their grandchild's life.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk to your child about medicine. Tell him or her that a child should take medicine only if you or a doctor has said that he or she needs it and that you will give it to the child when it is needed. Never call medicine candy!

—TESTING—1-2-3—TESTING

Is your smoke detector working? Every day in America, smoke detectors save lives, by alerting someone to the presence of fire. But they can't save lives when they aren't working or aren't properly installed.

Why not test it now? It only takes two seconds to do, but sadly many people don't bother. In fact, more than half the smoke detectors installed aren't working, usually because the batteries have died, or have been removed.

It could mean your life, or the life of someone you love. The vast majority of deaths related to fire are in homes where smoke detectors are missing, or not working!

Ensure your family's safety by following these simple rules:

–Place detectors on every level and outside every sleeping area.

–Test your detectors at regular intervals.

–Maintain your smoke detectors by cleaning with the vacuum cleaner hose at least twice yearly. This will help eliminate dust buildup that may prevent your detector from working properly.

Dear Readers,
When a person learns they have a terminal illness, they are faced with many fears and unanswered questions. They need time to think things through and to adjust emotionally to their diagnosis. An excellent book, written by Dr. Bernard Siegel, Love, Medicine, and Miracles, offers insight and understanding, as well as hope, courage and reassurance to the patient and his family.

Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

PUBLIC NOTICE

The CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS Water Department announces that the maximum limit for Turbidity in drinking water was exceeded during the month of January 1993.

Turbidity is caused by the presence of finely suspended particles such as clay, sand, or organic matter in water. Turbidity can be a problem if it interferes with the Chloramine disinfection. However, the high turbidity level did not create a health hazard because the Water Department is able to maintain effective levels of chloramine for disinfection.

The Thief River Falls Water Purification Plant is currently in the construction stage of a 6.7 million dollar expansion and remodeling project. This project will enable compliance with the water quality requirements of the 1986 Amendments to the Safe Drinking Water Act.

Please be assured that the water is safe to drink. Any citizen seeking additional information should contact Allen J. Lamm, at the Water Purification Plant, phone number 681-3809.

. . . The Bridal Show

I know I was going to write a response to my son-in-law's column about my daughter's purse (and the condition of mine) this week, but, as often happens, something else came up that caught my attention. I do, however, mention my purse in this column, but I will go into further detail about it in a future column.

The other matter that caught my attention this week was the result of my younger daughter, her future mother-in-law and I gallivanting off to the bridal show this weekend. Oh, I was looking forward to it—all those pretty things to look at and elegant gowns and beautiful colors.

I went to a bridal show eight years ago with my oldest daughter (the one with the purse) and enjoyed it immensely, and I was sure there would be even more to see at this one.

There was! There were booths showing all of the fancy, romantic gee gaws that brides are going to need, the invitations, the rings and jewelry, flowers, lovely cakes, beautiful fabrics and appliques, cute little ring bearer pillows, flower baskets, headpieces.

All of the booths were very interesting and informative, the people manning them were smiling and helpful and they all provided booklets and handouts for the bride-to-be. There were even things for the mother of the bride and mother of the groom to take home with them. We had a wonderful time looking at everything and deciding what we liked best.

However, after we had looked over everything at every single booth, we were a little tired and looking forward to seeing the beautiful bridal and bridesmaid gowns at the fashion show. Oh, oh, we found out we had come too early. The fashion show would not start for another hour. What to do?

We thought we might sit down a while somewhere and chat for that hour. No such luck! Not a single loose chair in the whole place, so no place to sit down! We left the show, abandoned the wonderful parking place right near the door that we had obtained by coming early and went off to sit out the hour at a restaurant.

We were sure that when we got back to the bridal show we would be enjoying the fashion show in comfort. Again—no such luck!

When we returned to the show, we saw the same scene as we had when we left, only by now there were even more people and some of them were starting to look mighty worn out with all that traipsing around. We saw girls wearing bridal gowns in the corner, however, so we pushed our way to the pool area, thinking that the show would start soon and we'd better find a place to sit so we could see everything.

Wonder of wonders—still no chairs! When we got to the pool area where we assumed the fashion show would be held, we saw everyone still standing around. By now most of them were looking very warm and uncomfortable, either holding on to their coats or still wearing them, shifting from one foot to another.

"Surely someone will appear with chairs," I thought to myself, peering around. No chairs appeared.

"Surely someone will appear with chairs," I said out loud a few times, not very loud. My daughter glared at me, even if I didn't say it so loud. I quit saying it out loud lest I embarrass her, but I continued to think it.

The fashion show started and the brides and bridesmaids swished around the pool—lovely, elegant, so pretty.

But I was miserable, shifting from one foot to another and sweltering in my coat. It was too much work to take if off and hold it because I was holding my purse and that takes all of my energy because it is so heavy, you see.

I must say, the gowns were beautiful and I enjoyed seeing them, but after a while, when the perspiration was running down the back of my neck and my feet were hurting and my head was aching, the thrill of looking at them wore off. In fact, they all started to look alike, whirling and twirling before my tired eyes.

I decided that I would just as soon look at the beautiful wedding gowns in books, at home, sitting down, so I left.

I was told I missed some lovely wedding gowns shown during the second half of the show. I'm sure I did. Maybe I'll go to the bridal show again next year to see them, but if I walk in and don't see any chairs, I'm walking right out again.

[illegible] though there are laws [illegible] city has to find [illegible] in which to abide and yet keep all of us happy. As it's nigh [illegible] impossible to please everybody. I suggest that hopefully the [illegible] will be able to please most of [illegible] once we get accustomed to the [illegible] plan.

The new plan seems to be a pay by the volume plan. It seems somewhat equitable. But I am sure that not all of the details will be addressed until we are actually [illegible] this new system of pay by volume. I am sure that all of us have questions about this system of collection. The February 13 issue of the Watch answers many questions. I would like to raise the few questions I have.

I find it to be admirable to be encouraging recycling. Our environment will not survive if we don't begin to reuse and to recycle. We have been an extremely wasteful nation. We do need to recycle. But, why make it inconvenient to recycle? Why can't we have some sort of recyclables pickup at the same time as, or at a different time than, the regular trash pickup? Many cities, large and small, encourage their residents to recycle the most they possibly can by providing a regularly scheduled pickup of recyclables. For example, in Oak Lawn, Illinois, where my parents live, they are provided with one bin by the city. In that bin they place all of their recyclables, and then on a regular schedule they place that at their curb to be picked up.

Consider the elderly or those without ready transportation to take them to our city's recycling center—are we discriminating against those who are not able to travel to the recycling spot when we are also charging them by the volume of trash they generate? Perhaps a neighborhood recycling bins could be made available to all of us if a pickup [illegible] recyclables is not feasible?

Many of us from time to time remodel our homes or clean out our garages and attics. Some of these items—paneling, pieces of wood, carpet, etc., etc.—will not fit into bags. Will each piece need a sticker? Or, will there be some kind of exception to the rule? Or, will one sticker cover a day's load of miscellaneous?

We need to do our part to reduce the volume of trash. A trip to any large city will show areas that look like nice hills until you notice the vent pipes venting the gases from the rotting debris under the attractive pink-like hills. The quantity of trash we generate must be reduced. Each of us needs to do our part.

At our home, we currently recycle most of our yard waste in a compost pile. Each spring it's a gold mine of nutrients for my gardens. We also have a mulching lawn mower. Instead of bagging grass clippings, we let them fertilize our lawn. It saves a lot of time, and helps out the landfill problem.

At our home we try to reuse as much as possible. Probably the biggest example of reuse in our home is our fence—made of lumber we salvaged from our deck. It's a lot better use of lumber than filling up the landfill.

Since moving to Thief River Falls, one of the services that has most impressed me has been the convenient, helpful way in which our trash has been picked up. Our city has even had a program of lawn and leaf pick ups which ultimately has generated compost for our gardens.

I can only hope that our new system will continue to serve the residents of our town as effectively as it has in the past. My hope would be that perhaps with the increase in cost to all of us, there would be found a way to truly make recycling convenient for all of us.

St. Hilaire Elevator staff celebrated the grand opening February 19 of a new office building in St. Hilaire. The new 5000 square foot building, contains eight private offices, a work area, lobby and reception area, a lunch room, and three meeting rooms which can be turned into one large room. Three offices remain at the elevator. Since 1970 when the elevator handled one million bushels the company has grown to an elevator company with 10 locations throughout Northwestern Minnesota, and to handling 21 million bushels. Last year, 4000 rail cars were needed to handle all of the grain. Last year, the company recorded $68 million in sales. A big part of the company's business is hedging and crop insurance, but the company has also expanded its fertilizer, chemical and feed divisions. During the open house, Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors presented representatives of the elevator with a More Progress award. Pictured from left are: LeAnn Nelson, chamber ambassador, Bob Miller of the St. Hilaire elevator, Jerry Hesnedl of the St. Hilaire elevator, and Norm Wessink, chamber ambassador.

Klinke featured in publication

Gene Klinke, director of Indian student services at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls, was featured in a recent issue of the Northwestern Minnesota School Counselor Association publication as a "Spotlight Counselor."

The feature follows:

Growing up on the White Earth Indian Reservation in northwestern Minnesota, I was always told that I should set my sights on becoming someone useful, do something with my hands, and to always remember who I was and where I came from. You get told this enough times, and pretty soon you start to believe it.

This story could end here where a lot of friends' and relatives' dreams ended—staying at home, working for minimum wage and raising a family. But somewhere in the halls of Fosston high school I met a man named Bill Woods who was, and still is, the counselor at Fosston high school. With a lot of help and encouragement from Mr. Woods, I found that I didn't have to stay, and that not only could I attend college, but I could attend any college that I chose. Mr. Woods told me something else—that no matter how long I was gone, home would always be home and folks would be proud, win or lose.

Well, it is 16 years later and I have taken Mr. Woods' advice. I've come home, to Lengby, Minnesota, population 125 on a good day. Along the way I married a lovely lady. My wife, Janelle, and I have one daughter, Taylor Jessica, age two, who at times reminds me a lot of her father—very impatient.

Also along the way I managed to graduate from two colleges and start work on my master's degree. I've taught school both at the middle school and high school levels. For the past three years, I have been employed at Northland community College as director of Indian student services. As director, it is always my pleasure to introduce people to our program.

The Indian student services program at Northland was established in 1986 to provide a support system to Indian students who choose to attend our community college in Thief River Falls. Northland is one of three colleges which make up the Clearwater Community College Region.

Our program is here to offer a personalized support program for Indian students. Academic, career and personal counseling are integral parts of our program. We realize that the success of Indian students comes from the support they receive while on our campus, as well as the support and encouragement from family.

Gene Klinke

The faculty and staff at Northland Community College are dedicated, through education and experience, to giving Indian students the best possible educational opportunity. In the past three years we have seen a dramatic increase in our Indian student population as well as the number of Indian graduates.

At this time, Northland community College is in the process of grant writing to expand our capabilities in the Learning Center. These funds will particularly benefit Native American students because all current students are first generation and most qualify as low income. All concerns of low income, first generation "white" students are amplified with Native American students.

As director of this program, I like to speak from the heart when I tell of our accomplishments at Northland Community College. As an alumnus of this institution and a Native American myself, it is easy to instill that same pride in the Indian students who choose to attend Northland Community College.

Mock trial team goes to regional

Lincoln high school's mock trial team gained two narrow victories Monday to advance to the regional final competition Friday at Park Rapids, according to faculty coach Cal Lindberg.

Lincoln edged an improved Norman County East team 158-152 in the opening sub-region round at Fergus Falls Monday morning to advance to the sub-region finals in the afternoon. Against Norman County East the team represented the plaintiff and won the case on its merit in addition to the point total.

In the final trial in the afternoon, Lincoln defeated the other morning winner, the Perham No. 1 team, by a 158 to 150 score and also won on merit. Lincoln represented the defense in the sub-region final.

Today's sub-region competition involving the Perham No. 2, Breckenridge and Fergus Falls No. 1 and No. 2 teams will determine who Lincoln will face in the regional final Friday at Park Rapids. Winner of the Friday trial will advance to state competition.

Lindberg said his team opted to go to Fergus Falls Sunday and stay overnight at its own expense to be ready for the 9:30 a.m. trial Monday. He said the team watched videotapes of its previous trials and practiced for about three hours Sunday night. Lisa Jones, local law clerk who has been advising the team along with attorney Michael Jorgenson, attended the event and assisted with the Sunday night practice session.

Discussion on criminal violence set

Northwest Toastmasters club is sponsoring a public roundtable discussion on criminal violence on Thursday, March 4, at 7 p.m. in the basement conference room of the law enforcement center in Thief River Falls.

The discussion is one of a number which the Toastmasters club has been conducting for its members through the "Minnesota's Talking" program sponsored by the Minneapolis "Star Tribune."

Comprising the panel to facilitate discussion and answer questions will be Ken Froschheiser, Thief River Falls police chief; Dr. Robert Duncan, superintendent of School District 564; Frank Hamerlinck, member of the Thief River Falls city council; and representatives yet to be named from the county board of commissioners, county attorney's office and local Violence Intervention Project.

Arrangements for the sponsoring Toastmasters club are being made by Charlotte Bjorgaard, who said that a summary report on suggestions will be forwarded to the "Star Tribune."

Several approaches will be considered at the discussion March 4, the last of which will be an option created as the result of the discussion. Approaches to be presented are as follows:

Approach #1—Deterrent Strategy: Getting Tougher on Criminals. Serious crime is committed more frequently today because many people believe that they can get away with it, or get off easy. The most promising solution is to get tougher with criminals, to make it clear that violent acts will not be tolerated.

Approach #2—Preventive Strategy: Attacking Crime at Its Roots. To deal with crime, we must recognize its social roots. The harshness of American society provides a breeding ground for crime, and the corrections system does little to get offenders back on the right path. What is needed is a broad effort to prevent crime.

Approach #3—Selective Incapacitation Strategy: Targeting the Violent Few. A large part of the crime problem is caused by a small number of repeat offenders. The best way to come to grips with violent crime is to focus enforcement efforts on career criminals and impose harsh sentences to keep them from committing additional crimes.

Approach #4—Another option.

Northwest Toastmasters encourage any interested local people to participate in the discussion.

PRAIRIE RAMBLING

by Gretchen Beito

Coya Knutson, D-Minnesota 1954-1958, is featured in a play. Last week a play called "The Cabinet Meeting" premiered in St. Paul. Based on the premise that Susan B. Anthony has been elected President of the United States, the new administration's first cabinet meeting introduces Coya Knutson, the Secretary of Agriculture. Coya is the only Minnesotan in the mythical Cabinet and she is in the company of historic figures such as Eleanor Roosevelt, Secretary of State and Frederick Douglass, Vice-President. Only Coya is not historic—the other "Cabinet members" in the play are now deceased.

I wish I could see the play. After writing Coya's biography, many interesting things like this have happened. I can say that I could write another book because so many people have told me anecdotes about her. Today I thought I'd share a few with you.

Clarice Medchill's father was on the School Board in Plummer in 1937 when Coya came to town to interview for the music teaching position. At the interview she sat down at the piano and sang and played a song. The board hired her on the spot. When Clarice's dad came home that night, he said, "A great teacher is coming to Plummer."

One of Coya's students in Oklee was Barbara Bendickson. Coya taught many subjects at Oklee High from 1942 to 1954. Barbara said, "She was so much fun. She would make faces at us to get us to sing. We had a trio, and we would go to her house to practice. Andy would be sitting around, drinking coffee and smoking a big cigar."

Barbara also said that sometimes when they played basketball Coya would blow the whistle, and then tell the students she had forgotten why she blew it!

Coya was an active MEA member and represented Red Lake County on the area MEA board. Madelyn Robarge told me that once a year Coya would invite the board members to Andy's Hotel at Oklee where she would serve apple pie and coffee. Coya would play and sing for the group. Coya also sang and played for Bob Robarge's Railroad Brotherhood.

When Coya entered politics, she had energetic campaign workers. Jerry Amundgaard told me that when he went hunting east of Fourtown on Rapid River, there were "Coya" posters on trees all over deer camp.

Hild Hildahl of Roseau gave me a photograph of her husband hugging a telephone pole. A "Coya" poster was on the pole!

Norma Hanson said that when she moved to Goodridge in 1956, people told her, "Vote for Coya." Norma was intrigued, then, to finally meet Coya. When she did, Coya was carrying a chicken under her arm. That was probably to make the point, "A chicken in every Pot."

Coya had her detracters as well as admirers. One woman who had known Coya had told a friend, "Don't buy me the book. Coya was not one of my favorite people. I'll read someone else's book."

And then there were people like Sharon Josephson of Detroit Lakes who told me that she was in Third grade when she met Coya at a fundraiser for Kefauver in Fergus Falls. "Meeting her and learning that a woman could be in Congress changed my life," she told me. Sharon is the former Chairman of Minnesota's Seventh District DFL.

From that event Sharon saved the napkin with Coya's lip-sticked message to her.

Other prominent DFL women who admire Coya are former Lieutenant Governor Marlene Johnson and Secretary of State Joan Growe.

Many people ask me for news of Coya. Coya turned eighty in August, and my daughter Laura and I met Coya and my publisher, Kathryn Leigh Scott, and her husband, Geoff Miller, for a birthday celebration in Bloomington. Coya was as hearty as ever, and we had a wonderful time together.

The waiter, a young man in his twenties, came over to tell her that he had read about her in classes at Bemidji, and that he admired her very much. That happens to Coya alot.

Senators hear "No" to tuition increase

education. She said she believes that if they take that away, the state would be abandoning its emphasis on education and the student.

Al Mitchell, president of the student senate at the Technical College, said he had talked to many students before attending the hearing. One student, he said, commented that "we cannot afford more debt". Another despaired, saying "we can never get ahead."

Mitchell said a lot of people are frustrated right now and feel that in the long run, the governor's proposal will prevent students from going to school.

Bob Dahlin, introduced himself as the parent of three who have gone through Northland Community College. He explained that he also is a product of a community college. In his time, he said, he has seen costs increase substantially. For example, he said, when he was going to school the cost of one credit was equivalent to two hours of work. Now, he said, the cost of one credit is equivalent to a full-day of work. In part, he said, this has been made up with financial aid. There has been a balance, but what has been lost is flexibility. Students and parents who apply for aid or loans now find themselves locked into a situation. What is needed, he said, is to make the system more flexible.

A senior faculty member at the College reminded senators that when the junior college at Thief River Falls opened its doors it began by making higher education available to all Minnesotans at low or no cost to the student. He said that for years he has witnessed a great change in the policy and he regrets that.

Dr. Orley Gunderson, echoed some of the comments made by Sen. Stumpf, by pointing out that the issue is much more complex than it appears. All the students see, he said, is a tuition increase which might prevent them from attaining their goals.

Dr. Gunderson blasted the governor's proposal as so inept as to be detrimental to education, a contradiction to the intent and historical educational policies — to make Minnesota the education state. "His proposal is so bad, many just cannot believe it," said Gunderson.

Gunderson emphasized the developments and innovations that have taken place at the Technical College. Customized training, which has emphasized cooperation and coordination between business and education has also had important contributions to the school. But under the Governor's proposal customized training would be eliminated.

To off-set losses, Gunderson estimated that the school would have to increase tuition 34.09 per cent. Dr. Gunderson said of the 957 students at the Technical college, 602 take out Stafford loans. In addition to the loans taken out by students, parents are also taking out loans.

Dr. James Haviland, provost at Northland Community College, said 57 per cent of the student who attend the college rely on loans. That amounts to roughly $2 million per year for the college.

If Dr. Gunderson put a little heat on senators and on the governor's proposal, the senators put a little heat on Dr. Donald Sargeant, chancellor of the University of Minnesota at Crookston. Sargeant, who attempted to outline the school's new mission and efforts at becoming a four-year institution, was questioned by senators as to the necessity of becoming another four-year school. One senator warned that Crookston faces an uphill battle because administrators at other schools look at the limited pot of money available to schools and Crookston's attempt at becoming a four-year school as a threat to their funding.

The message given to senators on the Higher education committee, was clear and unequivocal — students and administrators don't want to see a tuition increase.

Woodburning was one of the activities offered during activities days at Franklin middle school last week. Edward Bjorgaard served as instructor for the activity.

During the activities day events at Franklin middle school last Thursday and Friday, students had the opportunity to try a number of different interest areas. Here Margaret Rupprecht helps Becky Wegner practice frosting technique for cake decorating.

Robert and Anita Cardinal presented a program on dog sledding for students at Franklin middle school during activities day last week. They showed mushers' headgear (modeled by the two students at left), racing and freighter sleds and this three-year-old Siberian Husky.

Pizza making was one of the activities offered during activities days at Franklin middle school last Thursday and Friday. The students made several varieties of pizza and ate their creations.

Water-color painting with LaVonna Forsberg was an activity, which Tiffany Harmenson, a sixth grade student at Franklin Middle school, seemed to enjoy. The class was one of a number of courses offered February 18 and 19. During "Activities days", students were allowed to explore and expand some of the interest areas which the school cannot always provide.

Tech college considers agreement with KLM

in Thief River Falls might become the first school in the United States with a training program called CBT or Computer Based Training, which involves full simulators.

Bob Bollesen of Northwest Technical College explained that what has prevented the college from moving ahead with the program is dollars. The systems are very expensive. Bollesen suggested that with this partnership and a contribution for hardware from the school, the programs could be obtained. This would provide the airline companies with mechanics with a high degree of training.

Henk Schuiten of KLM, Robert H.G. Scholder, instructor on aeronautical engineering at a college in Amsterdam, and William Hay of Northwest Airlines, explained that anytime a student attains a higher level of training, it improves his or her worth to a potential employer.

Obtaining the program for the school would also improve the quality of the school and make it more attractive to potential students.

In return, the school will provide some services which include assistance in the development and compilation of a needs assessment survey, and assistance in the development of instructor training on teaching skills.

Arend said as is typical with this type of situation, the company needed the program in — yesterday, as the saying goes.

But the school is well on its way toward obtaining the program. While the representatives of KLM and Northwest Airlines were in Thief River Falls they had an opportunity to meet with senators of the Higher Education finance committee, and Dr. Orley Gunderson and Al Mickelson.

It seemed to be a productive meeting, as Arend complimented the school and senators. Arend also praised Rep. Wally Sparby, saying he was doing a lot for Thief River Falls.

While in Thief River Falls the representatives were given a tour of the technical college and the special training programs, such as welding, car repair, Abilicad and others. Arend also thanked the school administrators and Paul James at Arctco for allowing them to tour their facilities.

Arend said they hope to come back to Thief River Falls because the people were so helpful and "laid-back". He also added that it was a nice town "without pollution."

Royal Dutch Airlines was founded in October 1919. It is the oldest airline in the world. It now carries eight million passengers, 500,000 kilograms of freight and post to locations all over the world.

Northwest Airlines was founded in October of 1926. It took over Republic Airlines in 1986, which was built up from North Central Airlines, Southern Airlines and Hughes Airwest. It carries more than 43 million passengers and 500,000 kilograms of freight.

Farmers Union president meets members in area

Farmers Home Administration in the state.

Members attending the meeting expressed support for a graduated property tax based on number of acres owned (higher tax for larger acreage) and for a government health care insurance program. They complained about crop yields in the ASCS program being "locked in" at a time when local crop production was hard hit by adverse weather and objected to lowering the estate tax exemption from $600,000 to $200,000.

More cooperation among farm organizations was also urged to help farmers establish their own price for product at the marketplace.

Shafland is House Page at Capitol

Heather Shafland, a junior at Lincoln high school and the daughter of Dan and Jane Shafland, spent the week of January 25-29 at the State Capitol in St. Paul where she served as a high school page for the Minnesota House of Representatives.

Her activities included assisting in delivering materials to the House Chamber during sessions and attending committee meetings on issues of concern to Minnesotans.

She also met with Rep. Wally Sparby, the House legislator from her district.

"I'm always pleased to have young people come to spend time at the Capitol," Rep. Sparby said. "Being here and assisting in the legislative process is a highly educational experience for them."

During the week, a total of 10 students from across the state participated in discussions and informal seminars with legislators, elected officials of the executive branch of state government and House staff members. They spend time with a Supreme Court Justice and met with the Senate to learn about its related functions.

House Speaker Dee Long said the high school page program is an exciting and highly educational program for young Minnesotans. "The program offers high school juniors an opportunity to spend a week with us at the Capitol as our guests," she noted. "During this time, they observe or work closely with us..."

Students who are juniors at the beginning of the school year may apply individually for the page program or be nominated by their respective schools. Once nomination cards are received, program staff makes a "luck of the draw" selection of students so all legislative districts are adequately represented.

Once the participants arrive at the Capitol during a given week, they work with House members and staff on a nonpartisan basis to gain an objective viewpoint of Minnesota's two-party system of government.

While some 150 students will participate in the 1993 legislative session, nearly 3,000 have participated since the page program began in 1975.

Swimmers enter Section 8 meet

State meet-qualifying Section 8 boys high school swimming and diving championships will be held Friday and Saturday at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks.

Thief River Falls closed out its regular season Thursday with a 121-62 dual meet loss to Bemidji at the Franklin Middle School pool. The Prowlers were 4-2 in dual meet competition this winter, with both losses coming at the hands of the Lumberjacks.

Thief River Falls coach Ryan Lokken was pleased with what he saw in the Prowlers' final meet. "We swam some really good times," he said.

The efforts included a pool record in the 200 freestyle and a season-best clocking in the 400 freestyle by the relay combination of Matt Carlson, Brad Cota, Daryl Kiesow, and Adam Jacobson.

Section 8 meet starts Friday with diving prelims at 1 p.m. and swimming prelims at 5. Saturday's finals begin at 1 p.m.

Top two finishers in each of the swimming events, along with the top five divers, earn state meet berths.

Lokken says the Prowlers' 200 and 400 freestyle relays teams have top-two potential, and several individuals should be in the picture, too.

Fergus Falls is the defending Section 8 champion. The Otters and Bemidji are expected to fight it out for the 1993 title.

Each team is guaranteed two entries in each event, and can have as many as four in each event if they meet qualifying times during the course of the regular season.

Spuds handle Prowlers 76-41

Second half problems have been a common occurrence for the Thief River Falls girls this winter. But never has the situation deteriorated they way it did Saturday when the Prowlers saw a 31-30 halftime lead turn into a 76-41 high school basketball loss at the hands of visiting Moorhead.

"We did our Jeckle & Hyde routine again," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Sally Wiltse after watching the Spuds out-score the Prowlers 46-10 in the second half.

"We had a great first half," noted Wiltse, "but we couldn't do a thing in the second half."

Thief River Falls enjoyed some success against a man-to-man Moorhead defense in the first half, but couldn't score against the Spuds' zone in the second half. And along with an improved defensive effort, the visitors' fast break offense took off.

"We got inside their zone, but we were missing lay-ups," pointed out Wiltse. "And we were out-hustled to every loose ball."

Kerry Nistler led the Spuds with 20 points. Lisa Ulrich had 18 points to pace the Prowlers.

Thief River Falls shot just 24 percent from the field (16/66), compared to 41 percent shooting by Moorhead (25/61). The Spuds were 15-for-13 at the free throw line, where the Prowlers went 9-for-16. Moorhead finished with a 31-22 rebound advantage.

The Prowlers are 8-13.

Scoring

| | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | T |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Moorhead | 20 | 10 | 24 | 22 | 76 |
| Thief River Falls | 14 | 17 | 2 | 8 | 41 |

Moorhead - Jill Fike 10, Anita Dobbins 6, Bridget Setter 11, Alison Ohe 4, Amy Oroth 5, Julie Shellhase 8, Heather Nordby 2, Kerry Nistler 20, DeAnne Kading 8, Sonja Glumich 2.

TRF - Toni Chiodo 6, Lisa Rendulich 4, Lisa Ulrich 18, Amy Adams 6, Lori DeLap 7.

Differance between winning and losing sometimes comes down to hundraths of a second — as it did in the 200-yard free relay Thursday night at Franklin Middle school. The difference between winning and losing is also evident in the expression of a Bemidji relay team member and the expressions of Prowler team mates who congratulated a team mate. Ultimately, however, the outcome of the dual swim meet came down to more than one race and Bemidji walked away with first place.

TRF Bantams take District 16 crowns

Thief River Falls won District 16 Bantam titles at two levels over the weekend during Minnesota Amateur Hockey Association playoff activity.

The Bantam B competition was held in Bemidji, where Thief River Falls Gold knocked off Crookston 4-3, Bemidji 2-1 and Bagley 3-1.

Both Thief River Falls teams advance to MAHA regional play March 5-7 – Bantam A at Duluth and Bantam B at Willmar. Before heading to MAHA regional play, the Thief River Falls Bantam A team will compete in the VFW district tournament beginning Friday in Bemidji.

Gators hold off Wolfpack to win 65-64 game

Ten Badger/Greenbush-Middle River players put their names in the scoring column Saturday as the Gators edged Kittson Central 65-64 in boys high school basketball.

Ryan Rislov and Matt Kuznia led the scoring parade with 17 points apiece as the Gators improved their record to 18-2.

"It was a heck of a ball game," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "I felt we played a pretty decent ball game; we just couldn't get away from them. We were pleased with the win in a close game like that."

Jeremy Seng scored a game-high 19 points to lead Kittson Central.

Marshall County Central beat Valley North 74-57 Friday, but lost to Argyle 69-56 Saturday in boys high school basketball.

The split on the road left the Nordics with a 14-6 record.

The weekend efforts also produced a new single-season school scoring record holder for Marshall County Central as Tim Olson netted 30 points against the Raiders and 24 against the Eagles to boost his total to 472 for the year - with two regular season games to go.

Previous single-season scoring record at the Newfolden school was 455 points by Don Engelsrud, set during the 1958-59 season.

Eagles beat Huskies 64-42

Grygla-Gatzke out-scored rival Goodridge 34-14 in the second half Friday as the Eagles beat the host Huskies 64-42 in boys high school basketball.

Goodridge had an 18-17 first quarter lead and trailed only 30-28 at halftime, but faced a 54-34 third quarter deficit.

"We played a very, very good first half," said Goodridge coach John Rahn, "but we didn't show up for the second half. We couldn't stop them."

Jeremy Engelstad scored 21 points and Rick Warne had 19 to form a strong 1-2 scoring punch for the winners. Brady Wiseth was the only Goodridge scorer in double figures, finishing with 10 points.

"We made a defensive adjustment in the second half," explained Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "My assistant coach (Steve Sparby) suggested it, we tried it, and it worked."

And the Eagles' offense was clicking, especially in the 24-point third quarter, noted Johnson. "We did a nice job of executing our offense," he said. "We were getting some real good shots."

Grygla-Gatzke shot 45 percent from the field (27/60) and went 9-for-11 at the free throw line. Goodridge shot just 31 percent from the field (18/57) and had a 4-for-5 night at the line.

Prowlers fail to advance wrestlers in Section 8AA

A third place finish by senior Lee Nieland was the top showing by a Thief River Falls entry in the 1993 Section 8AA high school wrestling tournament, held Friday and Saturday at Moorhead.

Top two finishers at each weight class advanced to the Class AA state meet.

Nieland won three of four tournament matches.

Only other place finishes for the Prowlers included a seventh for sophomore Steve Burslie and eighth places for junior Rob Bakken and freshman Matt Lawrence.

"We didn't wrestle too badly," reported Thief River Falls coach John Anderson. "We're so young. We've got good athletes, they're just not good wrestlers, yet. But they will be. Our victories this year were not in the won-loss column, but in the fact that we knew we did the best we could every time we went out on the mat. The kids worked hard. We're going to be alright."

Little Falls was the top-scoring team in the individual portion of the tournament with 211.5 points, followed by Rocori with 211, Alexandria 171.5, Bemidji 149, Brainerd 128, St. Cloud Apollo 117, Moorhead 103.5, Sauk Rapids 100.5, St. Cloud Tech 82.5, Fergus Falls 53, Detroit Lakes 37.5, and Thief River Falls 32.

Mustangs' balance beats Eagles 70-58

Jeremy Engelstad poured in 30 points, but his individual accomplishment wasn't enough to overcome the balance displayed in the Red Lake County Central offense Monday as Grygla-Gatzke lost a 70-58 boys high school basketball game at Plummer.

Jacob Melby had 21 points to lead the Mustangs, who turned a 28-21 halftime edge into a 47-32 third quarter spread.

"We played poorly the last two minutes of the first half and we had a poor third quarter," pointed out Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "We let them get away from us."

Red Lake County Central shot 44 percent from the field (22/50), while Grygla-Gatzke shot just 34 percent (24/70). The Mustangs also had a busy 20-for-31 night at the free throw line, where the Eagles were 7-for-9.

"They did a nice job defensively against us," said Johnson. "They play very well defensively."

Grygla-Gatzke had a 33-32 rebound edge, but they also had more turnovers, 15-13.

Red Lake County Central is 17-3. Grygla-Gatzke dropped to 10-11.

TRF girls lose 59-44 game to EGF ball club

Down just 23-21 at halftime, Thief River Falls couldn't stay with East Grand Forks in the second half Thursday as the host Prowlers lost a late-reported 59-44 girls high school basketball game.

"We had a good first half, but they turned their transition game up a notch in the second half," reported Thief River Falls coach Sally Wiltse. "We couldn't get back with them. They beat us down the court."

Solid defense play by Lori DeLap held East Grand Forks' Brenda Hawthorne – normally a thorn in the Prowlers' side – to just 2 points and 5 rebounds, but the Green Wave got a 28-point game from Tara Hecht and 12 more from Missy Maristuen. Amy Adams scored 17 points to lead the Prowlers, with DeLap netting 10.

Thief River Falls shot 32 percent from the field (21/66) and had a quiet 2-for-3 night at the free throw line. East Grand Forks shot 36 percent (22/61) and went 9-for-12 at the line. The Green Wave finished with a 38-34 rebound edge.

DNR News

Licenses Go On Sale

Minnesota's 1993 fish and wildlife licenses will go on sale the last week in February, according to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Current licenses will expire on the last day of February. The 1993 license year will begin March 1 and continue through Feb. 28, 1994, explained Karen Beckman, DNR License Bureau assistant administrator.

All 1993 fishing, shelter, small game and trapping licenses will be available from agents throughout Minnesota in late February. Big game licenses for the 1993 fall season will be available later this year, Beckman said.

Minnesota fish and wildlife licenses are sold at county auditors offices and more than 3,000 private businesses statewide, as well as by the DNR License Bureau in St. Paul.

Walleye, Northern Seasons Close

Minnesota's fishing season for walleye northern pike, bass, muskellunge and sauger closed Sunday, Feb. 14.

DNR reports record deer harvest for '92

Minnesota's 1992 firearms deer harvest totalled a record 230,000 deer, an 11 percent increase from the previous record of 206,000 set last year, according to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR). The record harvest is the sixth in the last 10 years.

Largest harvest increases were in the northeastern, north central, and southeastern areas of the state, but all regions experienced increases from last year's totals, said DNR Wildlife Chief Tim Bremicker.

"The higher harvest was expected and was consistent with our objective to reduce deer populations in many areas of the state through the issuance of more antlerless permits and deer management permits," Bremicker said. He noted that populations remain good throughout the state despite the high harvest.

Extended season in Zone 3 and parts of Zone 4 in the southern half of the state was very successful in allowing DNR wildlife managers to better address harvest objectives in most of this area, according to Bremicker. The deer kill in this region was will below expected levels after the regular season due to a delayed corn harvest. However, the extension resulted in an additional harvest of about 12,000 deer, an increase of over 20 percent from the regular season total, and much closer to harvest objectives for that area.

"We were very pleased with the results of the season extension," Bremicker said. "Hunter numbers and deer harvests were about what we had anticipated, and the extension should help minimize problems that could have resulted from higher deer populations in this area of the state." He added, however, that the DNR hopes similar extensions will not be necessary in future years.

Bremicker said a more detailed analysis of the harvest will be completed in the next several months, but indicated that the 1992 season may end up being a "high-water mark" for Minnesota deer harvests. "As deer populations return to goal levels in may areas of the state, we would expect fewer antlerless permits to be issued in future years, and a return to more conservative deer harvests," Bremicker said.

Snowmobile safety is stressed by DNR

Good seasonal snow cover over most of Minnesota this winter has brought about a revival of snowmobiling. Trail conditions are better over a wider area this season, compared to the past two or three winters, and temperatures have been tolerable. Local snowmobile clubs and weekend tourists are back by the thousands on Minnesota's 12,000-mile public trail system.

On the down side, an increase in the number of snowmobilers means an increased risk of snowmobile accidents and fatalities. In the 1991-92 season, there were 15 snowmobiling fatalities in Minnesota. So far this season, eight people have died in snowmobiling accidents.

According to accident records collected by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Division of Enforcement, four out of five fatal accidents involve alcohol, occur at night, and involve collisions with a tree or post, or another snowmobile.

"Causes for snowmobile accidents are very similar to automobile accidents," said Capt. Byron "Butch" Dyrland, DNR Regional Enforcement Supervisor at Bemidji. "It usually involves driving too fast for conditions, especially at night; and not obeying safety and traffic laws, especially the law that prohibits snowmobiling while intoxicated."

To help improve snowmobiling safety, Dyrland announced that conservation officers in the northwest Minnesota region would be stepping up their enforcement efforts for the rest of the season.

"We'll be using aircraft surveillance to detect illegal road driving," said Dyrland, "which includes driving on the roadbed and shoulders of roads, and driving in the ditches and inside slopes of county and state highways, where collisions with posts, culverts and other hidden obstacles most often occur.

"We'll also be using radar to enforce speed limits," continued Dyrland. "The maximum speed limit on any public trail or frozen lake bed, etc. is 50 miles per hour, unless a slower limit is posted."

To combat DWI snowmobiling, conservation officers, together with local law enforcement agencies, will conduct sobriety checkpoints.

"We want to emphasize that these measures are not intended to spoil anybody's fun, or reduce snowmobile tourism," said Dyrland, "but rather, we're trying to make the sport safer for all participants, by reminding people to slow down and drive responsibly.

Area students among those at Close Up

A total of 196 high school students and teachers representing 28 Minnesota high schools will travel to Washington, DC, February 28 through March 6, to learn, first hand, how American government operates. Students from Northwest ECSU in Thief River Falls will be among those attending the program.

Students from Lincoln high school who will be attending the program in Washington, D.C., include: Karleen Dee, Jennifer Duncan, Angelique Goulet, Kari Krankkala, Ingrid Morken, Karmen Ortloff, Heather Thornton, and Sanna Torgerson. The advisor attending the seminar with the students is Charley Cornell.

During their week in Washington, they will attend seminars with members of Congress, and meet with journalists, lobbyists, government officials and political figures to learn more about the governmental process. Time will also be allowed to tour the city, to visit local universities and for cultural activities.

"We offer the students the opportunity to see Washington as a living city by taking them into the buildings they often see only on television and then questioning law- and policy-makers they may only read about. Through the experience we have found that they return home with an interest in both national and community affairs. They want to become involved," said Steve Janger, president of the Close Up Foundation.

A teacher from each of the Minnesota schools will accompany the students not as a chaperone but as a participant in a program designed to acquaint them with issues and newer educational methods.

Many of the Minnesota students' trips to Washington are sponsored by a number of businesses and individuals from across the state which support the Foundation's citizenship education programs."

The Close Up Foundation is a non-profit, non-partisan organization that provides first hand opportunities to learn about the democratic process and the role of the individual. Since 1971, more than 355,000 students and teachers have taken part in the program.

Lottery sales up 14% in '92

Cold weather hasn't prevented some work from being accomplished on the golf course expansion project at the Thief River Falls Golf Club. Swingen Construction of East Grand Forks began working on the two bridges that will be added at the golf course in Thief River Falls. The project began last week with Swingen Construction using a 12-ton hammer to drive in eight pilings. An additional nine holes are being added to the course. Construction at the golf course will take place all summer. The improvements may be significantly completed by next fall. In the picture above, about half way up the structure on the left, a workman is working on the hammer.

Minnesota State Lottery's 1992 calendar year sales reached $320.6 million, surpassing 1991 sales by more than 14 per cent. Total sales since the start of the Lottery in April 1990 through Decmeber 31, 1992, climbed to $846 million. Prize payouts to players totaled $196.2 million, or 61 per cent of sales. Retailers, which includes a network of 3,800 Minnesota businesses, earned $18.1 million, or 5.6 per cent, in commissions and incentives. The State of Minnesota netted $70 million, with $20.8 million, or 6.5 per cent of sales, to the state General Fund in-lieu-of sales tax, and the remaining $49.2 million, or 15.3 per cent, split between beneficiary programs — the state general fund and the environment and natural resources trust fund. As a self-supporting enterprise, the lottery received no state funds. The operating budget totaled $37.3 million, or 11.6 per cent of sales, coming in under an allowable $14.5 per cent budget. The savings were transferred to the beneficiaries.

In 1992, Minnesota's affection for instant games continued with sales totaling $230.9 million, or approximately 72 per cent of overall sales. "Minnesotans overwhelmingly prefer instant games," said George Andersen, lottery director. "People are familiar and comfortable with the instant game play styles. There are only three or four other lottery states where instant sales total more than 50 per cent of overall sales."

The lottery introduced 11 instant games during 1992 that offered a variety of play styles and prize levels. Cabin Fever, introduced January 21, became the year's best selling instant game and was the first game to incorporate unclaimed prize money and a 70-per cent prize payout. In May, the lottery introduced Lucky Lure, the first instant game to offer a bonus game where players could win one of three different fishing tackle boxes with retail values up to $400. The merchandise packages were developed as part of a promotional partnership with 34 Minnesota businesses. In September, the lottery introduced the first multiple-scene ticket, License to Play. The game featured five different mock vehicle license plate messages. Capitalizing on the success of License to Play, the lottery introduced two more multiple-scene games, Minnesota Wildside and Winter Playland, with the game artwork produced by local artists.

Calendar year sales for Minnesota State Lottery numbers games, including Lotto America, Daily 3, Gopher 5 and Powerball, reached $89.7 million, or 28 per cent of total sales. Several changes were made to the numbers games strategy in 1992 to boost sales. These changes began January 7, 1992 when the Daily 3 drawing time was changed from 6:29 to 6:50 p.m. The Tuesday and Friday 9:59 p.m. Gopher 5 drawing time was consolidated with the Daily 3 drawing at 6:50 p.m. In February and August, the pair-betting and first digit features were added to the Daily 3 game, providing players with more play options and better odds of winning. On April 2, the first Daily 3 Spin second-chance drawing was conducted. Initiated in conjunction with the Daily 3 drawings on Mondays and Thursdays, Spin players mail in non-winning Daily 3 tickets for a chance to win cash prizes. Daily 3 Spin prizes are funded by unclaimed Daily 3 prize money. Jack Dann, Albert Lea, was the first Spin jackpot winner, claiming $78,000 on November 26.

In total, $70 million was returned to the state through sales tax and beneficiary proceeds contributions. The state general fund received $20.8 million in-lieu-of sales tax and 60 per cent of the proceeds, or $29.5 million of sales. The remaining 40 per cent of the proceeds, or $19.7 million, was directed to the Environment and Natural Resources Trust Fund. In 1992, lottery proceeds continued to fund 29 environmental projects throughout Minnesota. The remaining dollars are applied to the principal of the Trust Fund. Since its inception the lottery has con*tributed more than $62.2 million to* the Environment and Natural Resources Trust Fund.

Players received the largest percentage of lottery revenues, winning more than $196 million. Minnesota had two multi-million dollar winners in 1992. Dennis and Diane Fix, Maplewood, won the $2 million Lotto America jackpot on March 14, and Bob Lewis, Burnsville, won the $12.5 million Powerball jackpot on May 13. Since the start of Powerball April 19, through December 31, players have claimed 36 $100,000 prizes. Also in 1992, Bernie Carignan, Fridley, and Dean and Mary Warden,

MN Operation Buckle Down now year-round

Seat belts save lives. That was Lt. Governor Joanell Dyrstad's message as she helped kick off Operation Buckle Down, a year-round effort to increase seat belt use in Minnesota.

"We want to make it very clear to Minnesotans that they and their children need to buckle up everytime they get into their cars," Dyrstad said. "Lives depend on it."

This is the first time the promotion has been declared a year-round promotion. Previously, the campaign was held only during the summer.

Thief River Falls Police Chief Ken Froschheiser joined Dyrstad in encouraging people to buckle up. Seat belt usage ranges from 57 per cent to 62 per cent on larger Minnesota highways. On smaller roads, such as country and township roads and local streets, seat belt use falls below 40 per cent. Chief Froschheiser said following a few widely publicized promotions in Thief River Falls, seat belt usage in the community was estimated at over 40 per cent.

Minnesota's Operation Buckle Down campaign is part of a nationwide effort to increase seat belt use to 80 per cent by the year 2001.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates that 61 per cent of Americans currently use safety belts, seat belt usage among Minnesotans is 51 per cent compared to 20 per cent in 1986, before the seat belt law went into effect.

This year, in addition to their existing seat belt enforcement efforts, more than 150 law enforcement agencies will participate in four 10-day "blitzes" around seasonal holidays — Valentine's Day, Memorial Day, Labor Day and Thanksgiving Day. The first enforcement blitz coincides with Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week, February 8-14.

"Research shows that fewer than 25 per cent of child safety seats are being used properly," said Dyrstad. "Children have a right to be properly protected while riding in a car."

BIBLE STUDY

How do we seek peace and pursue it?

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

Disciples of Jesus Christ must seek peace and pursue it earnestly in order to enter the peace of Christ (1 Peter 3:11). The Bible says we are to think about whatever is good, peaceful and of good report (Phil. 4:8-9).

If all you said was continually a blessing to the hearer, and you blessed those who cursed you, and if all the words that came out of your mouth were as the words of God, and all the thoughts you thought were happy thoughts, this would be most pleasing to the Lord (1 Peter 4:11; Eph. 4:29).

"The cheerful heart has a continual feast" (Prov. 15:15). A disciple of Jesus Christ has the most for which to be thankful. He has eternal life and he receives answered prayers (1 John 3:22). His life is abundant, peaceful and joyous (Prov. 13:21). If he has any anxious thoughts, he doesn't dwell on them or worry. He just gives them to Christ, as he is commanded to do (1 Peter 5:7).

What are some of the things in this world that can rob us of being cheerful, and would grieve the Spirit of God and take our peace (Eph. 5:10-11)? How about violence on television, violence in sports or violence in the news? Even negative weather reports take our peace. For the most part, we can't change these things, but there is something we can change.

We can change ourselves with God's help! Don't be concerned about the way the world is going. Rather, be concerned about the way you are going. Make sure it is pleasing to the Lord. Remember, we have God's protection in all things when we are living to please only Him (Job 5:20-27; Is. 3:10; Prov. 10:3). So let us consider those things that are violent, distasteful and rob us of our peace, and control what goes into our minds (Is. 33:15-16)!

Victory Book Campaign Makes Progress

"The Victory Book campaign to assemble reading matter for men in the armed services made good headway in this community during the past week, a considerable number of good books in addition to cash contributions being brought in, Mrs. Hazel Halgrim, public librarian, stated today. She also reminded citizens that they may place their contributions of books in receptacles at the grade schools while registering this week for War Ration Book 2, or if that is not convenient they may telephone the library and a Boy Scouth will be sent to collect the contributions."

Proclamation by the Mayor

"Whereas, the men of our armed forces are fighting and living on the far flung battlefronts of the world, from the steaming jungles of New Guinea to the sun baked sands of Africa, on the sea and in the air, and

"Whereas, at the same time our home front must be prepared to cope not only with possible attack on our shores but with natural disasters, such as earthquakes, floods, tornados, hurricanes and epidemics, and

"Whereas, the American Red Cross is equipped and ready to cope with these and every such emergency which may arise in our own and every community such indispensable welfare programs as public health nursing, home nursing, first aid water safety and accident prevention and through the schools the junior Red Cross acts as a medium for service by our young people,

"Therefore, I, H. W. Kinghorn, mayor of Thief River Falls in accord with the President of the United States who has proclaimed March as Red Cross month, do call on all public spirited citizens of this community to make every effort to support the 1943 Red Cross War Fund, and I further proclaim that it is the sense of all of us who are residents of Thief River Falls that our gifts must be larger than last years in order to enable this great organization of ours to meet whatever demands are made upon it."

Many Attend Story Hour in Library

"A good attendance of children from the lower grades was registered at the public library Saturday morning, when a story hour was conducted by students from the high school teacher training department. Readings included 'Coco the Goat' by Violet Bengston; 'Runzel Punzle' by Chester Joyce; 'Ali the Camel' by Barbara Aastad, and 'Tap a Tan' by Lorraine Engelstad."

Shoes To Be Rationed

"Without advance warning, the government Sunday added shoes to the list of rationing items. All sales were prohibited Monday and rationing started the following day. The ration is three pairs a year for every man, woman and child, but members of the family may pool their coupons so some may buy more if others buy less."

—So many reports dealing with various federal projects are coming out of Washington these days that newspapers must watch their step lest they degenerate into mere government bulletin boards.

—Easter comes this year on the latest possible date: April 25. Here's hoping that that doesn't presage a late spring.

—Have you learned the bad news, or haven't you yet filled out your income tax return?

—The Bemidji municipal liquor store made a net profit of $44,542 last year, we read. That figure represents a lot of headaches.

—The recent warnings of government officials to the effect that the American people should prepare for heavy casualties seems to be born out by developments in North Africa.

—Remember the five Bs: Bonds Buy Berlin Block Busters.

—The climate down at Montevideo, Minn., must be healthful for lawyers. Three of them there have practiced their profession for a total of 178 years.

—This is one year when, if ever, the Red Cross financial campaign should be an outstanding success.

—Mahatma Gandhi has been fasting lately: probably in anticipation of a start of food rationing in India.

—With so many men likely to be on foreign fronts and too busy to vote next year, it looks as though the womenfolk should control the 1944 elections.

—Uncle Sam is asking the hens to produce just short of five billion eggs this year. If they achieve that goal, Mr. Rooster will have something to crow about.

—Some of our more critical colleagues, we notice, are referring to the peripatetic Mr. Stossen as governor of the United States.

—And now clothes hoarders are so busy that retail stores in some towns are publishing appeals for shoppers to stay away.

—In this period of rationing, one thing there should be plenty of is parking space.

—With no luggage available for purchase, it looks as though travel is out for the duration.

"The village election occurs one week from next Thursday but we have not yet heard of any candidates for the various village offices. Candidates seem to be slow in coming out but we may depend on the usual row before it is well over."

Weather Report

"An old adage says that if March comes in like a lion, it goes out like a lamb, or if it comes in like a lamb, it will go out like a lion. Consoling, of course, but we are having a very lamb-like day to-day."

"A dramatic association is being formed by several of the young folks of the village. They have decided to produce the well-known temperance drama 'Ten Nights in a Bar Room.'"

MADD Legislative Agenda Makes Sense

Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) has announced its 1993 legislative agenda and the action it is seeking seems to make a great deal of sense—not that everyone is going to like what is being proposed. From the standpoint of protecting the general public, however, it would be hard to argue against the legislation being sought.

The organization breaks its proposals down into four areas.

Child Endangerment—MADD proposes enhancing sanctions against persons convicted of driving drunk while a child under the age of 16 is in the car.

Lowering the Legal Alcohol Concentration Limit from .10 to .08—Lowering the alcohol concentration to reflect the fact that driving skills deteriorate significantly at .08 will save lives, MADD says. Since California lowered its alcohol concentration to .08 in 1990, its alcohol-related fatality rate dropped by 12 per cent.

"Not A Drop" for Youth—MADD proposes making it illegal for those under 21 years of age to drive with any measurable level of alcohol in their system. The new legislation will allow the state to suspend the licenses of those under age 21 who drink and drive.

"The point is not really punishment but prevention," states Nancy Johnson, legislative liaison for MADD. "We want the penalties to be severe enough that kids think before they drink and drive. Currently offenders are fined but to kids a fine doesn't really mean much. But a license revocation does, and that is what we propose."

Designated Use Fee on Alcoholic Beverages at the Wholesale Level—MADD proposes designating funds from the sale of alcohol at the wholesale level to supplement drunk driving related costs to the criminal justice system and to increase the availability of treatment and other prevention-oriented programs.

"Through property and other taxes, Minnesotans share an unequal financial burden stemming from alcohol abuse," states Dennis Johnson, chairman of the state MADD organization. "A user fee is an attempt to make those who use the most pay the most."

Steve Simon, director of the Minnesota Criminal Justice System DWI task force, said the proposal is to increase the designated user fee by a nickel a drink or can of beer from the present cent-and-a-half to six and one-half cents. He pointed out that in 1987 the cost to the criminal justice system in Minnesota related to DWIs was approximately $300 million. He also said that the University of Minnesota Center for Survey Research found that 85 per cent of those questioned favored a designated user fee.

The entire MADD agenda has been endorsed by Attorney General Skip Humphrey and it is being supported by the Minnesota Department of Public Safety.

The proposals will not be without opposition, particularly the user fee. No purchaser of any product wants to see its price increase and no seller want to see the price rise without sharing in the revenue therefrom. But a good case can be made for all of the proposals and the legislature will be hard pressed not to give them most serious consideration.

Farmer Concern About Environment Grows

Three out of five farmers say they are more concerned about farm environmental problems today than five years ago, according to a 1993 national agricultural poll commissioned by Sandoz Agro. And farmers in midwestern states are slightly more likely than the national average to say their concern has increased. Water quality is listed as a top concern.

The majority of farmers polled say they already have made some changes in their farming practices as a result of public opinion about the environment, mostly in the areas of pesticide use and conservation tillage. Minnesota and North Dakota farmers are slightly more likely to say they have altered pesticide use than farmers in other states.

Ninety-two per cent of U.S. farmers say they are very or somewhat likely to use safer pesticides in the future. The percentage of Minnesota farmers who say they are very likely to use safer pesticides and wear protective clothing is higher than any other state. One farmer stated the situation very well.

"Farmers definitely want to use the safest pesticides," said Doug Sheely of Brownsdale. "Our families are the first ones in line to drink the water, so we will do what it takes to provide our families with high quality, safe water."

Safer pesticides are being produced and are finding a ready acceptance among the farm population. "I want to use these new chemicals because I believe these safer pesticides are better to handle," another farmer stated. "And if I know it is safe for me to handle, I am assured it must be safe for my family and the environment."

While less than half of the farmers polled believe that any pesticides are knowingly misapplied, 66 per cent favor tougher enforcement of penalties for misapplication of pesticides and 41 per cent favor mandatory education and certification for those who apply pesticides.

Four out of five farmers feel that consumers are more concerned about environmental issues associated with agriculture than they were five years ago. The majority believe consumers are more concerned because they are more aware of environmental issues, not because the problems are getting worse.

Farmers are also concerned about education as a key to reducing public concerns about farm-related environmental issues. Most feel they share responsibility for that education with government, teachers, manufacturers and others.

That is no surprise. Most farmers we know take their environmental responsibility very seriously. It's a daily concern, not just an occasional one as it is for the non-farm consumer.

What comes down....

....must go up

Taking advantage of a teacher in-service day when there were no classes—and the warmest weather in many weeks—the three children of Steve and Shaun Muzzy enjoyed a sliding outing at the home of Shaun's parents, Ray and Ruth Oen of Thief River Falls Monday. The rope tow from the bottom of the hill added to the fun of sliding by eliminating sliding's most common problem—walking back up to slide down again. The youngsters are Kelli, 11; Kristin, 10; and Nathaniel, 9.

County child care fund runs out of money

Funds in Pennington county's child care program for the county's working poor has run out of money.

Phyllis Schmidt, director of social services in the county, said there are several pots of money available for day care. Not all of them have run out of money. The fund that ran out of money is based on a basic sliding fee and affects the working poor in the county.

Sally Mumm who works with the program at social services, explained there are two basic funds. The first pot of money available for child care applies to the basic sliding fee or the working poor. These people are not eligible for the other fund, which is for AFDC participants.

Mumm said the shortage occurred because the state allocated $30,000 less than the previous year.

With the fiscal year running from July 1 to June 30, the 32 families that this shortage affects, will have to wait for some time before money becomes available again.

Mumm said it affects 32 or so families in the county in varying degrees. The sliding fee schedule means that the more the participant earns, the more of the total child care cost that they pay. Families caught by this shortage were given ample notice, she said. They have known about it for some time because she has sent out several notices. But Mumm added that for some, like those who don't earn very much — well, they just won't be able to adjust to the loss of child care funds.

Mumm said she has no where to refer these people. There's a chance that some funds will become available in April. A priority list has been created in case some funds become available. The ones on the list the longest have been given the highest priority, except for high school students who are in need of child care services.

Schmidt said in the past they have thought of ways to make the money stretch, but they have not been allowed by the state to make those adjustments.

She also explained that how much they receive from the state depends on a complicated process and formula.

In her lengthy experience with the Pennington county social services department, this is only the second time Schmidt remembers the fund running out of money.

County offers job of sheriff to Gerald Moe

Pennington county commissioners unanimously have approved a motion to offer the position of sheriff to Gerald Moe of Glenwood.

Monday, March 1, the county commissioners met to consider the list of applicants for the position of county sheriff. Upon reducing the list to a short list of top candidates, the board approved a motion to offer the position as a two-year appointment to Gerald Moe of Glenwood.

Moe was expected to visit Thief River Falls Tuesday, visit the law enforcement center and talk with the county attorney. As of early Tuesday morning, he had not formally accepted the offer.

With two years remaining to his term in office, Pennington County Sheriff Bob Wold retired on December 18, 1992. The position of sheriff is four-year elected position. The law allows special elections for county commissioners but not for other elected county officials. As a result, commissioners were given the task of appointing someone to fill the vacancy for the remaining two years. An election will be held in 1994.

The county had received over 30 applications for the position. That list was eventually reduced to 10 candidates for the position. The final top two candidates were Gerald Moe and Jim Haugen.

Haugen is from Thief River Falls and has been an unsuccessful candidate for Pennington county sheriff in a previous election. The county board indicated it would offer the position of sheriff to Haugen if Moe determines to decline the offer.

Construction plans given board favor

Approval of design and development plans for the new elementary school complex and schematic design plans for the Lincoln high school project was given by the School District 564 board of education at its meeting last week in the school district service center.

The board also approved a resolution giving notice of its intention to consider the following actions:

(1) Close Knox elementary school and offer it for sale;

(2) Close Northrop elementary school and offer it for sale;

(3) Offer the school district service center for sale; and

(4) Convert Washington elementary school into a community education/service center.

A public hearing on these projected actions will be scheduled in the near future.

Meeting with the board on the construction projects were Bill Huttinga, construction manager, and Todd Hesson and Griff Davenport, architects. Included in the presentation were lists of potential changes if bids for the elementary school come in higher or lower than expected, although the project team is not anticipating a large variance from estimates. Items could be deleted by the board if bids are high or added if they are low.

Three bid packages have been arranged as the board acts as its own general contractor on the elementary school project. Bid period on excavation and site work will open March 9 and be awarded April 8; bid period on footings, foundations and steel will open April 2 and be awarded May 13; and bid period on architectural, mechanical and electrical will open May 10 and be awarded June 24.

The board discussed salary and benefit negotiations with the Thief River Falls Education Association with the first session to be held March 16 at 4 p.m.

Extra-curricular assignments approved for the current school year were: Jeff Mumm, winter weight room supervisor; Charlie Cornell, head high school girls golf; Dick Tyler, head high school boys golf; Glen Peters, assistant high school boys golf; Tracey Wensloff, head high school baseball; Jay Forney, head high school boys tennis; Kim Maidment, assistant high school boys tennis; Glenn Chiodo, head high school girls track; Tom Ronchetti, assistant high school girls track; Tim Olson, head high school boys track; and Jeff Mumm, assistant high school boys track.

Three enter not guilty pleas

Three suspected in committing as many as eight thefts and burglaries in Pennington county pled not guilt to a burglary charge Monday in a Pennington County Ninth District court.

Nineteen year-olds Michael Lynn Verbout and Robert Eldon Swenson of rural Red Lake county, and Ryan Leon Olson of Newfolden were arrested about two weeks ago. The three men are suspected of committing a number of crimes in Pennington county and many other crimes in at least seven other counties. On Monday, however, the three were charged only with one crime. That crime being burglary in the third degree. The charge stems from a burglary at the Goodridge Cenex station. All three men pled not guilty to the crime of third degree burglary.

Assistant to the County Attorney, Al Rogalla, said he suspects that the three will face additional charges in Pennington county.

Charges against the three are also pending in several other counties.

ACTIVITIES

Play Dough

Do you have cabin fever and wish that you could find something that the children would really enjoy and stay with for a while. Let me suggest homemade play dough. The recipe is easy, and if you keep the play dough in a covered container it will last a long time.

To play with the play dough, you will need your imagination, a cookie cutter or two and a little time.

Play Dough

3 Tbs. oil
3 cups flour
1 1/2 cups salt
6 tsp. alum
3 cups water
food coloring

Mix all of the ingredients and cook over a medium heat stirring constantly until it forms a ball. Cool and "Let's play!"

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need paper and green crayons or paint.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through the wide selection of books about American Indians, including the following:

Fleischer, Jane. Tecumseh: Shawnee War Chief. This true story of great courage will show how Tecumseh, a Shawnee Indian, dreamed to unite all Indians into one mighty nation.

de Brebeuf, Fr. Jean. The Huron Carol. Beautiful illustrations recreate the vision of the Christmas story as told in the tongue of the Huron Indians.

VIDEO VARIETY

The Great Indian Wars 1840-1890. This video gives children and adults alike a chance to see and hear the true story of the wars between the pioneers and the Indians.

(Contributed by the Northwest Regional Library.)

PARENTING TIPS

Moving

Moving is a stressful time for everyone including children. You can help to relieve that stress by preparing them for the move. That means talking with them about what is happening from the very beginning. Otherwise they may overhear only parts of your conversation and be confused about what is happening.

Children need to be told in their terms about what will happen. Things we take for granted they don't know about: for example, "We'll take your clothes, but not the closet; we'll take your bike, but not the sidewalk; we'll take your baby brother, but not your friend, Jimmy; we'll take your pet turtle, but not the squirrel at the window; and we will certainly take you."

Talk about the new house or town when it comes time to pack. Pack a separate easily identified box of favorite possessions that your child can unpack as soon as you arrive. Move in your children's furniture and toys as quickly as possible. If you plan to buy new furniture for your child's room, it may be best to wait until after your child has become adjusted to the new home before discarding the old, familiar furniture.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Before and after your move, talk to your child about your feelings. Let him know that you're sad to leave your house and friends, you're going to miss the apple tree/window or whatever, you're wondering what your new neighbors will be like, etc.

Mock trial team loses in finals

Lincoln high school's mock trial team lost a close regional final to a strong Fergus Falls team Friday afternoon at Park Rapids, narrowly missing a trip to the state tournament. Final score was 171 to 164.

Presiding judge John A. Masog of Park Rapids scored the trial 81-75 for Fergus Falls and scoring judge James W. McGill of Walker scored it 90-89 for Fergus Falls.

Teacher coach Cal Lindberg of Lincoln said that his team turned in its best performance of the year against its toughest competition of the year. Lincoln represented the plaintiff in the suit and a jury of adults at the trial awarded the verdict to Thief River Falls on merits of the case. The jury decision does not count in the official scoring.

Lindberg said the case provided this year was difficult to argue from the plaintiff's position, but that all Lincoln team members were well prepared and performed well. He credited attorney Michael Jorgenson and law clerk Lisa Jones with extensive help in preparing the team to argue the case.

Shelly Sabo has triple transplant

Shelly Sabo, 30, former Thief River Falls resident and graduate of Lincoln high school, is recuperating at the University of Wisconsin Hospital in Madison following triple transplant surgery early last week.

She received heart, kidney and pancreas from an out of state donor, according to her mother, Yvonne Sabo, who was contacted by phone Monday night. She is said to be making satisfactory progress although no official condition report has been made.

Diagnosed as diabetic at five years of age, Shelly had been in declining health for a number of months prior to her surgery. She had moved to live with her mother in Madison a couple of years ago and had taken a job but was not feeling well. During a visit to the hospital emergency room she was found to have a heart problem in addition to poor kidney function.

About 10:30 p.m. last Monday, February 22, Yvonne was talking with her son Scott in Evansville, WI, on the phone when the operator cut in with a call for Shelly from the university hospital. The nurse calling said that they had three organs available with a very good match and needed to know in a couple of minutes if she wanted the transplants.

"We had known that such a time would come at some point, but the call was still unexpected," Yvonne said. "Shelly said she didn't want to go on living the way she had been and called the hospital back to say she would accept the donor organs."

Yvonne said they didn't even take time to pack or change clothes but headed right for the hospital. It was a stormy night, she said, and since the organs were from out of state they were concerned that a plane could reach Madison with them.

While Shelly was immediately prepared for transplant surgery, Yvonne and Scott were waiting in a nearby hospital lounge area, discussing the possibility that the plane might have trouble and the organs' arrival be delayed. While they were still awaiting word about the arrival, a nurse came in to announce that, "well, we're stitching her up now." The heart transplant had already been completed.

It was about 8 p.m. Tuesday, nearly a day later, when a second surgery was performed to transplant the pancreas and kidney. Since then the heart has performed well but the kidney has given some difficulty, resulting in Shelly being placed on dialysis from time to time.

As of Monday night this week Shelly was unable to talk due to a tube in her throat, although she rasped a breathy "hi" on the phone when Scott called Yvonne at work from the hospital Monday afternoon. She has been able to acknowledge family members with her eyes and even an "Oh, mother!" grimace when the questions became too frequent.

Shelly's sister Sherry is teaching in Texas and her brother Steve, who has been playing hockey in Canada, recently enrolled at Kent State University in Ohio. Her brother Scott, who lives in Evansville, has been a regular visitor to the hospital.

The triple transplant is considered quite rare, Yvonne said, but in Shelly's case was necessary. She noted the importance of people signing organ donor cards and added that another kidney from the same donor who helped Shelly was being used for transplant in another state, possibly saving a second life.

"We hope that things keep improving," Yvonne said. "Shelly has always been a strong-willed girl and that should be a help to her now."

Impressions . . .

Remember the adage – if March comes in like a lamb it will go out like a lion? Or, the reverse – if March comes in like a lion it will go out like a lamb? It seems as if this year March is being very lamb like as it begins. With temperatures forecast to be near 40 degrees this week it seems as though we will miss the March stormy weather for a while. To those of us who only last week were plugging in our cars so as to give them a bit of assistance in starting in the cold weather, the prediction of a gentle beginning to March seems wonderful.

Weather predicting is a complicated job. I am fascinated by the reports we hear. I would like to know how those in the business of forecasting our weather really know if this will be a cold or warm spring. How do they really know how wet this year will be?

With the maze of computers and test equipment available, the forecasters are expected by us to be 100 per cent accurate – a feat basically impossible. Weather forecasting, or the lack of it, can cause us to be prepared, or not prepared for major storms. That tiny spot on the computer looks like any other spot to the untrained person, but to the weather forecaster it may signal the need to sound the tornado warning.

How did we ever exist without weather forecasters and their fancy equipment? Today we have 30-day forecasts or even seasonal forecasts. Today, the command center in Kansas will issue the warnings for hurricanes and tornadoes in distant states. Today we rely on technology. In the past, without technology, persons relied on personal observation. I find that I still decide whether or not I agree with the forecast by what I have observed in the world around me.

Consider the clouds. I can remember my father pointing out to me the wispy clouds he called horsetails. He said they were a sure sign of rain – and he was almost always right!

The billowing, fast-moving dark gray-green clouds of summer are the sure indicators of a storm approaching. But billowing, fast-moving clouds in the winter may just be clouds passing on by in a clear, cold blue sky – objects of beauty, not of impending storm.

Before a storm have you noticed how still the air can become? It seems as if the air is heavy. Everything feels sticky. Flies seem to be particularly pesky. The few birds which are still singing seem to be the only ominous sound. All of nature seems to be waiting for something. The wait is ended by the rush of wind and the pelt of rain and the flash of lightning and the crash of thunder. After a storm it is also still. But this stillness seems peaceful. The air smells cleaner, the birds sound relieved.

There is another saying (actually it's from the Bible) which says: red sky at night, sailor's delight, red sky in the morning, sailors take warning. This bit of lore is also often true. A beautiful sunset many times foretells a nice day for the next day – but a reddish ugly sky in the morning is a sure sign that a storm needs to be watched for.

Weather is fascinating. Weather decides for us whether the plans we have made for a particular day will be able to be fulfilled. Weather causes delays in our daily lives. Weather causes us to be terrified at times. Weather causes us to be awed by its force or beauty. Weather changes lives and it changes the environment around us. It's rather amazing to realize that in a matter of a few months we can be sweltering in the hot summer sun.

March has come in like a lamb. March is usually a fickle month. It seems to like to tease us with as much weather variety as it can possibly muster. I can only assume that March will not yet let us forget winter. But, it's oh so nice to dream of spring, if only for a while!!

Dear Readers,
Two young children reacted differently to the tragic death of their father. One child cried openly, and received much attention from family and friends. The other child sat quietly in a corner, showing no response to the grief that surrounded her. Everyone assumed this child was 'handling it well'. Do not judge the depth of sorrow by outer emotions - many times the one who is 'handling it well' will face a more difficult period of adjustment in the days ahead.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

280 received awards in TRF Music Club contest

With 280 entries from Thief River Falls and several area communities, the Thief River Falls Music Club held its annual music festival Saturday, February 20, at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls. The club is a part of the National Federation of Music Clubs and there were seven junior clubs represented with 10 teachers participating at the festival.

Largest number of entries was in piano solos but other competitive categories included hymn playing, duets, sight playing, voice, guitar and theory. Soloists prepare one piece from a required list and one of their own choosing in the same level of difficulty.

Gaining points on the basis of performance, students work toward a gold cup in each of the categories. A maximum of five points is given for a superior performance and 15 points are required to earn a gold cup. This means a minimum of three years of performance is necessary to earn a gold cup.

Since points are not transferable among categories, students may work on earning a gold cup in more than one area of competition each year.

1992 INSURANCE LAWS

During the 1992 legislative session, 2,537 bills were introduced in the House and Senate. Of this number 245 were passed and sent to the governor for his signature. The governor vetoed 14 of these bills and signed the rest into law. The following is a brief summary of some of the new laws!

AUTO INSURANCE–

Companies cannot charge higher rates for people who are renters by giving discounts only to homeowners.

SAFETY PROGRAMS–

Every public and private employer with more than 25 employees must establish and administer a joint labor-management safety committee. The assigned risk plan will create a safety fund which will be used to provide loss control services to employers in the assigned risk plan. The safety fund will be funded through fines and penalties for OSHA or Worker's Compensation violations.

AMUSEMENT RIDES–

This new law requires amusement ride operators to carry liability insurance. A policy must be in force, written by an insurer licensed to do business in this state in an amount of not less than $1 million per occurrence. Amusement rides must be inspected annually by the insurance company. Operators must file a certificate of insurance and proof of the company inspection with each sponsor, lessor or landlord responsible for the use of the ride by the public.

TRF reaches Section 8 Tier I hockey semifinals...

Prowlers beat Otters 8-4

A great save by goalie Trevor Haugen started it, then Thief River Falls scorers took over Saturday as the No. 5-seeded Prowlers eliminated fourth-seeded Fergus Falls 8-4 in the opening round of the 1993 Section 8 Tier I high school hockey tournament.

The win was the fifth straight victory for the 12-10-1 Prowlers, moving them into Tuesday's semifinals against No. 1-seeded Moorhead. Fergus Falls finished the year at 16-7.

Fergus Falls was the only team losing a quarterfinal home ice decision as Moorhead beat No. 8 Crookston 3-1, No. 2-seeded Roseau handled No. 7 Brainerd/Pillager 8-1 and No. 3-seeded Warroad eliminated No. 6 East Grand Forks 7-2.

Thief River Falls, a 5-2 winner over Fergus Falls in the regular season finale two weeks earlier, got a five-point game out of Jason Svir (3 goals, 2 assists), two goals from Corey Olson, a goal and two assists from both Kaine Martell and Carter Rogalla, along with a single goal by Rick Ostby and three assists by Marc Haugen.

But the first big play came from Trevor Haugen, who was prone on the ice when he stretched out and robbed the Otters' Cole O'Rourke with a glove save just 2:10 into game. Forty-six seconds later Ostby put a quick rebound past Fergus Falls goalie Chris Horgen to ignite the Prowlers' offense.

Olson scored twice on successive shifts as he finished off a scramble by batting the puck in from the side at 8:21, and then hit an open net at 10:43 after Horgen kicked out a long rebound for the 3-0 first period advantage.

"We got off to a great start in somebody else's building," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo. "That was a real key. The kids were focused; they had good concentration and good intensity."

Hard work by Fergus Falls' Greg Buckmeier netted him a shorthanded goal just 2:15 into the second period when the regular season Section 8 scoring leader hit the upper corner with a long hard shot to pull the Otters within 3-1.

But the comeback was short-lived as the same penalty situation produced a power play goal for Svir just 58 seconds later. Using his speed to turn the corner on a Fergus Falls defender, Svir cut in front of Horgen and put a point-blank shot under the cross bar.

It was 5-1 just 1:21 later when Martell's slap shot from the point stayed on the ice and went under Horgen – prompting a goalie change by Fergus Falls coach Brian Vatnsdal.

But the first shot Sean Lisko faced in the Fergus Falls nets also turned on the red light as Svir quickly converted a centering pass from Rogalla into a 6-1 spread at 7:04.

A long power play blast off the wing by Buckmeier made it 6-2 a minute later, but he didn't help the Otters' comeback efforts by picking up three successive penalties.

Thief River Falls scored during a 4-on-3 power play when Svir's speed again got him around the defense and produced an ice-hugging wrist shot that beat Lisko at 4:30 of the third period.

Fritz Karsnia's breakaway goal made it 7-3 at 7:34 and both teams picked up late goals as Rogalla put one through Lisko's pads at 13:41 and Buckmeier managed to complete a hat trick by scoring on a rebound at the final buzzer.

"We played a good hockey game," said Chiodo. "We didn't lose a period. We put the puck in the net, and we got good goaltending."

Relay teams head to state

Two Thief River Falls relay teams will compete in the 1993 Minnesota state high school boys swim meet, scheduled to be held Friday and Saturday at the University of Minnesota Aquatic Center in Minneapolis.

Second place finishes in the 200 and 400 freestyle relays during the Section 8 meet, held Friday and Saturday at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks, will send the two Thief River Falls units to the state meet.

Seniors Daryl Kiesow, Matt Carlson and Adam Jacobson, along with junior Brad Cota, swim the 200. Kiesow, Carlson, Cota and senior Brad Kragness handle the 400. Both relay teams set Thief River Falls school records during their state meet-qualifying efforts.

Top two finishers in each Section 8 swimming event, along with the top five divers, earned state meet berths. The Prowlers' 400 freestyle relay foursome not only came up with a top-two finish, they also met a state meet-qualifying time that would have produced a trip to Minneapolis even with a third or lower Section 8 placing.

Bemidji won Section 8 team honors with 374 points, followed by Fergus Falls with 362, Alexandria 248, Brainerd/Motley/Pillager 228, Thief River Falls 227, Melrose 168, Crookston/Tollefson Home School 114, Moorhead 109, Bagley/Fosston 108, Detroit Lakes/Frazee 98, Park Rapids Area 70, Osakis/Sauk Centre 66, Staples Area 57, and Morris Area 9.

"We did real well," said Thief River Falls coach Ryan Lokken. "There were a couple of disappointments, but we had some outstanding efforts."

Carlson had strong individual performances with a third place in the 100 freestyle and a fourth in the 50 freestyle, while Jacobson had an impressive showing with a fourth in the 100 breaststroke.

A 3-4-5 finish in the 500 freestyle by Kragness, senior Tony McEnelly and Cota produced a bundle of points for the Prowlers, but they lost out on a chance to finish third in the final team standings with a disqualification in the 200 medley relay during Friday's prelims.

State meet competition starts Friday with diving prelims at 10 a.m. and swimming prelims at 3 p.m. Swimming and diving finals will be held Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Huskies finish 8-13

Goodridge fell behind at the start and never challenged defending Section 8A champion Clearbrook-Gonvick-Trail Friday as the Huskies lost to the host Bears 71-50 in boys high school basketball.

Clearbrook-Gonvick-Trail jumped out to a 21-4 first quarter lead and had a 41-20 halftime cushion. It was 58-29 through three quarters.

"We got way behind early," acknowledged Goodridge coach John Rahn, who watched his team struggled through 7-for-24, 29 percent first half shooting, while the Bears were hitting at a 14-for-29, 48 percent clip.

"We're awfully young (three sophomores, two juniors in the starting line-up) and I think we were a little intimidated by them," offered Rahn. "We just didn't play four quarters of basketball."

Mitch Smsky of Goodridge led all scorers with 17 points. Joe

MCC boys end regular season with 15-7 mark

Brandon Borg hit a 3-point shot with 30 seconds left to put Marshall County Central ahead 52-51, and a lay-up by Tim Olson at the end cemented a 54-51 Marshall county Central boys high school basketball win over Stephen Friday in Newfolden.

The win ended a brief two-game Marshall County Central losing streak, sending the Nordics into tournament play with a 15-7 record.

MCC girls win in three overtimes

Three overtimes were needed before a winner emerged Saturday as Marshall County Central outlasted Tri-County 53-50 in the Section 8A Sub-Section 4 girls high school basketball tournament quarterfinals at Northland Community College.

"It was a great game to win, but I image it was a really tough one to lose," offered Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "It was a lot of fun to watch, I'm sure."

Marshall County Central had a 12-9 first quarter lead, a 22-14 halftime advance and maintained a 30-28 third quarter edge. But the Nordics needed a free throw from Sara Lokstad with one second left in regulation time to gain a 44-44 tie. The other attempt – for the win – was off the mark.

The first overtime failed to break the deadlock as the teams played to a 49-49 standoff. With Tri-County missing four free throws, neither side scored in the second overtime.

Trailing 50-49 as time ran down in the third overtime, the Nordics went ahead when freshman Tricia Pederson was left alone under the basket and she converted the opportunity into a 51-50 lead with 12 seconds left. And Marshall County Central iced it on two Lokstad free throws with five seconds showing.

Lokstad, a 5-6 junior, led all scorers with 24 points. Pederson had 14, including a perfect 4-for-4 fourth quarter at the free throw line to keep the Nordics in it.

Jeri Spilde scored 17 points to pace the Wildcats' scoring.

Marshall County Central shot 48 percent from the field (22/46), while Tri-County shot 37 percent (22/60). The Nordics went 9-for-14 at the free throw line; the Wildcats were 3-for-12. It was a 32-31 rebound edge for the Nordics, who also had more turnovers, 24-21.

A key to the outcome, according to Mjelde, occurred in the fourth quarter when a fifth foul against Marshall County Central center Sandi Gustafson was followed almost immediately by a fifth personal on Tri-County center Chanty Sjodin. That kept the Wildcats from gaining an edge in the middle, he explained.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River girls advance...

Gators win defensive game

Defense was showcased in a 39-34 Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Section 8A Sub-Section 4 girls high school basketball tournament quarterfinal win over Stephen Saturday at Northland Community College.

The Gators didn't wrap up the win until Krissi Super sank two free throws in the final seconds, then came up with a steal and hit teammate Sara Melby with a pass for a lay-up at the buzzer.

"Both teams were well-prepared for the game defensively," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "I told the kids beforehand it would be a 42-38 game and to be prepared accordingly."

The Gators led 10-9 at the end of the first quarter, fell behind 21-19 at halftime, but regained a 29-24 third quarter edge.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River had a 35-32 advantage with 18 seconds remaining when a long Stephen bucket made it 35-34, and a foul called against the Gators away from the play gave the Tigers a chance to turn a bonus free throw opportunity into a go-ahead four-point play.

But the first free throw was off the mark, and Super was quickly fouled – setting up the game-securing final points.

"We just couldn't put them away," noted Neibauer. "We missed a lot of easy shots, but we're

Matt Kuznia scored 16 points, Billy Holum had 14 and Ryan Rislov 12 for the Gators, who out-rebounded the Eagles 46-32.

"It was a good ball game," reported Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We started off well and played good, sharp basketball. We controlled the inside game."

The Gators had quarter leads of 24-18, 33-31 and 46-40.

Nathan Lubarski and Bill Tulibaski both scored 15 points and Chad St. Germain had 11 for the Eagles.

■ Mustangs lose playoff opener

Strength sapping illness that had been plaguing Red Lake County Central finally caught up to the Mustangs after intermission Saturday in a 59-42 first round Section 8A Sub-Section 3 girls high school basketball tournament loss to Red Lake Falls at Crookston.

Red Lake County Central led 8-6 at the end of the first quarter and trailed only 25-21 at halftime, but the Mustangs were out-scored 34-21 over the final 16 minutes, falling behind 48-31 in the third quarter.

"The first half was okay," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto, "but you could see it at halftime – we just didn't have anything left. I don't want to use it (illness) as an excuse. It happens. You just have to learn to accept it. But it did make a difference."

Dawn Bachand scored 14 points and Angel Mickelson had 10 for the Mustangs, who closed the year at 12-9. Jocelyn Hoselton of Red Lake Falls led all scorers with 19 points.

Red Lake County Central shot 49 percent from the field (17/35) compared to 38 percent for Red Lake Falls (20/53), but the Mustangs were just 7-for-20 at the free throw line, where the Eagles went 15-for-25. Red Lake Falls also had a 34-26 rebound edge, and Red Lake County Central topped the turnover figures, 29-25.

Another rally nets another TRF win

For the second time in four days, Thief River Falls overcame a double-figure first half deficit en route to a boys high school basketball win Friday – this time pulling out a 53-52 North Sub-Section 8AA decision over host Detroit Lakes.

Earlier in the week the Prowlers found themselves trailing Marshall County Central by 15 points before a second half rally netted a 73-67 home court victory over the Nordics.

Friday the Prowlers were down 31-18 at halftime, but again rallied after intermission to produce back-to-back wins for the first time this winter. And in the process, second-year Thief River Falls head coach picked up his first-ever victory over a Class AA school.

"We're real happy with the win," acknowledged Brekke. "We're real happy with the way we came back after being behind 31-18 at half-time on the road. The kids didn't quit."

Key to the comeback, explained Brekke, was Thief River Falls' switch from a first half zone to a second half man-to-man defense. "We became more aggressive defensively," he said. "We got in their face. We didn't give them the open shots. That was the big difference."

Detroit Lakes came up with just one third quarter field goal as the Lakers saw their lead dwindle to 38-37.

Thief River Falls' rally was nearly ruined, however, when the Prowlers missed the front end of three bonus free throw opportunities down the stretch, and they had to sweat out a 15-foot Detroit Lakes shot at the buzzer before laying claim to the win.

The Prowlers shot 50 percent from the field (22/44) and went 7-for-11 at the free throw line. The Lakers shot just 34 percent (17/50) and missed 12 of 25 free throw attempts. Thief River Falls lost the rebound battle 31-23, and gave up 14 offensive boards in the process, but the Prowlers also finished with season-low 10 turnovers – the same figure as the Lakers.

"We gave up too many offensive rebounds, but we handled the ball much better than we have been," noted Brekke.

Kyle Sanden and John Gunstad led the Prowlers 21 and 15 points, respectively. Toby Steinmetz finished with a game-high 22 points for the Lakers.

Thief River Falls, 4-17, will finish its regular season schedule at home Friday against Moorhead, a team that swamped the Prowlers 114-29 a month ago.

Eagles hold on to defeat Rams

Grygla-Gatzke turned a late-game four-point deficit into a four-point win Friday as the Eagles closed out their regular season boys high school basketball schedule with a 62-58 win over visiting Roseau.

Ahead 12-11 and 25-23 at the first two quarter stops, Grygla-Gatzke fell behind 43-42 at the end of the third quarter, but two Jeremy Engelstad baskets in the final three second did shave a 43-38 gap to a single point to start the final period.

"That was a big turnaround right at the end of the third quarter," pointed out Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "That got us going and kept us from falling too far behind."

The Eagles won it when Engelstad made one of two free throws and Mike Jelle grabbed the rebound on the second shot, putting it back in the basket with six seconds left, to expand a 59-58 lead.

"We were on the ropes so many times I felt like "Rocky," said Johnson, "but we kept coming back. We did a nice job. I thought we played pretty good defense, especially Jelle and (Rick) Warne."

Engelstad scored 24 points to lead the Eagles, while Dave Pankratz and Jeff Taylor provided the Rams with a 1-2 scoring punch by netting 25 and 21 points, respectively.

Grygla-Gatzke shot 44 percent from the field (25/57) and went 10-for-19 at the free throw line. Roseau shot 49 percent (24/44) and had an 8-for-12 night at the line. The smaller Eagles out-rebounded the Rams 29-24, and Roseau had more turnovers, 13-7.

The win ended a .500 regular season for the Eagles at 11-11.

Old Mill Park to host moonlight ski on March 6

Old Mill State Park and the Gnordic Gnomes Cross Country Ski club will host an evening of skiing Saturday, March 6, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. In addition to the full moon of March, candle luminaries will also be set along a portion of the trails to guide skiers.

Hot refreshments will be available around the stone fireplace in the picnic shelter and skiers are asked to bring snacks to share. The Red River Valley Fiddlers will provide music during the evening. All ages and skiing skill levels are encouraged to experience this unique skiing opportunity under the moon. The lighted trail will be a gentle ski loop suitable for beginners.

Cross country ski trails and sliding hill at Old Mill are currently in very good condition with six inches of base and 13 to 14 inches of snow in the park. All ski trails are packed and groomed.

Park stickers are required on all vehicles entering state parks. Daily stickers are $4 and annuals are $18. Minnesota ski passes are required for those 16 to 64 years old who use groomed trails. Statewide, daily passes are $1 and annual individual passes are $5 and are available at all state parks and county court buildings. These fees help keep state parks and services open and trails maintained and groomed for skiing. For more information call 437-8174.

Outdoor News

Fishing Regulations booklet

Minnesota anglers anxious for the ice to melt and the summer opener to arrive can take a step in preparation. Fishing licenses and fishing regulations booklets (synopses) are new available at licenses agents, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

License fees remain the same as last year, with the individual resident license priced at $13 for those ages 16-64, and $4.50 for those 65 and older. The resident combination (husband and wife) licenses are $17.50.

Fishing licenses are sold at many sporting goods stores, bait shops and other retail outlets.

The synopsis, redesigned last year to make it more "reader friendly," includes a variety of information in an easy-to-read format, according to the DNR. It includes basic fishing regulations, license information, catch-and-release tips; state fish records, information on exotic species, answers to frequently asked questions, and much more.

DNR Poster Contest

To many a passing motorist, a roadside ditch is a roadside ditch. To many wildlife species, however, roadside ditches are vitual lifelines.

Minnesota youngsters in grades 7 and 8 are now being encouraged to imagine those roadsides as the valuable strips of habitat they are for birds, said Cathy Fouchi, roadsides specialist for the Department of Natural Resources at New Ulm.

DNR's ninth annual 'Roadsides are for the Birds' poster contest is now under way, according to Fouchi. "Last year, 156 students from 57 Minnesota schools submitted posters in the contest, and we're hoping for even more this year."

Fouchi explained that the popular contest is promoted each year by the Minnesota DNR and various conservation organizations as a way of teaching youngsters and adults about the benefits of roadside habitat for wildlife.

Poster contest is generally conducted through art and science programs of local school systems. This year, students may also enter a poster through 4-H or other youth groups. Student winners and their schools are awarded various prizes, including framed wildlife art prints. More than $9,500 in prizes were awarded last year.

Top-rated posters will be displayed at locations around the state.

Schools and individuals that have not received formal notice of the contest may contact Fouchi in New Ulm by calling (507) 359-6034.

regular season," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "It was a tight tight game; fairly well played. We haven't had much luck the last couple of games, so maybe this is the confidence-builder we need."

Stephen led at the quarter stops 11-10, 26-24 and 41-36.

Tim Bergland

Following the professional hockey career of Thief River Falls' Tim Bergland

Feb. 22 – Hello hockey fans. Isn't hockey the greatest game in the world – I think so. It's played in more countries than any other sport.

Tim and the Tampa Bay Lightning will be in Winnipeg March 14 to take on the Jets. It's a Sunday afternoon game, so I'm hoping we can get a little fan support to head north of the border. You can buy your tickets at the door of the Winnipeg Arena.

Although he is getting plenty of playing time with a regular shift, and some additional ice time on the power play and penalty-killing units, Tim has been snake-bitten in the last five or so games. He's been getting scoring opportunities, but hasn't had any points recently.

Tampa Bay will go down as one of the better expansion teams of all time, having already accumulated 43 points for the year.

How about all the talk concerning the North Stars moving to Dallas. I'm so sick of hearing it. Norm Green, the North Stars owner, isn't much of a hockey person. He's too much into himself. If the North Stars move, look for Minnesota to get either the Hartford Whalers or the Tampa Bay Lightning in the next couple of years. Hartford can't get anybody to go to the games, while Tampa Bay's arena only holds 10,000 people and the city doesn't want to build them a new facility. They can't make a whole lot of money with that size building. If they can't work out their arena problem in the next couple of years they will be moving.

Sheriff's dept. cracks another burglary ring

As a result of an investigation into the activities of several individuals allegedly involved in a series of burglaries, another group of individuals face charges of burglary on separate charges.

Last week in The Times, it was reported that at least three individuals were facing charges of burglary, theft and criminal damage to property. Charges against those individuals stemmed from incidents reported in at least seven different counties. During that investigation, the Pennington county sheriff's department uncovered evidence that allegedly implicated several other individuals in a series of burglaries and thefts.

On Monday, March 1, the Sheriff's department announced that at least three individuals face charges as a result of an investigation into burglaries and thefts that occurred at residences and farm sites in several townships in Pennington county. The investigation involves at least six cases.

Items recovered by the sheriff's department include: tools, stereo equipment, welding equipment, fishing equipment, air hose and tools, electric stapler, transmission fluid, high speed drill and tools, compressor, battery charger, .22 rifle and many more items.

The Pennington county sheriff's department is continuing its investigation into the case.

Northwest Technical college board approves plan to guarantee proficiency

At its February meeting the Northwest Technical College (NTC) board approved for first reading a graduate guarantee policy. The board administers six technical college campuses, including Thief River Falls.

"Northwest Technical College will guarantee graduates to be technically proficient based on the curriculum in the program at the time they enrolled, or NTC will bear the cost of retraining them," stated Ray Cross, president and chief executive officer of the six-campus college.

Beginning in 1994, employers who find NTC graduates lacking skills that were a part of their program may re-enroll the employee for up to 12 credits free. Employers may choose the nearest Minnesota Technical college to minimize employee work schedule interruptions.

"A warranty is only one element in a larger accountability process with NTC," Dr. Cross added. "To become a world-class provider of technically-competent employees, we must design our curricula to meet the needs of one of our primary customers – employers. This policy will encourage us to work more closely with employers as we develop or change programs."

"The skill guarantee is part of the technical college's public accountability to its customers who include all Minnesota employers as well as the system's more than 50,000 students," added Dr. Carole Johnson, chancellor of the Minnesota Technical College System. "During the next two years, all technical colleges in Minnesota will be developing and adopting similar guarantee policies."

"Guarantees really send a message that technical colleges can provide employers with a quality product," said Gary Mohrenweiser, vice president of the state board of technical colleges.

"NTC faculty and staff clearly support accountability in producing technically competent graduates," agreed Karen Sollom, chair of the Northwest Technical College chapter of the Minnesota Federation of Teachers. "This guarantee publicly reinforces that value."

Northwest Technical College board chairman Jerry Flottemesch said that the guarantee "... demonstrates our confidence in the faculty and staff. We believe this is a win-win for everyone."

Artist/mentor program again offered in area

Arts council of the Northwest Regional Development Commission has announced that applications are now available for the 1993 artist/mentor program for performing and visual arts.

High school students from Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau counties will receive an award to study with a professional artist. Application deadline is March 1.

Students currently in grades nine, 10 or 11 may apply to study one of a variety of disciplines, including visual arts, music, voice, literary arts, media arts, dance and theater. Study sessions can be held from May through November, 1993.

"Goal of the program is to enhance each student's artistic creativity and skill through one-on-one studies with an artist mentor," states Linda Nelson, director of the arts council. "The students will be selected on the basis of motivation, commitment, creativity, potential and past accomplishments."

Application materials or additional information can be obtained by interested students by writing Nelson at the NWRDC, 525 Brooks Avenue South, Thief River Falls, MN 56701 or calling 681-2637 or 1-800-450-2637.

Professional artists who are interested in serving as a mentor for a student can call Nelson for more information. The program is offered in conjunction with the Minnesota Center for Arts Education.

Matthew Wold blows bubbles at the Early Childhood Family Education "Beach Party" last Tuesday night. The party included games for ECFE students, parents and older siblings. Registration for ECFE spring quarter is the week of March 8. Sessions are available for birth up to kindergarten. For more information call 681-8670.

Operation Round Up, a program established in January by Red Lake Electric Cooperative, is off to a fast start with 88 per cent participation in the month of January, according to Ron Kennedy, general manager of the cooperative.

"That is simply fantastic!" Kennedy said. "The high participation rate exceeded our expectations —and the participation rates at other rural electric cooperatives which have adopted the program. It illustrates the generosity and community concern of our customers."

Under the program, customers of Red Lake Electric Cooperative can choose to have their monthly electric bill "rounded up" to the next even dollar amount. The "change" is then allocated to a fund from which donations to community organizations and charities are made.

"For pennies a month, customers of Red Lake Electric Cooperative can be a part of this charitable and worthwhile program," Kennedy added. "If participation in the program continues at this high rate, approximately $20,000 will be raised and donated to worthy community organizations and charities each year."

Donations from the fund will be determined by the three-member board of directors of Red Lake Electric Trust, a non-profit corporation formed for that purpose. Directors are Mark Naplin and Bev Perreault of Red lake Falls and Gene Nelson of Viking. Ex-officio members are Kennedy and Red Lake Electric Cooperative's board chairman, Veral Mosbeck.

Originated by Palmetto Electric Cooperative in South Carolina in 1990, Operation Round Up has since spread to other rural electric

Narrow is the Way

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

True discipleship is a way of life. It is not only called the Way, it is also called the Way of holiness and the Way of righteousness (Matt. 21:32).

Sometimes the Way is called a gate or a door (Luke 13:24). Jesus is the door, the bread, the Way, the truth and the life (John 10:9; 6:41, 48; 14:6). The Way is also called the Way of truth (2 Peter 2:2). This truth must be practiced in order to enter the light (John 3:21). The light, then, is the good life and the good life is the God life or the Way that God lives.

No wonder true disciples are told to imitate God, speak like God and discipline themselves for the purpose of godliness (Eph. 5:1; 1 Cor. 11:1; 1 Peter 4:11; 1 Tim. 4:7; 6:3; Titus 1:1). We are to walk in Jesus Christ's steps (1 Peter 2:21; 1 John 2:6). Jesus said that the ones who believed in Him would be doing the same works, and even greater works than He did, because His earthly ministry was cut short (John 14:12).

Jesus' faith had works. When you keep Jesus' works by doing the same, you overcome your evil nature. And if you endure to the end, Jesus Christ will grant you to sit with Him and rule the nations of this earth with a rod of iron (Rev. 2:26; 5:10).

Jesus' Way is easy and pleasant (Matt. 11:30). It is the Way to peace (Luke 1:79; Rom. 3:17). It is the Way of the Lord (Psalm 18:21).

We are to walk in the Way or walk in the truth (2 John 4, 6). We are to walk in good works (Eph. 2:10). We are to be careful to engage in good works, for the one who actively, continually does good is of God (Titus 3:8; 1 Peter 2:12; 3 John 11). And the one who will not practice righteousness by doing good is not of God (1 John 3:7, 10, 18). Simple isn't it?

God is sorting out those who will be the doers of the word and those who will remain hearers (James 1:22, 27). The ministers of Christ's day, called religious Pharisees, wouldn't so much as lift a finger in regard to doing any good for God (Matt. 23:4). They did all their deeds to be noticed by men (Matt. 23:5).

True doers of good works for God are cautioned to have the right attitude (Matt. 6:1-6). They are told to pray in secret and give in secret.

How far removed from the truth of God many are today! It's a good thing there is a tomorrow, so we can immediately correct the situation.

Be a sheep and don't continue to be a goat (Matt. 25:33-46). Do all that you do in good works or good words (cheering up those in hospitals, in nursing homes, or those who are depressed) in the name of Jesus Christ daily, and begin to subject yourself to the righteousness of God (Rom. 10:3).

Solution Funds In Search Of A Problem....

A whole bunch of money has been pooled to throw at perceived community problems across Minnesota, apparently in the hopes that some of it might stick where it will do some good. The effort is now directed at finding ways to help spend it.

Minnesota's Prevention and Intervention Funding, a consortium of federal and state grant programs, has a pool of money which appears to total between $2,225,000 and $2,500,000 and, according to a recent news release, "is looking for communities interested in applying for funds."

Of course, the requests must have some stated direction. "Community programs addressed by this funding include alcohol and drug prevention, juvenile court systems improvement, post-adjudication programs, juvenile delinquency prevention, violence prevention, integrated service delivery and education of homeless children," the release states. "By coordinating these grant programs, Minnesota hopes to promote comprehensive prevention and intervention efforts."

All items mentioned are part of the state's collection of social ills and in need of correction and/or reversal if overall quality of life in the state is to be improved. How to go about such correction effectively has been a problem since the problems mentioned became problems. Very little success has been experienced.

Never fear, however, that the announced pool of grant money will go unspent because no one can determine a use for it. Workshops are being arranged across the state to "provide information on the grant process, technical assistance in how to apply for a grant or to answer other questions." One of the five workshops will be Wednesday, March 31, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon at the Holiday Inn in Bemidji.

The five workshops—plus a toll-free number to get information on submitting applications—should generate enough requests for funds over a fairly short period of time to exhaust the available funds put into the pot with enough applications left over to justify a "need" for additional requests for future appropriations.

The news release states that more than 600 requests for funding are expected to be received from across the state. Final selection will involve a community process with nearly 200 reviewers and then a detailed staff review from the involved state agencies. By involving an abundance of people in the process, enough problems should be discovered to use up the money available.

Results from the expenditure? Reports, probably. A bunch of meetings. Maybe some workshops and studies and discussion of how to achieve more comprehensive prevention and intervention and cooperation and coordination and cohesiveness and all those scholarly terms. Then the money will be gone and only the problems will remain—still as serious as ever and still begging for real answers.

Mock Trial Team Ends 4-1 Season On Only Loss

It took five trials before the Lincoln high school mock trial team lost a match, but the narrow loss to Fergus Falls Friday prevented a trip to the state tournament. It was the second successive year that Lincoln lost to Fergus Falls in the regional championship.

Teacher coach Cal Lindberg and his assistants—attorney Mike Jorgenson and legal assistant Lisa Jones—are to be commended along with the students comprising the mock trial team—Danae Dekkers, Lisa DeLap, Angelique Goulet, Ami Harbott, Jenny Nicholson, Kamien Ortloff, Jenny Saustad and Heather Shafland.

The commendation is not only for success in performance but for their approach to competition. They work hard, they study long, they prepare well and compete tenaciously, but they also show sportsmanship and class whether they win or lose. As a result they are respected by those who compete against them.

Coach Lindberg was especially pleased after the close loss to Fergus Falls on Friday to receive a call Saturday morning from Norman County East coach Roger Anderson of Twin Valley. Thief River Falls had defeated Anderson's team twice this year, once decisively in the regular season and again in the sub-region tournament by a much closer score. Anderson expressed his condolences for the LHS loss to Fergus Falls, said he and his team were pulling for Lincoln and thought Lindberg's team had a good chance to win.

While that courtesy speaks well for Anderson and his team, it also indicates that the Lincoln team conducted itself well enough to engender that support. We feel Coach Lindberg and his team have captured the spirit of what high school competition is all about. We hope it is contagious and infects every team and school with which it comes in contact.

To The Editor:

Thief River Falls is about to start on $18 million project that will have major impact on the community for years to come. Changes and new developments are happening all the time.

I wish "The Times" provided more comprehensive coverage of this important project. It is my understanding that the paper rarely covers school board meetings. Whatever the reason for this in the past, I hope you will alter this practice in the future.

First, I would like to point out an error in the February 6 article on the (elementary) school. Dr. Duncan was reported as saying that the elementary building is designed for eight sections for every grade. Instead there will be four kindergarten classrooms and seven sections for grades 1 through 5.

Finally, there was a school board meeting on Monday, February 23. One item discussed was that minor fluctuations in prices have made the cost of the project for the elementary school alone increase by approximately one third of a million dollars. Either additional money will need to be found or cuts must be made in the plan. Areas that may be considered to be cut include: (1) No sinks in any of the classrooms; (2) no overhead storage in classrooms; (3) cut down the area of the gymnasium by one quarter; and (4) eliminate storm drains, using an open ditch instead.

Certainly the community that this will impact should be interested in this information. I hope that community members on both sides of this controversial issue will continue to be involved in the process.

Sincerely,
Carol J. Haymand
Thief River Falls

To The Editor:

The recent forced resignation of University of Minnesota Chairman of Surgery Dr. John Najarian by University President Nils Hasselmo and the Board of Regents was totally unjustified. No good reasons were given. The announcement was made at a faculty meeting without any warning or discussion.

Dr. Najarian's pioneering contributions in the surgical and transplant field plus his deep commitment to patients is known throughout the state, United States and the world. He is my doctor. I received a kidney transplant five years ago at the University of Minnesota. I am only one of thousands of patients and he still has time to just talk. I am extremely disappointed with Dr. Hasselmo's action.

The University of Minnesota produces an anti-rejection drug called ALG, which is used by transplant patients throughout the world. Dr. Najarian was responsible for developing this drug, not a common thing for a department chairman. Overseeing ALG production was only a very small part of Dr. Najarian's duties as chairman, yet Dr. Hasselmo stated his only reason for forcing Dr. Najarian out was lack of administrative management in this one area. All other administrative duties were handled well.

I have seen no allegations that Dr. Najarian has personally profited from the sale of ALG. To me, therefore, the action appears very excessive and very unfair.

His presence at the University Hospital gave the whole transplant and surgical department a great uplifting influence. You could just see how people respected him.

The whole quality of health care in our state could suffer from his leaving the university. Dr. Najarian's department has attracted some of the most outstanding medical students and faculty in the world. His leadership abilities have allowed his department to develop new ideas and innovative therapies. Dr. Hasselmo's actions could discourage the most qualified students from entering the University of Minnesota medical school.

If anyone reading this shares my thoughts, please express them to: Board of Regents, University of Minnesota, 220 Morrill Hall, 100 Church Street SE, Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Yours truly,
John Michael Anderson
Thief River Falls

Hats off to Rick Nelson and Deb Jacobson! The Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors awarded the Action Award to Nelson and Jacobson for the hard work they put into bringing the Sub-section 4A tournament to Thief River Falls. Nelson explained that because of the new bleachers installed at the college recently, the seating capacity of the gym became enough where tournaments could be held at the college. Nelson said an ad-hoc group of civic-minded individuals were in the process of raising money for the bleachers when they learned that the legislature appropriated funds for the project. The main goal of the project from the start was to bring tournaments to the school. Nelson estimated that this tournament could bring as many as 8,000 people to the community. It took a lot of work to organize everything, but Nelson and Jacobson think the tournament provides and opportunity to show off the college and community. The girls tournament in Sub-section 4A will be held February 25 and 27 and March 2 and 5. The boys tournament will be held March 4, 6, 8 and 13. The Action award recognizes individuals or groups who make an extra effort to promote the community through their actions. PUBLIC NOTICE

The CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS Water Department announces that the maximum limit for Turbidity in drinking water was exceeded during the month of January 1993.

Turbidity is caused by the presence of finely suspended particles such as clay, sand, or organic matter in water. Turbidity can be a problem if it interferes with the Chloramine disinfection. However, the high turbidity level did not create a health hazard because the Water Department is able to maintain effective levels of chloramine for disinfection.

The Thief River Falls Water Purification Plant is currently in the construction stage of a 6.7 million dollar expansion and remodeling project. This project will enable compliance with the water quality requirements of the 1986 Amendments to the Safe Drinking Water Act.

Please be assured that the water is safe to drink. Any citizen seeking additional information should contact Allen J. Lamm, at the Water Purification Plant, phone number 681-3809.

THANK YOU
I wish to extend a big thank you to all who sent cards, flowers, gifts and visited me while I was in the hospital. I appreciated visits by Pastor Flostad of Silver Creek and Holt, and the grain drive efforts of the LYO (young people), and a special thanks to Gary Anderson who helped the young people unload their trucks at the elevator.
After 5 months, there are so many kindnesses to remember that just saying thank you has to suffice. May God Bless you all.

Booklet helps students set educational goals

Some students approach education without any goals in mind — a shotgun approach which hopefully leads them to a fulfilling career that provides security and mega bucks. Others approach it blindly, either not caring where it leads them or believing that if they do the time someone will be willing to shell out the bucks for their expertise.

It isn't that easy.

Counselors at Lincoln high school have been telling students for years that they have to take specific courses if they want a college education and/or are looking at a specific career. This year they compiled that information and put it down in a booklet called "Career Planning Guide".

Whitey Olson, counselor at Lincoln high school, said that as a part of their curriculum review one of the things they discovered when talking to parents was that they needed more information about the courses students needed to take to attain their individual goals. "We've been trying to do this for years," Olson said of the booklet. "This year Tech Prep provided the money and we were finally able to put the career guide together."

It really isn't anything new, it's something we've been preaching for years, Olson said. Only the presentation is different, he said.

In order to make sure the message was received in its new form, the booklets were mailed out to parents of students in the ninth through 12th grades. In addition, four sessions were held for parents so that the guide could be discussed. One was held at Franklin Middle school and three others at Lincoln high school. In all, Olson estimated that 325 to 350 parents attended the sessions.

One of the goals, Olson said, is to get parents involved. It seems that there is the tendency on the part of some parents to not get involved once their child reaches high school. Olson said, however, that it's very unusual for students to make the right educational and career choices on their own. They need input.

Olson encourages parents to get involved. Students need direction and maybe the arguments parents receive because of their involvement may result in something positive.

Parents aren't the only target of this information blitz. Olson and Bill Stock, another counselor, have spent many hours in classrooms going over the booklet.

Because these students are fairly young, they probably haven't reached a decision on what they want to do for the rest of their lives. Even if they have, statistics indicate they will make at least three career changes in their lifetime.

Students who are having difficulty setting goals and identifying career options can discover a whole host of options if they visit with their school counselor. Even if students have a difficult time identifying what they like to do tests are available that can help them make some career related decisions.

Meaningful work after high school without additional schooling is becoming more and more a thing of the past. Holding onto a job may be the real challenge. Education helps. The sensible advice offered in the booklet also advises students that planning a career after high school that does not include or require additional education does not mean that they cannot change their mind at some time and go on to additional schooling.

The booklet is divided into three sections. The first section outlines the minimum number of required subject credits mandated by Lincoln high school.

Section II outlines many of the educational requirements of career training found at technical colleges, such as Northwest Technical College in Thief River Falls and Northland Community College. It shows the kind of high school courses the student should take before they begin their tech prep training, and the kind of courses they will be expected to take once they enter college.

Career choices discussed in that section include: business management, computer maintenance, avia-

Sparby attends meet with Ag Secretary

During a visit by U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Mike Espy to Minnesota last week, Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls attended a luncheon with lawmakers and farm organization representatives where Espy was the guest speaker.

Rep. Sparby is considered to be a front-runner in the quest for Presidential appointment as director of the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Although no word has been received on the appointment, Sparby said in a telephone interview with The Times and Northern Watch Thursday, he continues to be optimistic that the appointment will come his way but is going about his legislative service as though it will not.

"We were quite vocal about the need to keep American farmers at the top of President Clinton's priority list," Rep. Sparby said about the meeting with the new Secretary of Agriculture. "I was pleased at his response. I believe Secretary Espy empathizes with our plight and will be a strong advocate for the farm industry."

Secretary Espy grew up in the Mississippi river's southern delta region and was making his first trip ever to the northern reaches of the river. He assured Minnesota farmers that he opposes any cuts that reduce federal farm subsidies.

"I'm from the South and I'm proud of my heritage," he said, "but my goal is to improve farm income in all regions of the nation, to change the image of the Department of Agriculture and leave it in high esteem."

He said he believes farmers can respond to President Clinton's call to service without sacrificing their livelihoods.

"We all must share in the pain if we are going to make serious inroads into cutting the deficit," Espy said. "However, out of the USDA's $62 billion budget only $10 billion of that goes directly to farmers. I don't think it would be wise to make any cuts in those farm programs right now, especially given the fact that we are in the middle of very serious agricultural trade agreements with other countries in North America and Europe."

According to Rep. Sparby, Secretary Espy also expressed support for several other issues, including:

- Boosting farm incomes—particularly dairy incomes—using the U.S. Farm Bill which Congress passes every five years;
- Allowing farmers to exempt ethanol from the gas tax;
- Restricting grain sales to Russia until the country is caught up on payments for past sales;
- Maintaining a balance between environmental concerns and farming by lifting unreasonable restrictions on farmlands.

"It's encouraging to hear a Cabinet member who can identify with the concerns and needs of the Minnesota farmer," Rep. Sparby said. "Secretary Espy may be a product of the southern delta region, but his comments indicate he realizes that we're all in the same boat when it comes to protecting our country's oldest tradition."

Program targets disposal of household hazardous waste

Household hazardous waste is the target of a new 10-county sponsored program.

The program's objectives consist of household waste education and household waste disposal.

The state-mandated Northwest Minnesota Household Hazardous Waste Management Program (HHW) held its first education committee meeting last Monday.

The committee's members include Gary Rice, Kittson county solid waste administrator; Howard Person, Pennington county solid waste administrator and extension agent; Bonnie Thompson, Clearwater county extension officer; Jody Horutvedt, Lake of the Woods county extension officer; Ken Murphy, Pennington county commissioner; Margaret Menzes, Farm by the Lake nature center; and Brian Hauge, HHW director.

The HHW will provide the member counties with education materials and an education program consistent from county to county. The committee will work with solid waste administrators and the HHW director to develop an education plan which suits that specific county.

The committee will coordinate the dissemination of household waste information with other organizations which are doing the same; identify other sources of public information on household waste and determine if there is a need to produce additional information; and identify the means of disseminating public information.

The committee will also educate people through the media, displays, a toll-free number and by assisting schools develop a hazardous waste program.

Hazardous Waste in the Home

■ Hazardous materials may be gases, liquids, semi-solids or solids and they can pose a threat to the environment or your health if they are improperly used, stored or discarded. The threat is judged by measuring specific chemical characteristics of a substance. A substance exceeding a specific limit for one or more of the following characteristics is considered hazardous.

- How easily it catches fire (example: gasoline)
- How acidic or caustic it is (example: oven cleaner)
- How toxic long and short-term exposures are to humans and animals (examples: pesticides, antifreeze)
- How easily toxic contaminants leach from it (examples: waste motor oil, paint strippers)
- How explosive or reactive it is with water, heat or pressure (example: aerosol cans)
- How much oxygen or other gas it adds to a fire (example: hydrogen peroxide)

Many common household products contain the same chemicals found in industrial hazardous wastes. These household products require proper use, storage and disposal to protect your health and environment.

Scouting for Food campaign to help stock area food shelf

Dear Readers,
Grief finds its way into the lives of all of us, and with grief comes extreme stress. Medical journals report that stress weakens the immune system and reduces our defense against disease. Many of our hospital beds are filled by people with emotional and stress-related illness. This is one reason we must handle our grief wisely.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

Seniors air issues with legislators

More than 20 senior citizens and service providers from Regions I and II met recently to discuss issues of concern to seniors with Sen. LeRoy Stumpf and Rep. Wally Sparby, both of Thief River Falls.

Roy Jorgenson, who chairs the Region I (Northwest) Legislative Task Force on Aging Issues, presented a list of priorities which emphasizes the enactment of legislation to maintain and provide additional supportive services that help seniors remain in their own homes and communities as long as possible.

Primary focus of the agenda is a request to increase state funding for senior volunteer programs that provide meaningful opportunities for community involvement as well as services to other seniors through programs such as the Senior Companion program.

Alan Goldberg, director of Headwaters Area Agency on Aging in Bemidji, indicated that its task force priority is additional funding for the senior nutrition programs that operate with Older Americans Act and state funding throughout the state. According to Goldberg, "nutrition is a vital service."

"Many critical issues were addressed in an animated exchange among seniors and legislators," said Faith Rud, director of the Northwest Area Agency on Aging in Thief River Falls. "The meeting was productive as well as enjoyable."

Minnesota Area Agencies on Aging receive federal Older Americans Act funds through the Minnesota Board on Aging reach year to support the dignity and independence of older citizens. Providing information and advocacy regarding aging issues is a key focus of AAA activity.

Fund raiser for the birds at local church

As of part its Christian Education curriculum this spring, the United Methodist church in Thief River Falls is offering bird feeders as a spring fund raising project.

Sunday School Superintendent, Key Teeters' Asp, says naturalists recommend planting natural shrubs and plants to provide the best year-round bird feed, however, she says a feeder can bring a variety of birds close to a convenient window, and provide some in-sight into the life-style of these beautiful creatures.

"Our curriculum this spring focuses on environmental and community care. This is a family activity that everyone can enjoy, and an opportunity to provide for a small part of God's creation. We really hope it will spark renewed interest, family by family, in caring for the world God gave us," said Asp.

The bird feeders are redwood, made by the Occupational Development Center in Thief River Falls, and are available for $5 each. Three varieties are being offered, to support the United Methodist Church Youth Ministry Program. For more information, or to place an order, contact the church office at 681-4388.

Speaking Of . . .

. . . Am I Wrong

It's common knowledge that being too close to something can keep a person from seeing clearly. Taking a few steps back from an object can often allow one to see the obvious.

It is also true that someone less involved, less knowledgeable about something can see it in a different light.

Now, most of us average people know very little about corporate taxes, foreign policy or free trade. However, from what I've been hearing, I suspect that this ignorance of the intricacies of government may allow us average people to see some things wrong with the country that those people who are running the government do not see.

I may be wrong, but it seems to me that there are certain things going on in this country that are plain as the nose on one's face, if the people who run the government would just step back and open their eyes to take a look.

People are unemployed in this country, right? The unemployment rate keeps rising. More and more people are being laid off from their jobs, or fired, or having their positions terminated, for one reason or another. Graduates are unable to obtain jobs in their particular fields, or even obtain jobs in lesser paying positions. Students are unable to find part-time jobs to work their way through school. Family bread winners are working at two or three low paying part-time jobs, if they can find them, to put food on the table, thus taking jobs away from the students who would normally work at these types of jobs.

People are living on welfare because they can't find jobs. People are living on unemployment compensation because they can't find jobs. When the unemployment compensation runs out, people are living in homeless shelters and on the streets because they can't find jobs. Supporting these people is costing the government billions of dollars.

What the country needs is more jobs for people, right? People want to work, they need to work, they are ready, willing and able to work. People are willing to work for less, word harder, work longer. If they are able to work and don't want to work, they should be made to work, no matter what. If they are unable to work, whether for physical or psychological reasons, they should be taken care of properly and cured, if possible, then to go work.

What we need in this country are jobs, right?

So, could someone tell me, or explain to me, or show me just what is going on with all of the big companies in this country, the ones who should be creating these jobs? Why are they being allowed to pack up and move to foreign countries and/or hire foreign workers at salaries that are unbelievably low?

I know there is something supposedly beneficial in this practice, something to do with taxes, free trade and foreign policy, and it has been said that the foreign workers will consume American-made products and thus benefit the United States, but there is no way anyone can make me believe that these foreign workers, making 35 cents an hour, will eventually consume enough American-made products to make up for the jobs lost to American workers.

Why are businesses moving out of the United States? The obvious reason is that they will not have to pay the salaries that they have to pay in the United States, but there must be other reasons, tax reasons and things like that.

I say, why can't the government create an environment that would make businesses want to stay in the United States? I say, why can't the government make it more difficult for those businesses who move out of the United States to get out of paying decent salaries to American workers?

Am I mistaken, or is there something wrong here?

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Is Thief River Falls a small town? Do people care about each other?

Apparently Thief River Falls is now a thriving metropolis where a person is no longer somebody. Old people are not somebody's mother, sister, brother or father here anymore, they are just a statistic or address.

Do I sound cynical? One would think something like the following would not happen in a town this size—but it did.

One day my mother's mail carrier retired. He was Pat Poole and he was pretty special. He cared about his job and knew that it was real people he was serving. His replacement could use some lessons from Pat.

My mother lives on a side of the street where there is a sidewalk. Her driveway is totally clear of snow, clear from the street to the mailbox and her steps are clear all the time. The carrier does not have to go though any snow at all to get to her mailbox. The street access from the sidewalk on either side of her home is shoveled. The carrier has to walk about three steps off the sidewalk, go up the street, and can walk up her clean driveway all the way to her mailbox without going through any snow.

However, there is a rule that her sidewalk is supposed to be shoveled. So, every day for—believe this or not—three months he walked past my mother's house without leaving any mail.

Across the same street there is no sidewalk. So the carrier walks on the street and up the driveways and delivers the mail. No problem. My mom did not have any idea why the mail wasn't being delivered. I found the notice to clean her sidewalks mixed in with Christmas cards, Social Security checks, bills that had gone unpaid, notices from creditors and personal letters in the two buckets of her mail that had accumulated at the post office during those three months.

I realize most people would have questioned the lack of mail earlier. However, older people sometimes require more attention and a little bit of compassion. Is Thief River Falls so big that we forget there are people living behind those mailboxes?

The mail is being delivered now under the same circumstances that had existed for the past several months. I would like to thank the postmaster and delivery supervisor for their help in getting this mess straightened out.

I hope the people who are in the service professions in Thief River Falls read this letter and think a bit. Let's keep Thief River Falls a small town that cares what happens to its citizens.

Sincerely,
Phyllis Lane

To the Editor:

We would like to commend Les Torgerson, Cathy Hagen and all the wonderful musicians who performed in the Master Works Chorale at Northland Community College Monday night. Their performance was outstanding!

We enjoyed it tremendously and would like to let the group know how much we enjoyed your performance. It must have taken months to perfect the selections . . . so diverse. . . from classical to jazz (and several selection in foreign languages) . . . with orchestral accompaniment on some. That talented group should go on tour with the Community Concert Series. . . but unfortunately they all have full time jobs and other commitments. If they ever perform again don't miss it. They deserve a packed house and we thank each and every one of you for sharing your talent.

Sincerely,
Annette Bergan

MSU accepts Gunstad into honors plan

John Gunstad

John Gunstad, a senior at Lincoln high school and the son of James and Rose Gunstad of St. Hilaire, has been accepted into Moorhead State University's Honors Apprenticeship Program, which gives top students the opportunity for hands on career training early in their academic studies and pays full tuition and fees for up to four years.

"In the past, our scholarships were not competitive," said Jude Poseley, director of the program. "We created the Apprenticeship Program so that area bright students could choose to stay in the region."

MSU's most prestigious scholarship, the Honors Apprenticeship Scholarship is valued at more than $8,000 over a four-year period for Minnesota residents.

"But the Honors Apprenticeship Program isn't just free money for students," Poseley added. "An 80-hour per quarter apprenticeship is tied to the scholarship. Faculty and administrators are mentors to students who work and study in an area of interest to them."

Nearly all of MSU's academic department and administrative offices sponsor apprentices. The work is meaningful: Mass communication apprentices are associate producers of "Campus News," aired weekly on public television. Apprentices in computer science are trained as "super users" and troubleshooters. Theatre apprentices are house managers and eventually producers. Music apprentices are staffing ensembles. Physics apprentices are trained to operate the planetarium. Biology majors assist faculty in primary research.

Gunstad, who is a top ranked student scholastically at Lincoln, plans on pursuing a pre-optometry program at MSU. He has been active in cross country, tennis, basketball and several music groups at Lincoln.

To qualify for the Honors Apprenticeship Program, students must rank in the top five per cent of their high school graduating class and 95th percentile on college entrance exams. During the freshman year, students must maintain a 3.25 grade point average and a 3.5 GPA thereafter.

Childhood screening clinic set

Next Thief River Falls Early Childhood Screening clinic will be held March 18 from 2 to 6:30 p.m. at Redeemer Lutheran church and is free of charge.

This screening is intended for children who have their fourth birthday in January through April of 1993. Another will be offered in May for the rest of the 1994 kindergarten students, although screening will be given to any child between the ages of three and five if there is the slightest concern about any area of development.

Parents whose children qualify for this screening and have not yet received an informational letter are asked to call 681-8670 for an appointment as soon as possible.

Minnesota now requires all children to be screened prior to entering public school, preferably around age 3 1/2 to 4 1/2. The screening includes a family interview, a health and immunization review and check for vision, hearing, speech, language and general development. Early detection of a child's health and developmental problems can reduce the need for costly care at a later time and such difficulties can be addressed before the child enters kindergarten.

The screening is conducted by trained professionals from the public school system and the county public health services and is provided at no cost to the participant.

A child does not have to have the screening done if he or she has already had a comparable developmental screening by Head Start, EPS or a doctor if he or she will be home schooled or attend a private school. Parents are asked to call 681-8670 and inform the school if the above mentioned testing has been done or if the child will not attend the public schools.

Student interest survey discussed by school board

Results of a student interest survey provided information for a discussion of additional sports programs and gender equity in athletics at the School District 564 board meeting Monday night.

Lee Alger, activities director for school district 564 in Thief River Falls presented the board with a copy of a data summary of a student interest survey. Alger said based on student interest the school district should look at an intermural program in the future. Students appear to be interested in participating in such sports as cross country skiing, downhill skiing, girl's hockey (not ice ringette), and boy's volleyball. Some activities, like downhill skiing, might not be very feasible, but others might fit into an intermural program. Other areas of interest include archery, bowling, curling, racquetball, and weightlifting.

Gender equity in athletics will eventually have an impact on sports that will be offered in the future. Alger indicated that there are a number of issues that need to be resolved, such as determining exactly what is compliance, and what would be the impact of a booster club raising money for a specific sport? Alger said it appears that if one booster club gives money to a sport, such as hockey, then the same amount has to be given to a girl's sport. That issue alone raised many questions for school board members and those issues have yet to be resolved.

Gender based equity in athletics generally means that if there are two sports for boys there have to be two sports for girls. In a situation where a sport has to be added to balance the equation, the sport has to meet certain criteria.

Other issues that will have an impact on sports in the future include court rulings. In the past few years the courts have been allowing girls to participate in traditional boy's sports and girls to participate in traditional girl's sports.

Board member Dennis Kiesow changed the general focus of discussion by pointing out that because of budget constraints the school district might be thinking about eliminating sports instead of adding sports.

What was clear from the discussion Monday night was that gender based equity in athletics will be an important issue in the near future.

■ The school district will go ahead with the purchase of computers for teachers, administrators and students.

Superintendent Bob Duncan informed the board Tuesday night that money for the purchase of computers will be available sooner than anticipated and that the school district would be going ahead with the purchase. Duncan explained that it will mean every teacher, and every administrative office will have a computer. There will also be full labs at Franklin Middle School and Lincoln high school.

Vickie Bjorgaard accredited as a MN County Treasurer

At a ceremony held during the annual Minnesota Association of County Officers conference February 4 in Minnetonka, Pennington County Treasurer Vickie Bjorgaard received an award plaque and certificate for earning the title of Accredited Minnesota County Treasurer.

The award was based on successful completion of 60 hours of classroom instruction administered by the University of Minnesota, Employer Education Service and sponsored by the Minnesota Association of County Treasurers.

"I consider this accreditation a great honor," Bjorgaard said. "The knowledge I gained in cash management, investing public funds, banking relations, legal issues and communications are valuable in continuing to serve the people of Pennington county in our rapidly changing world of taxes, public finance and business."

Bjorgaard has served as Pennington County Treasurer since elected to the post in 1987. Prior to her election she was Deputy Treasurer for eight years and has been employed with Pennington county since 1973. The county treasurer is primarily responsible for property tax collections, cash management and investments.

Rotary club hears plans for cap on State spending

Speaking at a Rotary Club meeting in Thief River Falls Monday, Jerome Carlson, chief executive officer of Instant Web Inc. and a board member of the Minnesota Business Partnership organization, urged merchants and residents to support a cap on spending by state government.

In an interview after the meeting, Carlson said there is a need for reform as opposed to a bandage. Carlson said he supports a cap on spending at the state level because the legislature has repeatedly spent in excess of state revenue and inflation and has shown no inclination to slow spending.

Recently the $769 million shortfall predicted by the Governor's advisors last year was revised. The shortfall shrank because the estimate for revenues rose by $449 million and the estimate for spending dropped $157 million. Although a collective sigh of relief was heard at the capitol, Carlson is concerned about the long-term economic outlook.

His message to Rotarians echoed that of Governor Arne Carlson's when the revised budget forecast was announced. Gov. Carlson stated that by 1997 revenues to the state will drop from 9 per cent a year to 7 per cent, even though spending demands will keep their rapid pace. The budget gap at the end of the 1996-97 biennium could exceed $1.6 billion at current spending rates, he warned.

"We have built up a spending system that has tremendous expectations that are beyond the capacity of the state, financially, to meet," said the governor.

One method of changing the pattern of spending, Carlson said on Monday, is to implement a spending cap, which could be based on Minnesota's consumer price index, inflation or personal income growth. Carlson said he would leave it up to the legislators to decide. Twenty four states have already implemented a spending cap of some kind and he believes Minnesota needs a spending cap of some kind.

Carlson said he was not in Thief River Falls to advocate cutting spending, most importantly because that's what some people want to hear. He does advocate slowing spending. He also supports reforms being suggested by the Coalition of Minnesota Businesses.

But on Monday, Carlson's message was clearly defined — put a cap on spending. Carlson provided some impressive statistics. In the 80's, he said, statistics show that salaries in state government increased 18 per cent, salaries of federal government employees increased 19 per cent while the salaries of employees of private companies increased by only eight per cent.

Jobs also increased in government faster than in the private sector. Between 1988 and 1991, statistics show that 1,700 new manufacturing jobs were created in Minnesota while during the same period 2,240 jobs were created in government. "How long can those trends continue?" he asked.

Carlson described the reaction of Rotarians as numbed silence when he pointed out that the per cent of income available after taxes ranked Minnesota 46th in the United States.

In addition during the last decade, taxes collected in Thief River Falls grew 84 per cent while the population declined by 12 per cent.

"We need to control the growth of spending," Carlson said. "It will happen, but why not a little sooner than later."

Carlson encouraged voters to write their state legislators if they support a cap on spending. "Let them know how you feel," he said.

Eagles' rally falls little short, 71-70

A game fourth quarter Grygla-Gatzke comeback fell one point short Saturday night as the Eagles lost a 71-70 shoot-out with Stephen in the Section 8A Sub-Section 4 boys high school basketball tournament quarterfinals at Northland Community College.

Grygla-Gatzke senior Jeremy Engelstad kicked off a 24-point night that gained him admission into the 1,000-Point Club for his career with a game-opening three-point basket, but that was the Eagles' only lead of the game.

Stephen led 15-12 at the end of the first quarter, had a 31-22 halftime lead and turned a 40-35 game into a 53-37 spread when David McGlynn drained a three-point shot from the corner at the buzzer ending the third quarter.

And a 15-2 Stephen run continued when Travis Swendseid opened the fourth quarter with a short jumper that produced an 18-point, 55-37 scoreboard gap.

But the Eagles didn't give up without a fight. They slowly got back in it and had a legitimate shot at completing the remarkable comeback when Engelstad sank two free throws with 41.5 seconds left in a 69-65 game.

Although they each missed free throws in bonus situations, the Tigers' Bryce Lingen and Derrick Jensen both made the first attempts in rebuilding a 71-65 lead with 29.1 seconds showing.

Grygla-Gatzke got those points back on a rebound basket by Mike Jelte, but with just with 8.6 showing...

Grygla-Gatzke senior Jeremy Engelstad took the ball to the basket as Stephen defender Travis Swendseid backed off to avoid a foul during Saturday's Section 8A Sub-Section 4 boys high school basketball tournament quarterfinal game at Northland Community College. Engelstad scored a game-high 24 points and went over the 1,000-point mark for his high school basketball career, but the Eagles still came up one point short in a 71-70 loss.

Gators win 51-48 in overtime

■ Badger/Greenbush-Middle River boys advance

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River lost a 16-point lead, but not the game Monday, holding off Argyle 51-48 in overtime to open the 1993 Section 8A Sub-Section 4 boys high school basketball tournament semifinal doubleheader before an overflow crowd at Northland Community College.

The Gators got out of a wild first quarter with an 11-10 lead and went into halftime with a 26-17 advantage when Daniel Koehmstedt finished off a three-shot flurry around the basket on a rebound bucket with 1.5 seconds left.

A 7-6 run in the first 72 seconds of the second half provided the Gators with a seemingly secure 33-17 cushion. But that security was short-lived as the Eagles came right back with a seven-point surge of their own, kicking off a 14-4 charge that sliced that 16-point spread to 37-31 with 1:27 left in the third quarter.

Argyle never did take the lead, but the Eagles certainly made it close. They scored eight unanswered points to pull within 42-41 on a Bill Tulibaski free throw with 3:59 remaining, then caught the Gators at 44-44 on a three-point basket by Chad Durand with 57.3 seconds to play.

"We're a streaky team," admitted Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We had one good streak in the third quarter, but we didn't have the same intensity in the fourth quarter that we had earlier. We let up a little. I think we tensed up – high school kids will do that at tournament time. But we got it done when we had to."

Ryan Rislov dribbled through traffic, drove the lane and put the Gators back on top 46-44 with 9.2 seconds remaining. But it went into overtime when a wide-open Tulibaski scored from underneath with .6 seconds showing on the clock.

David Blazek provided the Gators with a key play to start overtime – a mid-court steal and a fast break layup.

Nathan Lubarski tied it again at 48-48 by banking in a short jumper, but two free throws by John Sparby with 1:37 to play gave the Gators a lead they would not surrender.

Following the Sparby free throws, the Eagles had trouble getting inside the Gators' zone, with Durand finally forced to throw up an off-the-mark three-pointer from the top of the key with 8.4 seconds left.

"We switched to a match-up zone down the stretch," explained Eldon Sparby. "We played excellent man defense in the first half, but then we ran into foul trouble, and our kids were getting tired. I like the match-up zone as a finisher. You can cut it up pretty good when you're fresh, but it's tough to work against when you're tired at the end of the game."

Rislov was quickly fouled as he grabbed the rebound off Durand's miss. But he couldn't connect on the front end of the bonus opportunity with 5.7 seconds remaining.

The Eagles had a chance to tie it when Blazek was hit with a foul running through an Argyle screen on the ensuing in-bound play, but Shawn Anderson also came up empty on a 1-and-1 situation with 2.3 seconds left.

John Sparby finished it by making one of two free throws with .6 seconds on the clock.

Holum, a 6-2 junior, scored 12 points to lead the two-platoon Badger/Greenbush-Middle River attack, while Rislov, a 6-2 senior, had 11. Lubarski and Tulibaski, a pair of 6-2 seniors, led Argyle with 14 and 12 points, respectively.

Neither team shot well, with Badger/Greenbush-Middle River going 20-for-58 (34 percent) and Argyle finishing just 15-for-59 (25 percent). The Gators were 7-for-15 at the line; the Eagles went 16-for-23. Argyle finished with a 42-38 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 13-11.

Nordics get by Tigers 46-38

Not many style points were awarded in Monday's Marshall County Central vs. Stephen Section 8A Sub-Section 4 boys high school basketball tournament semifinal match-up at Northland Community College. But the only points that mattered were on the scoreboard – where the Nordics survived 46-38.

"It wasn't pretty," admitted Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland, "but we'll take it. We're where we want to be."

It was close until the Nordics out-scored the Tigers 7-2 over the final 1:47 – with all seven points coming at the free throw line.

Three-point baskets by Jake Rantanen and Shane Borg helped stake Marshall County Central to an 8-0 head start, and the Nordics had a 16-4 advantage when Rantanen picked up another trey from the corner late in the first quarter.

But Stephen closed the first half with a 12-2 run, catching the Nordics at 20-all on a short jumper from the side by Travis Swendseid with 34.4 seconds left.

It stayed close throughout the third quarter, which ended on two Jeremy Tallum free throws with 14.6 seconds left, breaking a 31-31 deadlock.

Bryce Lingen opened the fourth quarter with a three-point basket that gave the Tigers just their second lead of the night, 34-33.

But Ivan Hirst, a 6-3 senior North Border All-Conference player who returned to the team for tournament time after missing much of the 1992-93 season because of a knee injury, scored from the side, Tallum put in a rebound and Tim Olson came up with a bucket off a steal under the Nordics' basket for a 39-34 advantage with 3:20 left.

"It's nice to have Ivan back in there," noted Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "His size and shooting ability in the paint area really gives us a boost. We have kids who can shoot the threes, but we're lacking inside shooters without Ivan."

A drive by Lingen made it 39-36 with 3:05 to go, but Marshall County Central finished it off at the free throw line. Olson made one and Hirst sank two for a 42-36 advantage with 1:19 left. Another drive by Lingen brought the Tigers within 42-38, but Borg closed it out with two sets of free throws in the final 62 seconds.

Rantanen finished with a game-high 16 points, thanks to four three-point baskets – taking over a role filled by Borg in a 52-48 quarterfinal win over Kittson Central Saturday. Olson, who joined the 1,000-Point Club in the win over the Wolfpack, netted 11.

"Tim is always there; he'll get his points," noted Ueland, "and somebody else always seems to rise to the occasion."

Lingen, a 5-10 senior, led the Tigers with 13 points, while David McGlynn and Kuznia both had 10.

Shooting wasn't highlight film stuff on either side as Marshall County Central finished 15-for-43 from the field (35 percent) and Stephen went just 14-for-63 (22 percent).

"We got the early lead, but then really lost the edge," said Ueland. "But Stephen wasn't as sharp as they usually are, either. They could have

Jessica Borgen of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River put up a shot against Marshall County Central defender Shanon Megner during Friday's Section 8A Sub-Section 4 girls high school basketball tournament third place game at Northland Community College. The Nordics beat the Gators 43-40.

Nordics beat Gators in match-up of 1,000-point scorers...

MCC girls win third place game

Third place games are generally the scourge of post-season play. But individual feats made Friday's Marshall County Central vs. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River match-up a little more special than your let's-go-through-the-motions championship game prelim during the final night of the 1993 Section 8A Sub-Section 4 girls high school basketball tournament.

While awaiting the Roseau vs. Kittson Central title game, the early-arriving fans packing Northland County College gym saw the Nordics hold off the Gators 43-40 in a third place game that produced a 1,000-point scorer on both sides – Badger/Greenbush-Middle River freshman Krissi Super and Marshall County Central junior Sara Lokstad.

It was well-publicized that the 5-10 Super needed eight points to become just the second freshman in Minnesota high school basketball history to join the 1,000-Point Club. She hit that figure by making a free throw with 1:39 remaining in the first half, and finished the night with 14.

"Krissi works hard for every point she gets," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "She doesn't get any cheap baskets. She's 15 1/2-years-old and already has played against 21 special defenses. And even if teams don't use a special defense, they work extra hard trying to deny her the ball."

The key to Super's success, pointed out Neibauer is her off-season work. She attended five camps and took 20,000 shots during the summer between the seventh and eighth grade, and last summer went to four more camps and took 10,000 shots.

"The only reason she came in with 10,000 shots instead of 20,000 like she did the year before," explained Neibauer, "is that she got tired of counting. She probably took 20,000, but just quit counting. It takes that kind of commitment to be successful now days. If you don't pay your dues in the off-season, you pay the price during the season."

Meanwhile, the 5-6 Lokstad quietly worked her way to the 1,000-point figure. Needing 13 to get there, Lokstad picked up 12 in the first half and passed milestone by hitting a short jumper 1:12 into the second half.

"We ended the season on a winning note, and Sara got her 1,000 points. Those were real positives," noted Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. To avoid putting additional pressure on Lokstad and to keep the Nordics focused on the tournament, her climb toward 1,000 points was almost a secret. "We played it as low key as we could," admitted Mjelde. "It worked out great."

As for the game itself, Marshall County Central led from start to finish. The Nordics were up 12-8 at the end of the first quarter, had a 24-18 halftime lead and began the fourth quarter with a 32-24 cushion.

It was still a 39-30 spread when Lokstad hit two free throws with 4:50 remaining before Badger/Greenbush-Middle River went on an 8-2 run that cut the difference to 41-38 following a Jessica Borgen free throw with 2:01 still showing.

The Nordics' Sarah Gustafson hit a 10-foot jumper with 1:51 left to make it 43-38, but Raquel Kilen connected from the side to keep the Gators within 43-40 with 1:25 remaining.

Last shot of the game belonged to the Gators, but a rushed three-point attempt by Sara Melby with :2 seconds on the board was off the mark.

"We got the big lead early, but at the end we quit taking the ball to the basket," explained Mjelde.

The Nordics shot 51 percent from the field (18/35) and went 7-for-10 at the free throw line. The Gators shot 33 percent (15/45) and were 9-for-12 at the line. The Gators had a 20-17 rebound edge; the Nordics had more turnovers, 17-15.

Marshall County Central finished the year 14-10. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River wound up 19-5. Both teams were heavily stocked with underclassmen, prompting speculation they will be among the favorites to succeed the senior-dominated teams like Kittson Central and Roseau next winter.

"We had a disappointing tournament," said Neibauer. "We just didn't get it done offensively. But we're hoping our young kids make the kinds of strides like Kittson Central did from when they got beat as sophomores to winning it all as juniors and seniors."

TRF boys lose final ball game

Moorhead combined 25 offensive rebounds with 26 Thief River Falls turnovers Friday as the Spuds beat the host Prowlers 98-59 in a regular season-ending boys high school basketball mis-match.

It was the second one-sided Moorhead win over Thief River Falls this winter, but it was still closer than a 114-29 affair a month earlier.

"It was an improvement over the last time we played them," noted Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "We worked hard, and we did a few nice things, but right now, we're just not at that level."

Moorhead had quarter leads of 25-10, 46-26 and 75-42.

Four Spuds hit double figures, led by Sean Greenwaldt with 21 points. Preston Treat netted 17 and Tony Greene 10 for the Prowlers, who were without the service of injured 6-8 freshman center Kyle Sanden.

Thief River Falls shot 48 percent from the field – on a 22-for-46 showing. Moorhead shot 54 percent – 43-for-80. The Prowlers were 10-for-14 at the free throw line, where the Spuds were 9-for-17.

Moorhead finished with a sizeable 43-16 rebound advantage and had only six turnovers.

The Prowlers finished the regular season at 4-18.

Wolfpack wins girls title

Kittson Central out-scored Roseau 12-2 in the second quarter Friday en route to a 46-36 win in the finals of the 1993 Section 8A Sub-Section 4 girls high school basketball at Northland Community College.

The cold-shooting Rams made one charge at the Wolfpack when Charissa Lundbohm's three-point shot finished a 7-0 run to chop the difference to 29-23 with 2:09 left in the third quarter. However, defending champion Kittson Central promptly answered with a 6-0 quarter-ending surge and were never challenged down the stretch.

Kittson Central shot 38 percent from the field (21/56), while Roseau shot only 30 percent (17/56). The Wolfpack went 3-for-8 at the free throw line, where the Rams were 0-for-2. Kittson Central finished with a 34-26 rebound advantage.

Gators win 60-46 in sub-section opener

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River pressured Kittson County North into surrendering a 60-46 decision Saturday afternoon in Section 8A Sub-Section 4 boys high school basketball tournament quarterfinal play at Northland Community College.

Trent Wahl came up with seven steals and John Sparby had five as the Gators' defense dominated the action.

"We started kind of slow, but our second unit – our quicker kids – got things going," explained Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "Our man-to-man full-court pressure forced them into turning the ball over."

The Gators improved their record to 21-2 while building quarter leads of 17-9, 32-16 and 42-26.

With 12 points, Matt Kuznia was the only Badger/Greenbush-Middle River scorer in double figures, but 11 Gators put their names in the scoring column before it was all done. Mike Steen finished with a game-high 16 points for the Cougars.

The winners were 24-for-64 from the field (38 percent) and 10-for-16 at the free throw line, where Kittson Central was 7-for-13.

Huskies lose 59-34 in semifinal outing

Goodridge came up with just a single second quarter basket Saturday as the Huskies lost to No. 1-seeded Warren 59-34 in the Section 8A Sub-Section 3 boys high school basketball tournament semifinals at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

The No. 5-seeded Huskies, a 60-59 winner over No. 4 Climax/Fisher in the Thursday quarterfinals, started with a 6-0 lead. But the Ponies finished the first quarter with an 8-6 edge, and then out-scored Goodridge 14-3 in opening up a 22-9 halftime gap. It was 45-19 through three quarters.

"Their defense took over," said Goodridge coach John Rahn. "Physically they just manhandled us."

Chad Kujava of Warren was the game's only double figure scorer, finishing with 17 points.

Both teams struggled through 38 percent shooting nights, but the Ponies did it on a 20-for-52 showing, while the Huskies got off just 37 shots, hitting 14. Goodridge also had trouble at the free throw line with a 5-for-16 effort. The Ponies were 9-for-15 at the line and finished with a 24-22 rebound edge.

"They (Ponies) have big, strong kids," noted Rahn. "They just physically beat us."

Goodridge, 9-14, will close out their season Saturday with a 6:30 p.m. Sub-Section 3 third place game against East Grand Forks – at UMC.

Marshall County Central defender Jeremy Tallum tried to stop Neil Wiese of Kittson Central from getting off a shot during Saturday's Section 8A Sub-Section 4 boys high school basketball tournament quarterfinal game at Northland Community College. The Nordics advanced with a 52-48 win over the Wolfpack.

Three-point shots produce MCC win

Both teams connected on 19 field goals and 10 free throws Saturday when Marshall County Central took on Kittson Central in the final game of the day-long 1993 Section 8A Sub-Section 4 boys high school basketball tournament quarterfinals at Northland Community College.

The difference was four three-point baskets – all by 5-10 Marshall County Central senior Shane Borg – as the Nordics shaded the Wolfpack 52-48.

It was close most of the way. Kittson Central led 10-9 at the end of the first quarter, with two Tim Olson free throws and a fast break basket by Jake Rantanen closing out a 24-20 Marshall County Central first half.

Last Borg bomb, followed by a traditional three-point play by teammate Tim Olson on a rebound basket and free throw, closed out the third quarter and provided the Nordics with a 40-28 cushion.

It got interesting, though, when Kittson Central started the fourth quarter with a 12-2 run that shaved the Nordics' lead to 42-40 following a rebound basket by Jon Langen with 1:46 still remaining.

However, the Wolfpack was never able to wrestle the lead away from the Nordics. A press-breaking lay-up by Olson made it 50-45 with 26.1 seconds to go. A free throw by Scott Flatland and a rebound basket by Neil Wiese cut the difference to 50-48 with 8.4 seconds left, but two free throws by the Nordics' Jake Rantanen with 3.9 seconds on the board wrapped it up.

"We got it done when it had to," offered Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "These kids have been playing on guts all winter, and they did it again tonight."

In the process of advancing into Monday's semifinals with a 16-7 record, the Nordics also added Olson to the 1,000-Point Club. The 6-1 senior, who earlier this winter became the school's single-season scoring record holder with over 500 points, needed 17 to add the 1,000 point listing to his credit. He got it on a rebound basket with 3:50 left in the third quarter and finished the night with a game-high 25 points.

"It's a burden approaching the 1,000 points at tournament time," acknowledged Ueland. "But Tim handled it well. I really think 500 in a season – which is an awesome accomplishment – is more impressive than 1,000 in a career, and he already did that. The thing with Tim is, he never quits working. He's so tough without the basketball. He wears the defense down trying to keep up with him."

Marshall County Central was 19-for-54 from the field (35 percent) and wound up 10-for-18 at the line. Kittson Central went 19-for-50 from the field (38 percent) and 10-for-15 at the line. The Wolfpack had a 34-25 rebound edge.

Grygla-Gatzke boys fall 71-70

ing. Engelstad then finished the game the way he started it – by drilling a three pointer at the buzzer.

The loss ended a 12-12 season for the Eagles, but head coach Vern Johnson had nothing but praise for the way his team finished. "We had a nice ball club," said Johnson. "We just couldn't get over the hump tonight. That shot at the end of the third quarter was a hard one to take. I'll bet 95 percent of the teams in the state would have folded at that point. But we're one of the 5 percent that wouldn't quit. I'm really proud of the way the kids came back."

It was a game featuring 17 three-point shots – nine for the Eagles and eight for the Tigers – along with eight double-figure scorers. McGlynn led the Tigers with 23 points.

Engelstad needed 15 points to become the Eagles' first member of the 1,000 Point Club on the boys side. He hit that figure at the free throw line with 6:24 left.

"I think Jeremy is the best player in the area," offered Johnson. "He's a good one."

Grygla-Gatzke shot 43 percent from the field for the night (25/58) and went 11-for-14 at the free throw line. Stephen shot 40 per cent (22/55) and had a 19-for-27 free throw night that included a 14-for-19 fourth quarter. The Tigers made 12 of their first 13 final period free throws to stave off the Eagles' comeback, but then missed five of their last seven to make it interesting.

Stephen had just a 32-31 edge in rebounds, but did have an 13-9 advantage on the offensive end.

"It seemed like whenever the ball was tipped, or when it was loose, or a long rebound came out, they got it," said Johnson. "But that's a credit to them. They hustled after everything."

The Nordics were only 11-for-19 at the free throw line for the night, but they did have a 7-for-11 fourth quarter. The Tigers went 4-for-9 at the line. Stephen finished with a 35-33 rebound edge; Marshall County Central topped the turnover charts 13-10.

TRF, Roseau met in '83 title game

By John Michael Anderson

The [illegible] annual Section 8 hockey tournament held in 1983 at the East Grand Forks Civic Center featured a very strong field of contenders. Five teams finished the sectional standings with ten wins or more. Fergus Falls finished on top with a 14-1 record. They were followed by Lake of the Woods (15-2), Thief River Falls (12-3), Bemidji (10-3), Roseau (10-4), Alexandria (7-4), Brainerd (6-4), East Grand Forks (7-6), Indus (6-6), Red Lake Falls (6-10), Detroit Lakes (6-11), Warroad (5-10), Crookston (5-10), Little Falls (3-7), Hallock (3-10), Moorhead (1-12), Crosby Ironton (0-12), and Bagley (0-10).

Detroit Lakes Coach Duane Earnest noted that Fergus Falls had to be the Section 8 favorite entering regional action. "Every team in the section has certain strengths and weaknesses," said Earnest, "but Fergus Falls perhaps has the fewest. They have depth, with possibly four lines that can play at any level, and good defensemen. Their goaltending has been up and down and that may be their biggest weakness.

"Bemidji," said Earnest, "has an excellent team, but are small and have trouble with the physical game. Roseau has tradition on its side, but lacks the one outstanding player. I would say that Roseau's question marks are defense and goaltending." Commenting on the Prowlers' chances, Earnest said, "Thief River Falls is a potential section champion. They seem to be rolling along pretty strong, but needed overtime to beat Warroad, and I understand they lack consistent goaltending."

In sub-section play, East Grand Forks defeated Crookston 3-2 in overtime, Roseau beat Warroad 8-2, Detroit Lakes edged Brainerd 4-2, and Moorhead defeated Alexandria 5-4 in overtime. Those four joined Fergus Falls, Bemidji, Lake of the Woods, and Thief River Falls, who earned automatic tournament berths by finishing in the top four in sectional standings.

The quarterfinals were full of upsets. Fergus Falls, seeded No. 1, lost to 8th-seeded East Grand Forks 7-4 in the tournament's opening game. Then, 5th-seeded Roseau beat 4th-seeded Bemidji 5-1. Number 2-seeded Lake of the Woods lost to 7th-seeded Detroit Lakes 5-4. Only 3rd-seeded Thief River Falls held service, defeating Moorhead 5-2.

The Rams had split with the Jacks, led by seniors Ron and Don Smith, Tim Webb and All-Section 8 goalie, Mike Sauer. Roseau coach Gary Hokanson credited his defense with keeping the Rams in control most of the game.

In semifinal action, Roseau edged East Grand Forks 3-2 while Thief River Falls routed Detroit Lakes 9-2.

The Roseau-EGF game was a wide open end hockey game. Chad Johnson scored twice and senior wing Bruce Helegeson got the game-winner early in the third period. Roseau goalie Don Johnson played a great game and shut down the Green Wave after Helgeson's goal against Detroit Lakes.

The Prowlers led 4-0 after period one and 7-0 after period two, with Tim Bergland and Steve Wiskow getting hat tricks and Tom Kenville notching four assists. The Prowlers attack was much more intense than it was in their quarterfinal victory over Moorhead. "I'm impressed with the way they came out," said Detroit Lakes coach Duane Earnest. "They surprised us. I thought Thief River would come out more conser[illegible] They came at us hard. They took the puck away from us."

Today's championship game was a battle and may be remembered as one of the finest ever. Roseau's Paul Broten scored a power play goal 44 seconds into the second period that proved to be the only offense in a game dominated by goaltending and defense. Prowler goalie Kerry Weiland had 25 saves while Roseau's Don Johnson saved 23.

"The key moment in the game came late in the third period," noted Hokanson. "Tim Bergland had Don Johnson down and out of the net. His shot to the wide open net deflected high off the glass. It wasn't until the trip home that we discovered what happened on the play. Paul Erickson stuck out his foot at the last second and the puck went off the toe of his skate."

Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand and Hokanson both said they were surprised at the low score. "I'm a little bit surprised it was that low scoring," acknowledged Grand. "It was the first time we've been shut out this season and obviously it couldn't have come at a worse time. We're disappointed we didn't generate more good offensive opportunities." He added, "I was impressed with the incredible community support and the high level of intensity and enthusiasm on the part of our players. We got outstanding leadership from captains Tim Bergland and Tom Kenville all year. Our players were totally drained after the game, both physically and emotionally. They felt they had given their best effort, but..."

I was personally involved in the tournament and season, doing color on KTRF radio. Roseau and Thief River Falls may have not been the best teams all season, but they were the best when it counted most at tournament time. It was a great tournament and a tremendous championship game. I was emotionally drained, especially when the play by play announcer, Jim Olson, left me and went to get an interview immediately after the game ended. I didn't say much; we did a lot of commercials until he returned. It was a very tough loss for the Prowlers, and for their great fans, who had been shut out of the state hockey tournament since 1965. This was their best chance during Grand's coaching career. Their inability to score in three key scoring opportunities cost the Prowlers the game. The key to Roseau's success was the improved play of junior Paul Broten, and as the season progressed, steady improvement of goalie Don Johnson. Also, the great defensive play and patience by the whole team was a contributing factor. Additionally, their defense, led by senior Tom Pederson, was almost impossible to beat, one on one.

In state tournament action, Roseau outplayed Henry Sibley for two periods, but lost 4-1. In consolation play, Roseau held on to beat Bloomington Kennedy 3-2, having to kill a major penalty in the last five minutes of the game. The Rams met tournament favorite Edina in the consolation finals, losing 6-1. The young Rams were physically man-handled by a veteran Edina club that was out to prove a point. Hill-Murray defeated Burnsville 4-3 to win the state championship, finishing the season unbeaten.

TRF receives Tree city USA designation

For the fifth year Thief River Falls has received the recognition of being named a Tree City USA by the National Arbor Day Foundation.

Co-sponsored by the National Association of State Foresters and the USDA Forest Service, Tree City USA began as a 1976 Bicentennial project. The National League of Cities and the U.S. Conference of Mayors are now co-sponsors as well.

To become a Tree City USA award recipient, a community must meet four standards: (1) A tree board or department, (2) a community tree ordinance, (3) a comprehensive community forestry program and (4) an Arbor Daly observance and proclamation.

Communities complete an application containing an annual budget and work outline, which is sent to the state forester who reviews and approves the application and forwards it to the National Arbor Day Foundation.

"A community's tree-planting program is a living memorial to the citizens' concern for the quality of life," states John Rosenow, executive director of the National Arbor Day foundation. "The trees we plant and care for today will cool our cities, fight pollution, conserve energy and give wildlife a home for years to come."

"An effective community forestry program is an ongoing process of renewal and improvement—a program of tree planting and care that continues through the year," he said. "The Tree City USA award is an excellent indication that there is a solid foundation for that process of improvement."

City forester John Johnson says that the Tree City USA award is important for many reasons. "It is national recognition of our citizens and local government concern for proper planting and maintenance of trees in our community. The designation of Tree City USA is also a requirement for grants to the city for tree planting and maintenance project. The city has used grant funds to plant trees at Red Robe park and will be using grant funds for landscaping the downtown parking lots."

Persons with questions about trees or the award may contact John Johnson at 681-1835.

Business Briefs:

In 1989 Jacalyn Gifts began as a wholesale plant and floral business. Jackie Filipy stands next to the gazebo display which featured plants and plant gardens at Hugo's #6 in Grand Forks, ND. Jacalyn Gifts marketed products to six major area grocers.

In 1991 Jacelyn Gallery and Gifts moved to its present location at 103 Third street in downtown Thief River Falls. The move allowed Jacelyn to expand by offering all-occasion gift baskets, antique reproduction furniture, crystal, brass and decorative accessories, candles, bed and bath products, and gourmet food and candy.

Jacalyn's in TRF continues growth

Jacalyn Gifts first began as a home-based business in 1989. Using home as her base for a wholesale plant and floral business, Jackie Filipy marketed plants and plant gardens to six area grocery stores.

In 1990, the business took on another direction, putting aside wholesale, and pursuing the retail marketplace. Jackie decided to introduce original art, wood carvings, pottery, jewelry, Chippewa Indian crafts, as well as her own silk floral designs. A home-based gift shop was born. Jacalyn Gifts became Jacalyn Gallery and Gifts.

As the business began to grow and expand, it wasn't long before she out-grew her home, and began to look for another location. In the *fall of 1991, Jackie moved down*town to the store's present location at 103 East Third street.

Since the move, the business has expanded again to include antique reproduction furniture, crystal, brass and decorative accessories, candles, bed and bath products, and gourmet food and candy.

In November of 1992, the addition of all-occasion gift baskets were introduced. The gift baskets include a variety of gourmet food, coffee, and candy items from the Gourmet Kitchen at the shop. Decorative mugs, note cards, books and novelties are also added to some of the baskets. All gift baskets are assembled at Jacalyn's.

Delivery service and shipping service have recently been added. These services include delivering or shipping gift baskets, candy, florals, or gifts of any kind.

Jacalyn Gallery and Gifts is located next to The Jewel Box, downtown Thief River Falls.

National Nutrition Month encourages good habits

by Kathy Barry, RD

This year's National Nutrition Month "Eat Right America" campaign message focuses on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Food Guide Pyramid. The Eat Right America campaign is a nation-wide program sponsored by the National Center for Nutrition and Dietetics of the American Dietetic Association. This campaign encourages you to take stock of your eating habits and learn to eat a variety of food from each of the groups in the Food Guide Pyramid. It's an easy way to build a better diet for better health by eating more whole grains, fruits and vegetables.

The Food Guide Pyramid pictured next to the story is an outline of what to eat each day. It's a general guide that lets you choose a healthful diet that's right for you.

The small tip of the pyramid represents fats, oils and sweets. This group includes salad dressings, oils, butter, margarine, cream, soft drinks, candy and sweet desserts. These foods provide calories and little else nutritionally.

The second level of the pyramid represent two groups of foods that come mostly from animals. They are important sources of protein, calcium, iron and zinc.

The third level from the top of the pyramid includes foods from plants. Most people need to eat more fruits and vegetables for the vitamins, minerals and fiber they supply.

At the base of the pyramid are foods from grains. These foods supply fiber, carbohydrates, vitamins and minerals.

Eating right means balance, variety and moderation. These are the basics of good nutrition. Learn these fundamentals and join the Eat Right America campaign.

100th day of school noted at Mark Twain

Mark Twain elementary school faculty and students observed the 100th day of school for the 1992-93 term February 23 with a celebration centered on the number 100.

Collections of 100 items were made by students and arranged in the halls, including groups of 100 smiles, stars, arrows pointing to the lunch room, flowers, hearts, fish, teeth and snowflakes.

Students also brought and displayed collections of 100 items—things they had arranged into groups of 100 or selections of 100 items from things the students actually collect, such as baseball cards.

Ashley Kelly earned the distinction of being the 100th student through names of students in kindergarten through second grade, listed alphabetically.

Faculty members said the students showed a great deal of interest in the celebration and good creativity and imagination in their display of items.

BIBLE STUDY
Self-righteousness or God's righteousness?

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

What is self-righteousness? Self-righteousness is righteousness done by self, for self, apart from God.

What is God's righteousness? It is righteous acts that God does daily for widows in distress, orphans and those who have no helper. It is anything God does in the way of righteous acts.

Can humans perform God's righteousness? Most certainly! Righteousness is the heart and core of Jesus Christ's message. Jesus did all His righteousness in the name of the Father when He was performing His Father's works upon this earth (John 10:25, 37-38).

We are to do all our works of righteousness in the name of Jesus Christ for the glory of the Father (Col. 3:17; Matt. 5:16). Jesus said to have people over for dinner who can't return the favor (Luke 14:12-13). He said to help people who have no money, visit the sick, clothe the naked, give a person a place to stay who is in need of it, practice hospitality, visit the widow in her affliction, help the orphans, and pray for people (Matt. 25:33-40).

On and on the Scriptures go, showing us how to do Christ's deeds or works and, in the process of doing so, to overcome our human natures (Rev. 2:26; John 14:12). No wonder disciples back in Christ's day did such mighty works (Acts 9:36). The apostles were making people who were doers of the word (Titus 3:8; James 1:22). They were becoming happy slaves of righteousness. They were doing God's Will, which is righteousness, from the heart (Eph. 6:6). The rich were told to be rich in good deeds with their money and to be ready to share (1 Tim. 6:18). Even Zacchaeus understood what God meant by repentance when he vowed to give half of his wealth to the poor and pay back four times what he had taken fraudulently from people (Luke 19:8). He knew God's policy never changes.

Ezekiel 33:14-16 says, if the wicked turns from his ways and starts to practice justice and righteousness, he shall surely live. If he pays his debts to others, none of his sins will be remembered against him. If he has started to practice righteousness and justice, he will surely live. Remember, God never changes (Mal. 3:6).

In every nation, the man who respects (fears) God and practices righteousness is welcome to Him (Acts 10:35). The righteousness God wants from us is His righteousness, not self-righteousness (I John 3:7). So, beware of practicing your righteousness to be noticed by other people, because that's self-righteousness (Matt. 6:1). Instead, find out what God expects and begin to practice doing your righteous acts for God's glory daily (Matt. 5:16, 20; 2 Tim. 3:16-17; 2:15; Col. 3:17). Then you, like Abraham, will be God's friend (James 2:23).

Refractive Surgery Can Dramatically Enhance Your Eyesight, So You're Much Less Dependent on Glasses or Contacts.

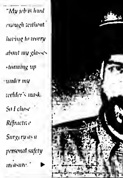
For Some Jobs and Hobbies, Glasses and Contacts are a Hassle. Some occupations can be more dangerous and difficult when you depend on corrective lenses. So, if you're tired of wearing glasses or contacts because of job concerns or sports limitations, Refractive Surgery may be worth looking into.

Richard L. Lindstrom, M.D.
Consultative Ophthalmology, Refractive & Laser Surgery

Refractive Surgery Works to Correct the Cause of Vision Problems. Refractive Surgery has been designed to correct nearsightedness. The precise microsurgery works by changing the shape of the cornea, thus correcting the way the eye focuses light. The 20 minute outpatient procedure can correct vision to 20/40 or better in 90% of the cases, and it's virtually painless. In fact, most patients return to work in two to three days. Even more reassuring is the fact that nearly 1,000,000 surgeries have been performed nationwide.

A World-Renowned Refractive Eye Surgeon in the North Country. Dr. Richard L. Lindstrom is widely regarded as a leader in corneal, cataract, refractive, and laser eye surgery. And now, select Eye Specialists in northwestern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota are able to offer Dr. Lindstrom's world-class Refractive Surgery services to their patients.

Is Refractive Surgery Right for You? To find out more about Refractive Surgery, you or a family member may want to attend a free information seminar. This eye-opening presentation lasts about one hour. Of course, there's no obligation, and free literature will be available. Space is limited, so call the phone number listed here today and let us know you'll be attending.



"My job is hard enough without having to worry about my glasses fogging up under my welder's mask. So I chose Refractive Surgery as a personal safety measure."

Teacher Says Governor Changed Tune On Education

In an open letter to Gov. Arne Carlson published in the "MEA Advocate" American history and art teacher Michael McKim of the Belview, Danube, Renville, Sacred Heart school wonders about the difference in two speeches by the governor.

"It seems like yesterday that my wife and I were sitting in the front row of the MEA endorsing convention. Being life-long Democrats, we had pretty much made our decision before you started speaking, and I must admit that at first you didn't have my full attention," he writes.

"Then I began hearing statements from you that I fully agreed with: 'Put education and children first,' 'a telephone in every classroom,' 'keep and attract the best people as teachers,' 'financial commitment' and the statement I remember most clearly, 'Don't worry! You won't be struck by lightning if you vote for a Republican.'"

McKim said he applauded the speech, campaigned for Carlson and contributed to his campaign, voted for him, was ecstatic when he won and even attended an inaugural ball for a Republican governor.

"Recently we again listened to you speak," he said. "This time you spoke about not raising income taxes, sales taxes or property taxes. Instead you said that teachers and other public employees would be asked to pay what is in effect a tax by not receiving a pay raise for one year.

"This is a state where for the first time our average salary has dropped below the national average; where our pension funds rank in the bottom third nationally; where the disparity between outstate and urban teaching salaries is as much as $15,000 a year; and yet we remain a state that leads in educational innovation and has the lowest dropout rate in the nation.

"'Sacrifice!' 'Share the burden,' you ask. We are used to sacrifice! We decided to do that when we chose education as a profession. 'At least there won't be job cuts,' you said. 'We should all feel lucky that we have jobs.'

"Obviously you don't know much about the reality of education job security. We know that pay raise or pay freeze, the Russian Roulette known as U.L.A. will still be played this spring and that those who survive will see more children in their classrooms and more responsibilities heaped upon them.

"We really feel that it is time that the people of Minnesota make the commitment to public education that is necessary to keep this state number one. Lip service won't do it.

"Arne, we're invoking that guarantee you gave us back at the endorsing convention—the one about lightning. If we haven't been struck, how do you explain the burn marks between our shoulder blades?"

Thank A Farmer For Lunch

GUEST EDITORIAL
by Joni Swanson
Member Penn-Mar-Red Chapter
Minnesota Agri-Women

What is the only industry that people must have to survive?

If you said agriculture, you're right. And if you eat or wear clothes you're involved in agriculture. Agriculture is everywhere!

Some 21 million people work in agri-business—one out of every six jobs. It all starts from the family farm, yet only two per cent of all people in the United States are farmers. The United States is the world's largest exporter of farm products, cutting the nation's trade deficit by 17 per cent. Japan is the largest buyer of United States farm products.

How much land do you think it takes to produce the food and clothing you use each year? Of the total land used to grow food and fiber, about four acres is needed for each man, woman and child. One acre is about the size of a football field.

Did you know that:

- A person will eat an average of one-half ton of food per year? That much food would fill a station wagon.
- It takes 15 pounds of milk to make one pound of cheese, 20 pounds of milk to make one pound of butter, and that a cow doesn't produce any milk until she has had her first calf—usually at two years of age?
- American farmers are the best producers the world has ever known? In 1960 each farmer fed 47 people but today one American farmer will feed 101 people in the United States plus 27 overseas.
- Only eight and one-half per cent of the average American household budget is spent on food. That compares with 19 per cent in Japan, 18 per cent in Sweden, 28 per cent in the former Soviet Union, 33 per cent in Mexico, 45 per cent in Iran, 48 per cent in China, 52 per cent in the Philippines and 54 per cent in India.

During Agriculture Week remember that Minnesota Farmers provide a bounty of plentiful and safe foods at a price hard to beat in any country in the world. On Agriculture Day ......THANK A FARMER FOR LUNCH!

Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota — March 11, 1943

Civic Groups Host to "Hip, Hip, Hooray"

"Members of the cast of 'Hip, Hip, Hooray,' highly successful home talent show, were entertained at a late supper party in the Palm Garden cafe Tuesday night, following the final performance. Six local civic groups, as well as the Victory Aides group financed the affair, no part of the cost of the party being taken from the proceeds of the show, sponsors announced. With Dr. E. S. Amesbury, chairman of the CSO, serving as toastmaster, brief talks were given by Mayor H. W. Kinghorn, Mrs. Jeanette Wright, W. W. Prichard, Kern M. Olson and Miss Connie Stefanik of Winnipeg, featured soloist in the show."

$825 Realized from Ticket Sales

"The impressive total of approximately $825 was realized from ticket sales for the three performances of the home talent show in the auditorium Monday and Tuesday, according to a preliminary report by Alfred Skarstad, who with Mrs. J. Arthur Johnson, is serving on the finance committee. The entire show committee will meet within the next few days to prepare a detailed statement of receipts and necessary disbursements."

T. J. Welsh Addresses 100 Children at Library

"More than 100 children of the lower grades of the public school assembled in the public library last Saturday morning to hear a talk by T. J. Welsh, former timber cruiser in the north woods, on his experiences with wild animals. Mr. Welsh brought out the lesson that animals will not attack people unless they are first molested."

—Wonder if we will get our usual Thursday blizzard today.

—Rationing programs would work out well if all folks would throw away their chisels.

—Drunken driving takes a big drop in Minnesota, says a headline. But we suspect that the decline is due to a shortage of gasoline rather than of whiskey.

—Editor Lud Roe of the Montevideo News gives us the impression that the book, "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" is a treatise on poker.

—We haven't heard of any Thief River Falls dogs going to war yet. A few of the pooches no doubt could be spared for that essential service.

—It's high time to start toying with that income tax return.

—Hogs, comments Billy Noonan of Baudette, are worth more on the hoof these days, but that doesn't refer to hoarders.

—A little present, we are informed, often smoothes over a terrible past.

—It will take a long time for some folks to see the point of point rationing.

—Let's make it easier for those volunteer Red Cross war fund solicitors by being prepared to give double last year's contribution.

—Sign of these rationed times: Reports indicate that garbage cans aren't filling up as fast as formerly.

—It is now more necessary than ever to make your shoes last, but it also is still essential to make the last first.

—With the girdle shortage in mind, a currently popular ballad, we hear, is "Hippy days are here again."

We miss your smiles, your loving face
Nothing will ever take your place

We carry on with empty hearts
But Memories Jason,
Will never part
Our life has changed in so many ways
But, in our hearts you will always stay
You were so young
Our only son
We know one day, we will be with you
And until then, we all miss you!
